PHILADELPHIA GIVEN OVER TO A CORPORATION

Council Passes Bill Placing City at Mercy of Traction Syndicate.

REPEALS REFORM LAWS

Grants Monopoly of Surface Lines, Precludes Reduction of Fares.

GANGSTERS DELIGHTED

They Grinned as One Councilman Vigorously Opposed Queer Measure.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Under the guise of a contract between the city and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., the gangsters of the City Council last night jammed through a bill which probably is without a parallel in the history of municipal corruption. One councilman had the nerve to oppose the bill vigorously, but his fight was hopeless. A gagged press helped to send the measure through.

The bill is a deed of gift to the traction syndicate in perpetuity of:

(1) An absolute monopoly of surface transit.

(2) Repeal of all regulatory legislation over street railroads passed at Harrisburg or in Philadelphia's councils during the last 50 years.

(3) Surrender of the city's right to collect car licenses, or license tax on poles or conduits, or ever to collect a franchise tax, or to order the wires underground.

(4) The right never to reduce fares or give transfers.

(5) Release from the obligation to pave, repave and keep the streets in repair and to remove snow from tracks, which cost the traction syndicate $586,000 last year.

What the City Doesn't Get.

In return for this the loosely drawn ordinance provides for an annual cash payment to the city of $500,000, and suggests that the city shall share in the railroad's profits only after a 6 per cent dividend has been paid for 50 years. The word "cumulative" in this cunningly drawn section precludes the city from drawing one dollar until 1957.

Common Councilman Thomas F. Armstrong, in a vigorous speech opposing the passage of the ordinance, declared it means an increase of $5,000,000 in the taxes of Philadelphia each year, a one-third increase in direct taxation for 1908 and future years.

Edwin O. Lewis, who led the opposition in the Common Council, declared that the sole excuse for passing the measure was to accommodate the executors of the late William L. Elkins estate, who wanted to close it up and could not market his $20,000,000 of P. R. T. watered stock until the laws of Pennsylvania and the ordinances of Philadelphia were repealed for their benefit.

The gangsters simply grinned, then passed the ordinance.

PHILADELPHIA STILL IS "CORRUPT AND CONTENTED"

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The World says this morning:

"A free press no longer exists in Philadelphia. Without exception the newspapers have been gagged by their subserviency to a combination of big advertisers.

"When one of the proprietors of the Gimbel department store in Philadelphia was arrested in New York on a serious charge and later committed suicide in Hoboken, not a single newspaper in Philadelphia presumed to print a line about the matter.

"In the same way the opposition to the pending scheme to bestow upon the Rapid Transit monopoly a wholesale grant of new powers for 50 years has been refused a fair hearing. From self-interest the 'Retail Merchants' Association,' which includes six large department stores, favors the scheme. It goes by the name of the 'retail merchants' plan.'

"The newspapers devoted no end of space to further the scheme favored by their influential advertisers, but City Councilmen, civic organizations, merchants and trades and individual citizens who for months have been conducting a campaign against the proposed ordinance find the columns of the local press virtually closed to their side of the case. In their efforts to secure full publicity they have even been compelled to appeal to outside newspapers.

"When a special class of business interests can so absolutely dominate the local newspapers, and a servile press so freely surrenders its independence, is it any wonder that Philadelphia still deserves to be called 'corrupt and contented?'"

McCluskey is Chief Deputy Register.

John W. McClusky, chief clerk in the office of City Register Regan, has been appointed Chief Deputy Register to succeed John B. Owen, resigned. The post pays $2100 a year. McCluskey is succeeded by John J. Leahey, a clerk. Morris Cohen succeeds Leahey.

GOWN'S LOSS CAUSES MRS. SCHWAB TO CUT WEDDING BREAKFAST

Maid's Oversight in Placing Dress in Trunk Creates Excitement in Hotel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., June 21.—Just because a costly traveling gown belonging to Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the former president of the United States Steel Corporation, should get astray is no reason why the Hollanden Hotel should be made to resemble a track meet, declared the manager today.

While Mrs. Schwab was at breakfast Tuesday morning, following the wedding of her brother-in-law, Prof. E. H. Schwab, and Miss Edith McGorry, her maid discovered that a beautiful traveling gown was missing. She searched in vain for it and then sent a note to her mistress.

Mrs. Schwab cut her breakfast short and joined in the search for nearly an hour. A small-sized panic prevailed, as maids, bellboys and other employes chased hither and thither. When everyone was almost exhausted, Mrs. Schwab's maid remembered that she had sent the gown, with others, in a trunk to the railroad station.

The trunk was returned and the gown extracted. Meantime, Mrs. Schwab had missed the greater part of the wedding breakfast.

BOWMAN DIED RATHER THAN LET SURGEON PERFORM OPERATION

Publisher Succumbs to Peritonitis Due to Diseased Appendix.

John L. Bowman, 59 years of age, died at an early hour Friday morning at his residence, 1919A Bremen avenue. Dr. C. W. Schaub of 2302 Salisbury street, who had been attending him, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Mr. Bowman had refused to submit to an operation for appendicitis.

Dr. Schaub said that death was due to peritonitis, which in turn was the result of infection caused by the diseased appendix. He said further that he had issued a death certificate in accordance with this statement.

Mr. Bowman was prominently connected with the Masonic fraternity, being the publisher of the Missouri Free Mason. He was a member of Rural Lodge, No. 267, which will have charge of the funeral, to take place Saturday from the rooms of the Kron Undertaking Co., Tenth and Clinton streets. Before starting as a printer, Bowman was a pilot during the Civil War. He is survived by a wife and two daughters, both of whom are married and reside in St. Louis.

ARRESTED FOR ABANDONMENT, HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Visitor at Circuit Attorney's Office Recognized by Deputy Sheriff and Finds Trouble.

Louis J. Giovanoni, 25 years old, of 1739 Dolman street, called at the Circuit Attorney's office Friday to discuss a warrant sworn out by his wife, Adele, charging abandonment. The sound of his name had a familiar ring in the ears of Deputy Sheriff Carr. He remembered that there was a warrant charging embezzlement against a man of that name.

He arrested Giovanoni, who is accused of having stolen money given him to make change when he was delivering C. O. D. packages for a dry goods house in April. He was locked up.

O'Connor—Heuchan.

Miss Mary Rose O'Connor and Mr. R. Marvin Heuchan were married Wednesday, June 19, by the Rev. J. J. O'Brien of St. Margaret's Church. After a two weeks' trip they will be at home to their friends at 3842A Botanical avenue.

400 MUTINEERS IN FRENCH ARMY DEFY CAPTURE

Whole Battalion, in Open Revolt, Goes Over to the Winegrowers.

CABINET IS FRIGHTENED

Premier Declares Mutiny Will Be Quelled by Arms if Necessary.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PARIS, June 21.—A battalion of the Seventeenth Infantry Regiment, stationed at Agde, in the Department of Herault, has deserted with its arms and ammunition and joined the insurgent winegrowers at Bezieres, the headquarters of the regiment.

The mutineers, who mostly were recruited among the winegrowers, number about 400 men. They marched into Bezieres, which has about 50,000 inhabitants, with drums beating and colors flying, and are now camped in the principal square of the city with stacked arms. The deserters tried to enlist the sympathies of the remainder of the regiment, stationed at Bezieres, but, failing to do so, promised to eject them from their barracks.

Early this afternoon the sub-prefect of Bezieres notified Premier Clemenceau that the mutineers had offered to return to Agde on the condition that they were not punished. A little later they renewed their demand to be allowed to reoccupy their former barracks at Bezieres.

May Call Out All Troops.

M. Clemenceau curtly replied that he refused to parley with deserters or consider any proposition but unconditional surrender, adding that he was determined to utilize all the Government's military, if necessary, to suppress the uprising.

Details of the mutiny show that a battalion of the Seventeenth Infantry regiment sent from Bezieres to Agde on account of the soldiers' sympathy with the local wine growers, raided the magazine, filled their pouches with cartridges, and with fixed bayonets and flags flying marched out of Agde and entered Bezieres.

When notified of the mutiny, Gen. Croisade, commanding the Sixty-first Brigade, met the mutineers at Villeneuve and attempted to persuade them to return to duty.

"Soldiers," he commanded, "kill me or obey me."

The soldiers replied that they had no desire to kill the General, but were determined to return to Bezieres.

Routed the Gendarmes.

A detachment of gendarmes tried to bar the road but after the mutineers had fired a volley in the air they were permitted to pass.

The mutineers, although without officers, marched into Bezieres in perfect order at 6 o'clock this morning, the cheers of the local crowds mingling with the rolling of the drums and the strains of the bugles. The people gave the mutineers a warm welcome and furnished them with ample provisions and supplies of straw, upon which the tired soldiers threw themselves after stationing pickets and proclaiming their determination to defend their lives in the event of being attacked.

Cabinet Meeting Called.

The news of the defection of troops, together with reports of other mutinous eruptions at various points in the provinces reached the Government this morning and caused the gravest concern. Premier Clemenceau immediately called a Cabinet meeting.

At the Ministry of the Interior inquirers were informed that the reports from Narbonne and Montpellier showed that both cities were comparatively quiet.

It was stated that the Government's watchword remained "The law must reign."

Interior Minister Briand indignantly denied the rumors that he has resigned. He said he was not such a coward as to desert his colleague in the present circumstances.

SNAPSHOT OF SECRETARY OF WAR TAFT TAKEN FRIDAY IN THE UNION STATION

SECRETARY TAFT TAKES EXERCISE AS HE TALKS

In St. Louis for Two Hours, He Has Conference With Festus J. Wade Regarding Catholic Philippine Claim.

Secretary of War Taft spent nearly two hours in St. Louis Friday morning. Most of the time he was in conference at the Union Station with Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., relative to the dispute between the Philippine Government and the Jesuit Fathers over the title to property valued at about $8,000,000.

Secretary Taft came in from Kansas City, arriving at the Union Station at 7:20 a. m. Mr. Wade, who has been in Washington for some time endeavoring to settle the question with the War Department, got in 25 minutes later. He had telegraphed Secretary Taft that he would meet him here.

Mr. Wade spent half an hour with Secretary Taft in his room in the Terminal Hotel and then hurried to his office to get some papers bearing on the case. During his absence Secretary Taft told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch that he would not announce his decision in the matter until he returned to Washington. He said that Mr. Wade had been appointed to represent Archbishop Harty in the negotiations with the War Department realtive to the ownership of the disputed property.

Bank and School Involved.

The Spanish-Philippine Bank, which the church has owned for nearly a century, one of the Jesuit schools and an asylum, are the principal properties over which the dispute has arisen. When Archbishop Harty was in St. Louis recently he selected Mr. Wade to represent the church in bringing about a settlement.

When Mr. Wade returned with his papers he and Mr. Taft left the hotel and walked up and down Eighteenth street while they discussed the question.

Secretary Taft left for Washington at 9 a. m. No announcement was made that he expected to pass through St. Louis Friday, and there was no one at the station to meet him.

Two of Mr. Wade's daughters, Mrs. Charles Scullin and Miss Ruth Wade, who went to the station to meet their father, were presented to Secretary Taft.

Taft Takes Exercise.

For a quarter of an hour before his train departed Secretary Taft and Mr. Wade walked up and down the station midway. The secretary seemed to be in need of exercise, and he lost no opportunity to get it while he was here. He said that he was feeling fine, notwithstanding that he had slept but four nights last week.

Secretary Taft refused to break silence as to his political aspirations. He would not discuss the presidency or the possibility of his nomination, or make any suggestion as to what he thought the issue of the next national campaign will be.

The Secretary was asked about the report sent out from St. Paul concerning his probable retirement from public life. He said that the reporters asked him whether it was true that he was worn out physically and wanted to retire from public life, and that he asked them to look at him and judge for themselves. He insisted that there was nothing he could say on political matters.

Secretary Taft ate a hearty breakfast at the Union Station restaurant. He asked for a seat near the window, so that he could look across the midway into the train shed and watch the movements of the trains. The Secretary ordered cantaloupe, fresh boiled eggs, sirloin steak, potatoes, dry toast and coffee. There was nothing left on his plate when he finished his meal.

STEAMER AND THREE MEN BURN

"Crystal Steam" Destroyed, Trio Cremated in Bunks.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 21.—The steamer Crystal Steam was burned to the water's edge in Washademoak Lake last night and three members of the crew were burned to death, according to advices received here today.

The three men were in their bunks and were unable to make their escape after the flames broke out.

OPERATORS MAY STRIKE IN FRISCO

Small Has Not Rejected Peace Terms and Walkout Would Be Purely Local.

SMALL'S INSTRUCTIONS.

The following telegram was sent out today to all members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union by President Small, "XN" referring to Oakland, Cal.:

OAKLAND, Cal., June 21.

To all offices working with "XN:" My explicit instructions to all offices working with "XN" are that our men stay at their work until I give positive and official instructions to the contrary. S. J. SMALL, President C. T. U. A.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—President Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union has not repudiated the terms of peace reached in New York, by which a general strike of telegraphers was averted. It is possible that a strike will be called in San Francisco and Oakland, but it will be purely a local affair.

President Small said the calling of the strike depends upon the treatment accorded the union committee by the telegraph officials here. If the companies will give the men a satisfactory statement or agree to arbitrate, there will be no strike. If they decline to receive the committee the men will walk out.

For the present only the San Francisco and Oakland offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies will be affected.

TRAVELED WITH SERIOUS WOUND

Arthur Thomas, a negro, journeyed from Collinsville, Ill., to his home, 219 Gratiot street, Thursday night, with a bullet in his body. He thought he was only slightly wounded. At 1 a. m. Friday he was found in a critical condition and taken to the City Hospital.

He told the police he was shot by a negro known only as "Big Joe" during a fight. He was under the impression he had received only a flesh wound. He probably will die.

"BUD" FAWCETT ACCUSED NOW OF PICKING POCKET

A new charge of street car pocket picking was added Friday to the accusations pending against "Bud" Fawcett, whom John B. O'Meara identified Thursday as his mysterious and murderous assailant of a year and nine months ago.

Frank Thompson of 3140 Washington avenue identified Fawcett as one of two men who robbed him of $65 on the platform of a Creve Coeur car June 9. Fawcett at that time was at liberty on bond on appeal from a three years' Penitentiary sentence, as he was when arrested by chance Thursday.

ANGRY WOMAN ACCUSES DOCTOR

Says He Called Her a Liar and Stopped Her Horse Without Provocation.

The case of Dr. Louis Rohlfing of 3521 Dodier street, charged in a police court summons with disturbing Mrs. Elizabeth Milbradt of 1332 Clara avenue, was called before Judge Pollard Friday, and was continued for one week.

Mrs. Milbradt is the divorced wife of Gustave Milbradt, who, after his legal severance from her, married Hannah Luckie, Dr. Rohlfing's niece. Ill feeling between Mrs. Milbradt and the Rohlfing family resulted from her statements in divorce court, where she charged the family with contributing to her alienation from her husband.

June 7, while Mrs. Milbradt and a woman friend were riding in Forest Park, they met Dr. Rohlfing in his buggy. Mrs. Milbradt says her friend remarked as the physician passed, "Well, who are we?"

Later in the evening, on Berlin avenue, Mrs. Milbradt charges, Dr. Rohlfing again met them, stopped their horse and asked Mrs. Milbradt what she had said about him. She says that when she denied having said anything to offend him, he called her a liar. She obtained the summons against him next day.

Dr. Rohlfing told a reporter he had nothing to say about Mrs. Milbradt's allegations.

CUT BY A NEGRO WHILE AT WORK

Prisoner Says He Was Attacked With Jawbone of a Cow in Fight.

Mike Bernage, 39 years old, of 315 North Eighth street was stabbed in the right breast by Bush Gay, a negro, during a quarrel over work at the Union Packing Co., foot of Bremen avenue. Gay told the police that Bernage was assaulting him with the jawbone of a cow and that he wielded the knife in self-defense.

Bernage was taken to the City Hospital, where his wound is said to have penertated the lung. Gay is being held to await the result of his victim's injury. The negro resides at 2501 Papin street.

SAYS WRONG MAN WAS ATTACKED

George H. Ballard, Not Brother, One Who Made Speech.

George H. Ballard of Maplewood announced Friday that a lawyer had been retained to defend his brother, who is to be arraigned before Justice Helmring next Wednesday on the charge of stabbing Peter Kubitsch. The stabbing, as told in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, occurred after a meeting held Wednesday night to discuss the proposed incorporation of Maplewood and Greenwood.

"I was the one they were looking for," said George H. Ballard, referring by "they" to Andrew Boenecke and his companions, who opposed incorporation at the meeting. "I made a speech which offended them. My brother hadn't said a word in the meeting. Outside they mistook Robert for me. When he was attacked by a number of them after it was over, he drew his knife in self-defense and cut Kubitsch, who was no innocent bystander, but was taking part in the trouble."

The Ballards are supporters of the incorporation proposition.

GOSSIP MAKES LOVELORN GIRL TAKE POISON

Lizzie Bohle Ends Her Life After Quarrel With Her Fiance.

DRANK ACID AT HOME

Man She Loved Had Heard Stories and Repeated Them to Her.

HER HEART WAS BROKEN

She Died in a Carriage While on the Way to City Hospital.

Lizzie Bohle, a young girl deep in love, took her life at the Metropolitan Hotel, 1829 Market street, because people had "talked about" her. The gossip, which reached the ears of her sweetheart and brought reproaches from him, preyed upon her mind until she saw no way out but death and she drank carbolic acid Friday morning.

Her last hope was gone when Felix Boettger told her that if the stories he had heard were true their wedding, set for Oct. 14, would not take place.

Boettger is the brother of Mrs. Louise Launer, wife of Bruno Launer, proprietor of the hotel. Lizzie had been employed since last August to care for Mrs. Launer's infant child. She made no secret of her infatuation for Mrs. Launer's brother.

When Felix hinted that marriage might be postponed the girl burst into sobs. The young man and Mrs. Launer left the room. Carrying her baby, Mrs. Launer walked down the hotel corridor, while Felix stood near the door of Mrs. Launer's sitting room, where Lizzie was.

Died in the Carriage.

Mrs. Launer had walked only a short distance when she heard a cry. Felix was rushing toward her from the room. "Lizzie has taken carbolic acid!" he said.

He called a carriage and carried the unconscious girl downstairs. When they reached the hospital the girl was dead, sitting beside the man who had unwittingly been the cause of her desperation.

Boettger was taken in custody by Sergt. O'Toole and held as an inquest witness. He is an electrician and lives at 2697 Caroline street.

Lizzie and Felix were childhood chums in St. Joseph, Mo., and when they grew older they always understood that some day they would marry. When the young man's sister, Mrs. Launer, came to St. Louis from St. Joseph four years ago Lizzie accompanied her. For a time she lived with the Launers and then she found employment in Kansas City. There she met Felix, whom she had not seen for a long time.

When Felix found an opportunity to come to St. Louis he asked her to come with him. She would not consent to accompany him, but said she would follow him if he would assure her that Mrs. Launer would give her employment and take her into her home to live.

Saddened by Gossip.

"I cannot go any other way," she said. "People might talk."

But careful as Lizzie was about preserving the conventions people did talk, nevertheless. They talked even while she sat dreaming of the day when she would be the bride of the man she had loved all her life.

They talked even to that man himself and aroused his suspicions to the point where he wavered between faith in the girl and fear that the stories which he heard might be true.

Lizzie and Felix were to have had a pleasant outing Thursday night, but it was spoiled by the gossips. They were to have gone shopping together Friday morning, but slander changed a wedding into a funeral. When Felix went to the hotel Thursday night to take Lizzie to the park he found her in tears.

"They have been talking about me," she said, "and a man has insulted me."

Went After Poison.

Felix went to the man Lizzie named. In defense of himself, the man "said things" about Lizzie. The ball of gossip rolled fast after that. Yarn plied upon yarn made the skeins which closed about the life of Lizzie, deep in love with her childhood chum.

Thursday morning when Felix went to the hotel there was a family conference. In the presence of Launer he told Lizzie the stories he had heard. At worst they were that in his absence she had been seen in company with other young men, but her girlish mind magnified them until they seemed to her a tragic and overwhelming accusation.

She left the room a few minutes. When she returned from a drug store there was something in her apron pocket, but the others did not notice it. Her chance to use it came when Felix and Mrs. Launer left the room. Felix, standing at the door, heard a choking scream. When he rushed into the room Lizzie was dying on the floor.

FINED $15,000 FOR PLAYING POLICY GAME

STAYS FOR NINETY DAYS

Prisoners Have That Time in Which to Raise Amount or Go to Prison.

Fifteen thousand dollars was the aggregate fine imposed upon four men and women for policy playing by Judge Wilson A. Taylor of the Court of Criminal Correction, after an attempt had been made to disqualify him from exercising judgment.

The penalty was distributed among Charles Henry, who was fined $7000; John Quincy, $2000; Monroe Bobbs, $2000; Sallie Casey, $1000, all of whom are negroes, and Edward Hilton, $3000, a white man.

Each of the offenders pleaded guilty. The court stayed execution of the fines for 90 days, at the end of which time he told them that the costs, amounting to a total of $1013.30, must be paid or a Workhouse sentence would result.

When the attorneys for the defendants offered their motion to disqualify Judge Taylor, he appointed Circuit Judge Muench to hear the evidence in the cases. Sometime ago Judge Muench sent several players to the Penitentiary for two years. As he walked into Taylor's court to take his place on the bench, the attorneys withdrew their objections to Judge Taylor. Judge Muench walked back into his own court room.

STRONG CIGAR NEARLY FLOORS BELLEVILLE'S LONG FASTING DOCTOR

Starving Physician Says He Has Found Sure Cure for the Tobacco Habit.

Dr. I. J. Eales of Belleville, who has been fasting 22 days, thought he would solace himself with a fine Havana cigar. He smoked [illegible] of it and then began to wish that he did not know that tobacco existed.

"Let me give you a tip," he remarked, "if you're fasting don't try to smoke. It will come pretty near flooring you. In fact, I don't know of a better way to cure the habit of smoking or drinking than by taking a good long fast. You simply can't smoke or drink when you go without food."

A test was made at the laboratory of the medical department of Washington University Thursday afternoon, the twenty-first day of the doctor's fast, to see if lack of food had thinned his blood. Here is a report of the test:

"The examination showed the constituents normal in blood in fine condition, viz:

"White blood corpuscles, Lencocytes, 5,300 per cubic millimeter.

"Red corpuscles, Erythrocytes, 4,900,000 per cubic millimeter.

"Haemoglobin, 09 per cent.

"Specific gravity, 1059."

None of the things mentioned in the report is contagious or likely to prove fatal, though the names sound deadly.

The doctor weighed 169¾ pounds Friday morning and declared he felt as fine as a fiddle and was not hungry.

FEARS ORIENTAL INOCULATION

President of California University Says Question Is Grave One.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 21.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California, who is in this city, believes conditions on the Pacific Coast, in so far as the Oriental peoples are concerned, are very grave and present to the residents a question that will not be easily solved.

In an interview Mr. Wheeler said: "It is not a question of whether the Japanese and Chinese will go to the same schools as white children, neither is it a question as to whether some of the Japanese have been assaulted or treated badly, but it is simply whether the people of the Pacific Coast shall become inoculated with the Oriental ideas and plans of procedure or whether they shall remain on a truly Occidental basis.

"Shall or shall not the Pacific Coast states suffer the same fate as Hawaii? Shall the states on the Pacific Coast be overrun with Japanese and finally feel the effects of their presence as it is felt in the places where they are largely in evidence?"

Is She an Acquaintance of Yours?

The Post-Dispatch desires to discover the St. Louis relatives of an elderly lady who lives in Los Angeles, Cal., and who has with her an afflicted boy or young man named Will. The lady's name is not known to this paper, but there is a suggestion that it may be either Houston or Hanston. She visits a family named Myer in that city. She has a married daughter in St. Louis, whose name is Sadie. A friendly purpose prompts the request that this daughter call on the city editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Child's Testimony Saves Mother.

Little Frances Dinsmore's testimoney in the City Hall Police Court won an acquittal for her stepmother, Mrs. Anna Dinsmore of 2345 Atlantic street, who was charged with cruelly beating Frances and her brother, Arthur, 5 years old. A woman testified that she had seen Mrs. Dinsmore strike Frances with her fists and with a barrel stave and seen her break a broom handle by hitting Arthur. The little girl denied that her stepmother had ever mistreated her or the other child.

IMPUDENT INTERVIEWS WITH VARIOUS INTERESTING ST. LOUIS INDIVIDUALS

Judge Daniel G. Taylor Discusses Marriage, Divorce and Swimming Pools.

WHY ONE MAN IS HAPPY

He Tells His Wife Not to Do Things and Profits When She Disobeys Him.

I. JUDGE DANIEL G. TAYLOR.

While I was waiting for Judge Taylor to come in, the janitor gave me a paper, and I commenced to read extracts from the Rev. Dr. Badson's sermon.

"Did you ever see any social savages in silks and satins, Judge?" I asked, quoting from the sermon, as the jurist entered.

"Come over to my courtroom next default day," was his answer.

That was better, it seemed to me, than starting on one of the Judge's hobbies—Shakspeare, for instance. Judge Taylor's friends say that if any of the numerous cases of the Crown vs. William Shakspeare, poaching, had been docketed in Judge Taylor's court, the crown would have taken a change of venue.

The Judge evades this issue by saying that he's only hearing civil causes at present. But it is known that he thinks the immortal Will was a prophet, and that it was not just a coincidence that he wrote "a Daniel come to judgment."

Various Splices Discussed.

"Default day," repeated the Judge; "that's the time to see skillful exhibitions of what we call the cut-splice."

I wondered who was meant by "we," and was about to ask him. Then I remembered that boat sailing is both fad and fancy with Judge Taylor. His standing grudge against fate is that he was born inland and never had a chance to go before the mast as a boy. He goes before some sort of a mast every time he gets a vacation now, but not upon the mast—they have never built a mast strong enough.

So if you sight the Judge's craft on any inland waters, from Creve Coeur to Huron, this summer, you needn't scan the rigging for him. You'll see him right on deck, with his Marcel-waved hair in the breeze, keeping carefully in the middle, to give both sides of the boat a chance.

"The short splice, high school variety, and the running hitch, Clayton style, get athwart my docket pretty often," he said, while I felt for my pocket dictionary of nautical terms. "A friend of mine has managed to get what looks like a long splice. I asked him once how he'd carried his domestic weather helm so as to keep from capsizing.

"'When my wife wants to do anything,' he said, 'I always advise her not to. Then if she does it and is disappointed she can't blame me, and if she does it and is pleased she can add to her pleasure by an I-told-you-so remark to me.'

His Wife Disobeys.

"'But if she doesn't do it and wishes she had?' I asked him.

"'No danger of that,' said he. 'She'll always do it if I advise her not to.'

"So he has his wife leashed to the spinnaker boom. But one poor lubber who shook out his reef in my court not long ago was on his beam ends."

"Avast!" I shouted. The Judge saw I was only half-mast high with his conversation, and hove to slightly.

"This man's wife," the Judge proceeded to relate, "didn't bother him with any requests for advice. If he offered any, he was likely to have to dodge a marline spike, or its household equivalent. When he told his troubles in my court, I asked him if he had tried the soft-answer treatment.

"'Your Honor,' he told me, 'every word I speak to that woman was just another lump of coal under the boiler.'

"I saw his marital craft was in irons, and so I let him dowse his spitfire jib and break off."

"Luff!" I cried as the Judge's verbal waves rolled over my gunwales.

About Losing a Wife.

"Love," said the Judge, mistaking my command for a question; "love, or what passes for it, has some queer manifestations and some queer results, some of which bring up in court. By the time the late lovers have tacked Cupid's yacht that far, they are generally of the same mind as the man in the stage dialogue who saw his friend grieving over the picture of the wife who left him years before.

"'It's hard to lose your wife,' says the friend.

"'Yes,' says the first man, 'it is hard. Sometimes it is almost impossible.'"

Then I remembered that I was supposed to be interviewing the Judge. I must ask him some questions. Probably he would have some good advice for young men. Most judges do, on occasion.

"What is the best thing a man can invest his money in?" I ventured.

"Something that a lot of other people can have fun out of," he answered.

Public Swimming Pools.

"What does St. Louis need most?" I was about to ask him, but just then Park Commissioner Scanlan came along. My question was answered without being asked, for Judge Taylor began to tell the Green Grass Man about a plan of his for public swimming pools in all the larger parks.

"The boys want to swim outdoors," said the Judge. "The river isn't clean or safe. The city couldn't put its money into anything better than to dig some pools in the parks, build beaches and pump water into them all summer."

"Court's waiting, your honor," said a deputy sheriff just then. "Adjourned until 2:30 and it's 2:31½ now."

The Judge went aft and the impudent intervi[illegible] was over.

Growth of American Marine.

Last month 107 vessels of 27,161 gross tons were completed in the shipyards of the United States and officially registered with the Commissioner of Navigation. Of these ships 55 were built on the Atlantic and gulf coasts and 29 on the Pacific coast. The fleet on the Great Lakes was increased during the month of May by the addition of eight vessels of an aggregate tonnage of 16,444. The total sail, steam and unrigged vessels registered during the last 11 months had a tonnage of 439,828, as compared with a tonnage of 380,400 in the same period last year.

JUMPS FROM TRAIN TO ELOPE; MEETS HIS WIFE

Husband Greets Illinois Girl and Then Is Surprised by Home Friends.

William Michael of Lawton, O. T., arrived at the Union Station shortly before 1 p. m. Friday to meet Miss Bertha Schleuter of Ashley, Ill., who had promised to marry him. But his wife was present, accompanied by a large number of relatives and friends. She protested against her husband's taking unto himself another bride.

Michael stepped from a Frisco train with a smile encircling his lips. He expected, so his wife says, to meet Miss Schleuter and escort her to the altar at once.

He greeted Miss Schleuter warmly and still smiled. But like a sudden storm cloud appearing in the heavens a collection of familiar faces, all wrathful, was seen bearing down upon him. He quaked and turned pale.

Wife Leads "Guests."

Mrs. Michael led the oncoming host of uninvited guests. There was a black look in her eye. Her lips trembled with anger. She had boasted to Miss Schleuter's sister, who was her friend, that her husband could not plan such a deception. This friend had asked her to "come and see for herself." She had come, had seen and was convinced. Headed by the excited wife, the relatives and friends, men, women and children, swooped down on Michael. They seized him. They expressed their opinion of him with the utmost candor. Michael quaked some more.

Meanwhile a sergeant of police, hearing the loud voices and noting their angry tones, approached the surging mass of people, asking what the trouble was.

Wife Tells Story.

"My name is Mrs. William Michael," said the wife, "and I live at 7702 Michigan avenue. This is my husband. Several months ago he went to Lawton, O. T. He's been writing to me almost daily and sending me money regularly, to pay the expenses of myself and our two children. I didn't even dream anything was wrong.

"Not long ago Miss Anna Schleuter of 4056A Evans avenue told me her sister, Bertha, of Ashley, Ill., was to be married to my husband. She said my husband had written Miss Schleuter that I was dead and that he was a lonely widower and asked her to marry him. They were to meet in St. Louis for this purpose."

The policeman said he ought to lock up Michael if the wife's statement was true.

"You'll do nothing of the kind," she answered, according to the police; "I'll lock him up myself."

Then, says the policeman, she seized Michael by the ear and led him from the station.

DENIES MIX-UP OF LODGE PIANO

Grand Protector Cobb of K. and L. of H. Declares Accusations Ridiculous.

Members of the Knights and Ladies of Honor do not expect the internal troubles of the order growing out of differences between Grand Protector O'Keefe and Vice-Grand Protector Cobb to end with the present trial of O'Keefe, which will end probably Saturday.

Whether O'Keefe is acquitted or convicted of the charges of improperly conducting initiations and of disloyalty to the order and other technical offenses, Cobb will be tried on July 6 on other charges preferred by two members of Lily Lodge. These charges relate to the purchase of a piano for the Lily lodgerooms, which are in the building at 1508 Chouteau avenue, where O'Keefe is being tried.

The charges include the allegation that Cobb substituted for a piano purchased by authority of and with funds of Lily Lodge another piano which he had at his home on Oregon avenue and which was of much less value.

"I wish to deny that charge," he said. "The pianos are of different make. There could not possibly be any confusion. I believe some persons are so anxious to bring charges against me that, finding the pianos are different, they would say that I put the inside of one piano in the case of the other, which is ridiculous."

Cobb and his wife were both present Friday at the executive hearing by the supreme lodge committee of the charges against O'Keefe. O'Keefe testified in his own defense and denied all accusations. He asserted that the initiation of Herman Fischer of Carondelet was perfectly legal and proper. It has been charged against O'Keefe that he permitted Fischer to be initiated irregularly, the intimation being that he was in league with Mrs. Fischer to permit her to get his insurance.

Fischer died two months after he was admitted.

"It is true," Mrs. Fischer told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, "that Mrs. Cobb came to my house after my husband died. She did not tell me she was Mrs. Cobb. She asked me if Mr. O'Keefe had advised me to sue and I told her he had not. Not knowing she was Mrs. Cobb, I called her husband some hard names."

Mrs. Fischer evidently regards it as Cobb's fault she has not been able to collect her insurance. Cobb says it is not.

EASTERN DETECTIVES SURE THEY CAN SOLVE REED CRIME

Officials of Mexico, Mo., Considering Advisability of Hiring the Men.

Patrick Kernell, a railroad detective from an Eastern city, with his partner, Patrick Powers, appeared in Mexico, Mo., Friday morning and asked for a conference with Prosecuting Attorney John D. Orear, Mayor Graham and other officials.

He said that he felt sure he could fix the blame for the Reed murder in two weeks.

He pronounced the crime a deliberately planned assassination. Another conference of officials will be held Friday night to decide on a plan for raising funds to hire Kernell and Powers.

WORK STOPS ON NEW THEATER

Men Demand Protection From Falling Material and Debris.

A demand for protection from falling debris caused a walk out of all iron workers, plumbers and granitoid workers Friday morning at the American Theater Building, Market and Seventh streets. This action was taken by the unions to which the workmen belong. The contractor for the steel structure is an Indianapolis firm.

The men gathered about the building said that they were waiting for an agreement on the part of the contractors to seal the floors of the building as it went up, in order that the danger from falling bolts and rivets might be lessened. They say that every other downtown building in process of construction now affords proper protection.

Building Commissioner Smith revoked the building permit owing to the failure to floor each story as the building advances, as required by the city ordinances.

FILIPINO VOTERS REGISTERING

Only One Candidate for Assembly Is an American.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MANILA, June 21.—The registration of Filipino voters began today. While complete returns are not available, reports indicate that the total registration will be heavy.

No reports of disorder have been received. The American residents are generally registering also. Carl Hess is the only American candidate for the Assembly. He has been nominated from Manila. The registration will continue four days.

SHOWER DRENCHES "HUSTLERS" CROWD

Parade Float Collapses, 20 Girls Are Spilled, but Merriment Continues.

WHITE SUIT PARADE FINE

Oscar Buettner Dies on Boat En Route to Enthusiastic Gathering at Cairo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., June 21.—Cairo is surely in the grip of the Egyptian Hustlers. Yesterday afternoon everybody was out in gala attire and the white suit parade which the Hustlers put on at about 2:30 was a beautiful spectacle. It was augmented by a large number of automobiles gaily decorated.

One accident happened in the parade which might have been serious, but resulted only in a few bruises and scratches. A large float occupied by 20 Cairo young ladies, called the "Hustler Girls," collapsed, dumping all into the street, piling them on top of each other.

A rush was made by the spectators to assist the young ladies, expecting to find many with broken bones, but barring a few sprains and bruises they were all right and were placed in automobiles in the parade.

Before the pageant reached the park where the address of welcome was to have been given by Mayor Parsons and the response by President Dekker, and where the afternoon sports were to have taken place, a heavy shower set in and nearly 5000 persons were drenched. The day's sport had to be abandoned.

The shower destroyed fully one-half the decorations in the city and much additional work had to be done this morning to replace them.

Brilliant Illumination.

The illumination of the city last night was the most brilliant ever seen in Cairo. Nearly two miles of streets were lighted by double rows of electric lights and the crowds were so great that the center of the thoroughfares had to be traversed by the sightseers.

The big fireworks display on the river front was postponed until tonight owing to the weather. Oldrieve, the water walker, gave his stunt last evening, witnessed by many thousands.

Seats have been provided on the levee slope for 5000 persons, and here the band concerts, fireworks, boat races, etc., can comfortably be viewed.

The only incident to seriously mar the festivities thus far was the sudden death this morning of one of the Hustlers.

Oscar Buettner, traveling correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, was attacked by heart failure and expired in a few hours. His death took place on board the steamer Cape Girardeau, which brought down the St. Louis and Belleville delegations.

Dies While on Boat.

Mr. Buettner was a hustler and came down yesterday with his wife on the boat from St. Louis. They were occupying a berth. This morning he awoke at 4:30 feeling unwell, dressed, stepped out to the cabin and fell to the floor. Mayor Parsons took Mrs. Buetner and her sister to his home and the body was taken to an undertaker.

J. H. Buettner of St. Louis, brother of the deceased, will arrive this evening. Oscar Buettner formerly was of Red Bud, Ill., and lately had been a resident of Indianapolis and St. Louis.

The Mardi Gras parade this morning was such an affair as only the "jolly drummers" can get up. There was fun and frolic galore. Owing to the rain of yesterday nearly all the fun will be crowded into one day.

The Belleville crowd are all here and bid fair to win the Hustlers' meeting for 1908, although the Centralia people are working hard for the honor.

A special train of seven coaches from Centralia arrived at 10 o'clock this morning and the boomers are out in full.

Metropolis, Ill., also is working for the plum, as well as Harrisburg.

Tomorrow will be election day and it is generally conceded by a great many Hustlers that Joseph Poupeney of St. Louis will be the next president.

ICE COMPETITORS HARD HIT

Polar Wave to Increase Price to Independents.

Independent ice dealers who buy their supply of ice at wholesale from the Polar Wave Ice and Coal Co. must now pay as much as do consumers to whom the ice is delivered on a retail basis. Beginning Thursday the price to the independents was increased from $2.50 to $3 a ton, which means that the price of single blocks of artificial ice advanced from 40 to 50 cents.

President Whitelaw of the company said this step was necessary to protect the company's trade. The concern has about two hundred delivery wagons supplying 25,000 customers daily.

As the independent dealers can hardly afford to pay the advanced price and deliver to consumers at the old rate, it is believed many will be forced out of business.

TINY WIFE WINS DIVORCE FROM SIX-FOOT HUSBAND

Mrs. Georgiana Miller and Her Mate Were at Variance in Height and Temper.

Miss Georgiana Stark was Mrs. Georgiana Miller, wife of Andrew Miller, until 10:30 a. m. Friday, when Judge Withrow granted her a divorce from Andrew Miller. She is 18 years old and is only 4 feet 7 inches tall, the smallest divorce case plaintiff who has appeared at the St. Louis Courthouse in many years.

Andrew Miller, the husband, is 6 feet tall and is employed on a United States Government boat on the river. The evidence was that the husband and wife were as far apart in their ideas as they were in height.

Mrs. Miller, now Miss Stark, testified that her husband began to quarrel with her shortly after their marriage, which occurred March 27, 1905, and that he left her June 8 of the same year. One witness said that on March 13, 1907, Miller called at the home of his wife's parents, 830 South Ninth street, and, mistaking Mrs. Miller's aunt for herself, had attacked the aunt with a knife.

HORSE AND DOG MEAT IN GREAT DEMAND IN GERMANY

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The use of horse and dog meat has greatly increased in Germany during the last two years. Advices received at the State Department show that during 1906 182,000 horses were slaughtered for food, an increase of 20,000 over 1905, and of 47,000 over 1904.

The number of dogs slaughtered during 1906 is estimated at 7000. In the city of Chemnitz alone 698 dogs were killed, an increase of 88 over 1905, and during the same period 1070 horses, an increase of 87 over 1905.

Horseflesh is generally advertised in the German newspapers, and most German cities have at least one market which makes it a specialty, claiming for it a higher percentage of nourishment than beef, veal, mutton or pork. Neither is it unusual to find advertisements of dog meat or for the purchase of dogs for slaughter.

WOMAN LYNCHING PARTY ARRESTED

Assumption (Ill.) Sextette, Who Tried to Hang Miner, Must Give Peace Bonds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., June 21.—Six women of Assumption, who were implicated in an attempted lynching at that place last Monday night, have been arrested on citations to keep the peace, and unless they give bond today they will be remanded to Jail for one year. The names of the women and their bonds follow:

Mary Budman, $700; Mrs. Gus Dysart, $500; Mrs. Prudent Rogers, $700; Mrs. Paul Ducha, $200; Mrs. Caroline Mowington, $200, and Mary Buboyce, $700.

Alfred Boulard, the object of the women's attack, is living with wife No. 2, and wife No 1 has been released on her own recognizance under the condition that she remain away from Assumption.

Efforts were made by certain miners to have Boulard, an alleged bigamist, discharged from employment, but the company refuses the request.

Aged River Man Dead.

The funeral of Capt. T. K. Voorhees, 82 years old, who died of old age Thursday night at his home, 5609 Vernon avenue, after an illness of 32 weeks, will be postponed until his son, C. K. Voorhees, who is in Natchez, Miss., can get to St. Louis. Capt. Voorhees was owner of five steamboats at his death.

LOSES $785 RING AND BIG STEAK

Mrs. Woodward Entrusted Dinner Order to School Friend and He Disappears.

Mrs. Helen Woodward of 4029 Finney avenue has lost a diamond ring worth $785, which had been presented to her only three weeks ago by her husband, John W. Woodward.

Furthermore, Mrs. Woodward is angry over the loss of a porterhouse steak.

Joseph Edmunds, a school companion when they were small children, volunteered to get the steak at the corner butcher shop. That was at 6 p. m. Thursday. He went out and did not return.

Mrs. Woodward became aware that her diamond ring was missing while she was in her kitchen impatiently stamping her foot at the failure of Edmunds to return with the meat. She searched for the ring without success. She told her husband when he returned and he reported the loss to the police.

Mrs. Woodward and Edmunds had been talking over childhood days. He had called in response to an invitation extended when they accidentally met at West End Heights Wednesday evening, after having not seen each other for more than four years.

Miss Eva Miller is visiting for a few weeks with Mrs. Woodward, and Thursday afternoon she cleaned the ring. She put it on a table while she went across the street to a grocery. As she was returning she met Edmunds leaving the Woodward home.

SOUGHT KIRKWOOD COINERS IN VAIN

Detectives Fail to Find Counterfeiting Plant in Which Spurious Money Is Made.

Detectives and secret service men have not yet verified their suspicion that "Dr." Shadrach Bell, a negro masseur, arrested Thursday, is a maker of counterfeit money. They visited Bell's home in Kirkwood Thursday afternoon, but found no counterfeiting outfit on the premises. Bell's wife told them that he is frequently away from home at night, but she does not know where he goes.

Counterfeit half dollars and quarters have been in circulation in Kirkwood for some time.

After Bell was arrested for passing a counterfeit dollar in a Market street barber shop he was identified by a Delmar line conductor, who said that a negro answering Bell's description gave him a bogus dollar in payment of his fare last Saturday.

EGG THROWN IN REAR OF CAR

Spoils a Girl's Waist and Deputy Sheriff Makes Two Arrests.

Miss Nellie Treble of 4533 Garfield avenue was the victim of an egg thrown on an inboun- Creve Coeur car in St. Louis County Thursday evening. She was seated well to the front of the car and conversing with some girl friends with whom she had been to a picnic when the egg hit her on the back, spoiling her white waist and skirt. The identity of the man who threw the egg from the rear end of the car, could not be learned by the conductor or a deputy sheriff who later took five men and one woman into custody. The woman was released and two of the men escaped.

Edward Roy of 2128 Dolman street, Joseph F. Daley of 2955 Montgomery street and John Mount of 4925 Arco avenue were arrested and later released on bond. They must appear before Justice Stobie at Wellston next Tuesday for trial.

ACID PROVED HUSBAND'S TRUTH

Woman's Life Saved by Drinks That Preceded Poison.

Mrs. Mary Kratz, 18 years old, walked into her bedroom at 2624 Lafayette avenue, after a quarrel with her husband and drank half an ounce of carbolic acid at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Her husband had accused her of drinking too much, and had rebuked her. She said later that she took the acid to frighten him.

Dr. T. J. Pfeffer of 1653 South Jefferson avenue was summoned by the husband. The physician said that normally the acid would have killed the woman, but that her husband was correct, and that what she had drunk previously acted as an antidote for the acid. She was not taken to the hospital.

WOMAN, 57, TO SWIM 10 MILES AGAINST MEN

Mrs. Brandenburger Enters Lists in M. A. C. Contest in Mississippi.

FINDS YOUTH'S SECRET

Exercise in Water, She Says, Makes Her Grow Younger Daily.

Mrs. Lina Brandenburger of 4012 Cleveland avenue, who will enter the Missouri Athletic Club 10-mile Marathon Swim in the Mississippi River Oct. 2, believes swimming to be a means to health and happiness for women.

Mrs. Brandenburger is 57 years old and says that she feels she is growing younger every year. Several years ago she suffered a serious heat prostration and for the years following she was obliged to leave town every summer to avoid a reoccurrence of the stroke.

"I talked the matter over with my physician and he finally consented to let me stay at home for the summer if I would keep cool and spend some time in the water every day.

"I was 52 years old then and it seemed strange for a woman of my age to take up swimming, but I had to do that or leave home to get away from the heat, so I decided to accept the task of going to swim every morning. I was in poor health and was a very nervous woman.

Swimming Restores Youth.

"I commenced to swim five years ago and now I think it is the grandest thing a woman can do. I feel younger than I did when I started to swim; it seems as though time has stood still for me. I feel such an improvement in health and am so much happier.

"The exercise and the interest in this one sport keep me happy and healthy. I never get tired in the water or out. My chest has expanded several inches and my lungs hold so much air that I can stand up in the water without moving a muscle, my lungs acting just like a life-preserver.

"Last summer I spent four hours in the water every morning, just from pure love of swimming. When I think of what I might have enjoyed if I had learned to swim when I was younger, I advise other women to take it up as early in life as they can. I think every woman would find health and pleasure in it as I have."

Mrs. Brandenburger is entering the Marathon race as an enthusiastic amateur, and hopes to make a record for women swimmers in St. Louis.

Prof Muegge of the Muegge Natatorium and Gymnasium, has trained Mrs. Brandenburger for five years and will test her for the coming race.

First Woman Competitor.

"Mrs. Brandenburger is an exceptional woman swimmer," Prof. Muegge stated, "and she will finish in this race without fail. She is a swimmer of great endurance and tests up to four and a half hours. She weighs 160 pounds.

"I will give her tests in the Meramec River for distance swimming and will put her on a five-mile stretch and then on a full ten-mile stretch in preparation for the race. No woman in St. Louis has ever competed in an amateur distance swimming race before. The women who swim in this event will establish a record."

About $40,000 will be given in prizes to the swimmers of the M. A. C. races on this occasion, and Mrs. Brandenburger's work will be watched with interest. The start will be made at the Chain of Rocks and will end at the Eads Bridge. Several other women beside Mrs. Brandenburger will make the test of endurance. It requires three hours for the average amateur swimmer to cover 10 miles.

WOMAN WHO WILL SWIM TEN MILES IN MISSISSIPPI RIVER

CLUB MAN ENDED LIFE IN RIVER

Samuel Churchill Believed to Have Leaped From Boat Into the Hudson.

The body of Samuel B. Churchill, a well-known St. Louis real estate operator, who is supposed to have committed suicide a week ago by leaping from a boat near Coney Island, has not been recovered. Relatives in St. Louis who have been trying to ascertain the circumstances of his death have come to the conclusion that he ended his own life.

Churchill was well known in the club, real estate and financial circles of the city. The Churchill estate, of which he was manager, owned a great deal of valuable income property in St. Louis. Mr. Churchill was a member of the University and St. Louis clubs, and for several years maintained an office at Broadway and Chestnut street in a building owned by the Churchill estate. He late moved his office to 1105 Chestnut street.

Grieved for His Mother.

Three months ago Churchill left St. Louis for a Western trip.

He grieved much over the death of his mother, which occurred in Louisville last December. He was very devoted to her, and always went to Louisville to visit her on holidays. After spending several months in California he went to New York, expecting to return here soon. His friends and relatives here were astonished when they received the news of his death.

Churchill spent his early life in St. Louis. His father, who was a strong Southern sympathizer, went to Kentucky during the war, and was afterwards elected Secretary of State. Churchill returned to St. Louis about 15 years ago to look after family interests here. He lived at Pechmann's Hotel, at Olive and Whittier streets.

Met Financial Reverses.

His brother, Christy Churchill of Louisville, upon hearing of his death, went to New York to investigate.

Poor health and some financial reverses, together with grief for his mother, are believed to have made him despondent.

His only relatives in St. Louis are Mrs. Arthur N. Sager, a niece; Capt. Frank, Dr. Shepard and Taylor Bryan.

J. H. Risch, with whom Mr. Churchill was associated in business, said he was in good health when he left here in February.

BABY PINES FOR HER LOST DADA

Shoemaker's Wife Asks Police to Help Find Her Husband Who Disappeared.

The love of a blue-eyed baby girl is awaiting the return of Benjamin Cruvant, who left his home in East St. Louis two months ago. His 2-year-old daughter is worried over his absence and in her baby prattle she daily calls for her "dada," whose absence she cannot understand.

Cruvant is 34 years old and formerly had a shoe shop at 512 North Sixteenth street, East St. Louis, now run by his wife. After visiting his parents, who were opposed to his marriage, he packed up his tools and left home April 19, last. He did not tell his wife he intended to leave and she has not heard of him since.

Mrs. Cruvant is not a Jewess, but is of English parentage; and to this she ascribes the objections of her husband's parents, Morris Cruvant, father of Benjamin, who lives at 435 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis.

Mrs. Cruvant says she cannot account for her husband's long absence from the baby, whom he loved dearly. The little one pines for her father's love and often hugs and kisses his photograph which her mother keeps within her reach on a dresser.

Mrs. Cruvant has appealed to the police to assist in locating her husband.

TWO GIRLS DROWN IN LAKE AT LINCOLN PARK, CHICAGO

Grandmother Thinks They Were in Suicide Pact, While Father Suggests Accident.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, June 21.—The body of Emma Pontius, 10 years old, was taken from the lake in Lincoln Park last night and her elder sister, Clara, 12 years of age, is missing. The parents of the children think one of the girls fell into the water and that the other was drowned in a heroic effort to save her sister.

Mrs. Patrick Pontius, grandmother of the girls, told the police early today that she believed they had committed suicide because they had been ill-treated.

Both girls had gone to Lincoln Park after school and were last seen by Clarence, a twin brother of Clara, near the high bridge.

Charles Pontius, the father, is a machinist. The mother of the two girls and the boy died four years ago, and the father married his present wife two years ago.

Leaps from Window; Leg Broken.

Edward Barker, 28 years old, of 1540 South Eighth street, preferred a leap from the second-story window of his home to an encounter with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anne Clark. Barker was quarreling with his wife and incidentally hurling dishes about the room when his mother-in-law appeared. Barker made for the window and jumped to the ground, 20 feet. His leg was broken.

PUTS END TO HALF HOLIDAYS

New Child Labor Law Means Nine Hours Every Day.

Under the new child labor law the maximum working hours must be nine a day, and the limit of 54 hours a week cannot be distributed so as to have a force work 10 hours on the first five days of the week and then get a half-holiday on Saturday, according to the ruling of Jesse Sikes, the new factory inspector.

Mr. Sikes informed Secretary Troy of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association Thursday that he has no discretion, even though the employes themselves prefer the half-holiday arrangement.

Manufacturers, particularly the shoe men, say they cannot afford to run but nine hours a day and half a day Saturday because of the difficulty in getting additional help to keep up the output to the same figure that it was before the law restricting working hours went into effect.

Why Baby's Food Disagrees

An unnatural food is almost certain to disagree with baby.

Did you ever hear a well mother, who was nursing her baby, say that baby's food did not agree with him?

Almost never.

Mother's milk is nature's food.

Sanipure Milk is nature's substitute for mother's milk. It contains the same things mother's milk does—in almost the same quantities, is more nearly like mother's milk than any other infant's food.

Cow's milk forms hard, lumpy curds in the baby's stomach—that is why foods mixed with unchanged cow's milk do not agree with baby.

Sanipure Milk is cow's milk with the faults left out. The formula is on every can—show it to your doctor.

STATE RESTS IN THE TRIAL OF HAYWOOD

Defense Files Motion Asking Court to Dismiss the Proceedings.

MANY WITNESSES READY

If Overruled, Defendant's Attorneys Will Open Monday.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

BOISE, Idaho, June 21.—The State closed its case in the trial of W. D. Haywood, charged with the murder of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg, at 10 o'clock this morning.

When the State announced that it was through, Haywood's attorneys filed a motion asking the Court to dismiss the proceedings. This motion will be acted upon immediately after the noon recess, court having adjourned until 1:30 o'clock.

Two important pieces of testimony were offered this morning. Charles S. Kingsley, a handwriting expert, testified that the writing of the waivers on the money telegrams sent from Pettibone's store in Denver in the names of "J. Wolff" and "P. Bone" to "H. Greene" in San Francisco was done by the same hand that penned Pettibone's letter to John L. Stearns.

A stipulation by the defense admitting the fact that Haywood telegraphed money to Steve Adams at Ogden in 1903 and a ruling by the Court denying the dissenting opinion in the Moyer habeas corpus case in Colorado, cleared the direct work of the prosecution and opened the way to the plea and case of the defense.

If its motion to dismiss is overruled the defense will open Monday.

When the trial was resumed at 9:30 this morning, not more than 100 persons occupied seats outside the bar. Of these at least forty were witnesses. Haywood's mother sat on his immediate right and she, with the prinsoner's sister, were the only members of his family present.

Judge Wood first delivered a lengthy opinion overruling a demurrer in one of the cases before the regular term of court.

Date of Draft Fixed.

On being directed to proceed, Senator Borah announced that the State had received telegraphic information from the First National Bank of Denver, fixing the date on one of the drafts which have been introduced as evidence and upon which the date had been punched out by the file in the bank. This draft was for $100 and the bank wires that it bears the date of Dec. 21, 1905.

It was drawn in favor of J. L. Simpkins by Haywood. The letter produced in court from Pettibone to Hogan, or Orchard, received by Orchard while in jail at Caldwell, stated that "that" had been sent to "Jack." Orchard said that he had asked for $100.

C. C. Kingsley, an attorney of Boise, was called. He qualified as an expert in handwriting. He was asked to compare Pettibone's signature on the letter replying to the insurance agent in Denver who asked as to the character of Orchard, with the signatures of Wolff and "P. Bone" on the back of the telegraphic money orders. Kingsley said that in his opinion the signatures were written by one and the same person. He was not cross-examined.

Negro Points Out Haywood.

Jim Seahorn, a colored horse dealer of Denver, said that Orchard came to him and he drove to Pettibone's place of business. Pettibone came out and together they drove to the place he described as the location of the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners.

"What happened then?" asked Mr. Havely.

Orchard went upstairs and came down with another man."

"Yes, what next?"

"The other man got in the buggy, and they said they would be back soon and drove off together."

"Do you know this other man?"

"Yes, sir; I have seen him."

"Would you know him now?"

"Yes, sir."

"Look around and say if you can see him here."

The negro looked over the defense side and pointed a finger at Haywood.

"Yes, sir; that's the man," he said.

There was a pause and a silence, broken only by a stir among the spectators.

It was the first direct connection of Haywood with Orchard and a strong corroboration of the Orchard story.

"How much did you get for the outfit?"

"$10."

"Who paid you?"

"Mr. Orchard."

"You just got the money and gave Orchard a bill of sale?"

"No, sir. The bill of sale was made to Mr. Pettibone."

He described the horse as a little black mare and the vehicle as a top buggy.

State Closes Case.

Seahorn proved to be the last witness for the State.

Senator Borah stated that with the exception of proving the sending of money order for $75 by the Western Union from Haywood in Denver to Steve Adams in Ogden, Utah, in 1903, the State's case was closed.

Mr. Richardson, for the defense, said that they would agree that the State could file the telegrams as soon as they were received. Senator Borah said that the telegrams would be in Boise by this evening.

"With this exception, then, Your Honor," said Senator Borah, "the State is ready to close its case."

There was some wrangling over a long opinion delivered in the Colorado courts and which the defense said should be read as it had been offered as evidence for the State.

Judge Wood looked over the decision and denied the motion that it be read to the jury. This closed the State's case, and at 10:25 the court adjourned until 1:30 p. m., when the defense will move that the Court instruct the jury to render a verdict of not guilty.

CHANGED HIS MIND ABOUT GIVING BOND FOR NEGRO

Detectives Enlighten Prisoner's Employer and Exhibit Stolen Knife.

Wallace C. Capen, secretary of the Capen Motor Car Co., 4743 McPherson avenue, hurried to Police Headquarters to furnish bond for John Jetten, a negro employe, who had been arrested on a charge of stealing a diamond ring and $14 from Mrs. Minnie Powell of 1409 Chestnut street. After a half-hour's conversation with detectives Mr. Capen changed his mind and instead of obtaining Jetten's release announced that he would also prosecute the negro for theft.

"He's a good negro and I do not think he would steal," said Capen when he reached the Four Courts.

"You don't know Jetten like we do," said Assistant Chief of Detectives McCarthy. "He has already served time for theft. We've found a lot of things in his house at 9 Johnson street, and we don't propose to let him go until we learn where he got them." McCarthy ran his hand through a pile of articles on his desk.

"This is one of the things we found," he said, holding up a clasp knife.

"Why, that's mine," said Capen. "I'll prosecute him."

The police also charge Jetten with the theft of a watch from William H. McLellan of the Capen Motor Car Co., various articles from George Siegel of the same concern and a tailor-made suit from A. T. Alphonse, department manager of the Famous. The suit was stolen from a Famous auto wagon which broke down and was taken to the Capen garage for repair.

OLD MAN IS ACCUSED OF HARBORING TWO GIRLS

Richard Scheller, 70 Years of Age, Arrested in Raid on Shop.

Police of Central District raided an upholstering shop at 210 North Seventeenth street Thursday night and arrested James Scheller, 70 years old; Bertha Aubuchon, 15, and Isabelle Porter, 11. Scheller is charged with harboring the girls.

The girls ran away from the Free Mission School at Taylor and Berlin avenues several days ago. They had been placed there by their parents, who claimed they were incorrigible. Bertha Aubuchon's home is at 1930 Gratiot street, and Isabelle Porter's parents live at 122 North Thirteenth streets. They were found by Policeman Collins at Seventeenth and Pine streets, after midnight, and were followed to the upholstering shop, where they were arrested with Scheller.

Scheller lives in the shop. He told the police he had done nothing but merely shelter the girls who had appealed to him for a home. The girls are held in the House of Detention until the police can investigate. He is locked up in the Four Courts holdover. The Porter girl said she was induced to leave the Free Mission School by the Aubuchon girl, who promised to take her to a good home.

ASKS LAW FOR "JIM CROW" STREET CAR REGULATION

Northwest Improvement Association Plans Measure as Blow at Negro Summer Garden.

Separate cars for negroes, or separate compartments in the regular street cars—in other words what is commonly termed the "Jim Crow" regulation—will be called for in a bill to be introduced in the House of Delegates Friday evening by Delegate Vincent McShane of the Twenty-seventh Ward.

An agitation for a "Jim Crow" ordinance is one of the features of the fight by Twenty-seventh Ward residents against the establishment of the proposed summer garden for negroes at Labadie avenue and Union boulevard.

The Mayor has not yet issued a permit for the enterprise and the opponents say they believe the "Jim Crow" ordinance will enable him to give a reason for not signing a permit.

At a meeting of the Northwestern Improvement Association Thursday evening John J. Rung, C. C. Ralph, Albert Bader and M. J. Keys were appointed to investigate and learn if the signatures on the petition of the John Brown Amusement Co. for a permit, were satisfactory.

USED BOGUS BABY TO LURE HUSBAND BACK

Hers Had Died After She Had Been Deserted and She Adopted Another.

PLOT NOT SUCCESSFUL

Maulhardt, Refusing to Return, Was Prosecuted for Abandonment by Wife.

When death took the baby through whom she hoped to win back her husband, Mrs. Josephine Maulhardt concealed her loss, substituted another baby, and begged her husband, for the child's sake, to return to her.

He, although not knowing of the deception, refused to see the mother or the infant whom he thought to be his own.

Mrs. Maulhardt's pitiful story was told after she had been taken to police headquarters Thursday evening by detectives, who suspected that she knew of the baby found dead in Pittsburg Lake, near East St. Louis, last Saturday. She denied knowing of the East Side tragedy.

"My husband, Emil Maulhardt, deserted me in January, 1905," said Mrs. Maulhardt. "I tried to effect a reconciliation but failed.

"It was my one hope that my baby would bring my husband back to me. The baby died before it was an hour old. My hopes of winning back my husband were shattered.

"I consulted Dr. Baildridge of 1011 Cass avenue and he got a baby for me, which I afterward nursed and cared for as my own. No one but the physician knew my secret. My own mother and brother believed the baby was my own.

Refuses to Return.

"I appealed to my husband to return home for the sake of the child, but he refused. Then I prosecuted him for abandonment and he was found guilty and fined. He claimed in his defense that I had a husband at the time he married me.

"I was divorced from Henry Moehring, my first husband, in 1904. He had treated me cruelly and I ached for revenge. When I became engaged to marry Maulhardt an idea struck me. I made Moehring believe I still loved him and encouraged him until he proposed a second marriage. I went with him to St. Charles, Mo., and we obtained a marriage license, but we were not married.

"I wanted Moehring to feel the heart pains he had made me suffer. I lured him almost to the altar and then dropped him.

"When Maulhardt was tried on the wife abandonment charge I carried the substitute baby to court and showed it to him. He believed it was his child, but his heart was not touched.

Baby in an Asylum.

"When I was forced to support myself I boarded the baby at first one place and then another. For several months my mother took care of it at her home, 3653 South Compton avenue. Last Saturday I took the baby to St. Ann's Asylum. I told the sisters there the true story of my relationship with the child. The baby is still there."

Mrs. Maulhardt was taken to Police Headquarters after the police had learned that she had taken the child away from the home of a Mrs. Cornwall, 1722 Ohio avenue, East St. Louis.

Wants Lehmann for Show.

An offer to become official announcer at bull fights in the afternoon and do turns as a whistler and singer in the evening for a show now in Texas, has been made to Julius Lehmann, one of the convicted boodlers released last week from the Penitentiary. The proprietor of the show is willing to pay $150 a month and 5 per cent of the gross earnings of the company. Lehmann decided to embark in the planing mill business in St. Louis instead.

Gustav W. Pauk Dead.

The funeral of Gustav W. Pauk, president of the H. Pauk & Sons Manufacturing Co., will be held from the family residence, 4268 Evans avenue, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Pauk died of dropsy. The interment will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery. A widow and son survive.

FLEW OVER STATEN ISLAND WITH CURVES AND LOOPS

Sky Sailor in Airship Makes Successful Trip Navigating His Machine With Ease and Returning to Earth at Point Selected.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Cutting double loops in an airship along the sky roof of Staten Island, and seemingly with as much ease as skippers 500 feet beneath found in maneuvering their sailboats on the bay, Lincoln Beachy, air pilot, kept 2000 persons "rubbernecking" for half an hour yesterday afternoon.

When the cigar-shaped contrivance was high in the air, it looked the size of, and apparently was as buoyant as the smoke of a cigar. Beachy kept it going, too, until he was ready to come to earth.

Beachy had announced his intention of sailing from South Beach over the bay and into Manhattan atmosphere, but because of a stiff breeze the pathways were a little rough and he contented himself with circulating through the upper stratum of Staten Island's ozone. A big crowd gathered at Happyland, from which the start was made. His seat was astride of a triangular frame, suspended 5 feet from the cigar-shaped gasbag. The balloon was 52 feet long and 16 feet in diameter.

The propeller was stationed in front and pulled the ship. The blades were 9 feet across. When Beachy wanted to "hit it up" the propeller made 400 revolutions a minute.

The crowd cheered when Beachy climbed aboard, and the airship rose slowly until it had reached a height of 500 feet. On the way up the aeronaut showed the crowd how easy it was to sail. He guided a skyward course by sliding back to the rear of the frame, his weight throwing the nose of the ship upward, and the action of the propeller did the rest. To descend he slid back until his weight depressed the nose of the ship. It sailed on an even keel when Beachy held his seat in the center of the frame.

He steered a course over South Beach until the bay was under him, and there turned and twisted to the delight of the crowd. He was in the air half an hour before guiding the ship back to land. The descent was made in a field near Happyland, the spot chosen for alighting.

It Floated Right Up to His Feet as He Brooded Over Lack of It.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, June 21.—Pacing up and down the beach on Gallup's Island today Adolph Frohlick walked with his head bowed, grieving because he must return to Russia with his two small children. He did not have money enough to pay his fare from here to South Dakota, his destination, and the immigration officials had ordered all three deported.

As he raised his head he saw what looked like a roll of bills in the water. He sprang in, grasped the green bundle and with shouts of joy ran up the beach. It was money, and enough of it to get him to Dakota. Frohlick could not count it, but the port physicians told him it was $62. Frohlick and his children were released and started on the journey west, where he is to be a farmer.

SHED BURNS AND FOWL DIE WITH HORSE IN THE SMOKE

Coals Thrown Into Trash Heap Cause Barnyard Tragedy in Franklin Avenue.

Smoke killed 12 chickens and two ducks in a shed fire in the rear of 2905 Franklin avenue early Friday. The poultry belong to Mrs. Ida Wolf, and a horse, also her property, was so badly burned that it had to be shot.

The sheds in the rear of Nos. 2903 and 2911 were also destroyed. The total loss is $300. Coals thrown into a heap of trash caused the blaze.

SAP SECRET FALLS INTO HANDS OF AMERICAN NAVY

Mysterious Packet Containing Charts Found on U. S. Cruiser Paducah.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A Japanese secret is in possession of the United States navy.

What it is and how it fell into the hands of the American Government is one of the mysteries which is vexing the naval strategists.

There is much speculation as to whether it is the plan the Japanese made for an invasion of the United States or a plan of the Japanese defenses. It is a rather formidable set, consisting of many documents.

The mysterious packet was found in a manner yet unexplained on board the United States cruiser Paducah, while it was off the north coast of Honduras. It was forwarded to the Navy Department.

When Capt. Winterhalter of the Paducah found the package he called on Saki, his Japanese servant, to tell what it was. Saki shook his head mysteriously and gave no information.

Now the Navy Department is trying to solve the mystery. There is a suspicion that the charts are those intended for the use of Japanese fleets which visited the Jamestown Exposition, but how they came aboard an American warship is not known.

BELT LINES TO LOOP CHICAGO FOR VANDERBILTS

New York Central Financiers Completing $70,000,000 Railroad Coup.

WILL CONTROL TRAFFIC

Inner and Outer Girdles Will Intersect All Other Systems.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, June 21.—The Record-Herald today says:

Final steps are being taken in New York to complete a $70,000,000 railway coup which the Vanderbilts have engineered to get the lion's share of the tremendous traffic which originates in Chicago and the surrounding territory as well as the great tonnage which passes through and around Chicago.

The culminating financial transaction in this great traffic deal, which William Newman, president of the New York Central line, has been successfully playing in the interests of the Vanderbilts, is the leasing with the right to purchase of the outer belt line from the Chicago Junction Railway Co.

Supplementing this is the lease for a term of 99 years of a part of the tracks of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railway Co., which forms the connecting link to complete the inner belt railway system which the Vanderbilt interests are securing.

President John A. Spoor of the Belt road yesterday confirmed the lease and said that before the end of the year the outer belt line, which his company now owns and operates, would pass entirely into the possession of the New York Central lines.

When these transactions shall have been completed the Vanderbilts will have two comprehensive belt-line systems encircling Chicago, an inner and an outer belt and both bisected by every line of railway that enters Chicago or can enter it in the future. The outer belt is the Indiana, Illinois & Iowa, known as "The Three I.'s" road.

Another integral part of this great traffic coup which the Vanderbilts have been quietly planning for the last five years is the Chicago, Indiana & Southern road, which they have built directly south from Chicago to Danville, where it connects with the Big Four road. It is part of the comprehensive traffic campaign which they have carefully planned and executed to extend this system straight south to the Gulf before the opening of the Panama Canal.

Accordingly, when the canal is opened the New York Central lines will, through the expendiure of at least $125,000,000, and possibly $150,000,000, have the whip hand over the greatest tonnage producing area in the world.

TRIES TO ABDUCT STUDENT DAUGHTER

Boston Parent Breaks Into School at Midnight and Attempts Kidnaping.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., June 21.—The graduation from fashionable Dana Hall Preparatory School at Wellesley of Miss Dorothy Straine, 19 years old, was followed at 2 a. m. Thursday by an attempt by her father, Robert F. Straine of Boston, to abduct her at her school home and carry her off in an automobile.

Miss Straine reached her apartments about midnight. Two hours later she and her French maid were awakened and Miss Straine was greatly shocked to find her father and a strange woman in her room. The young woman and her maid screamed and aroused persons in other rooms, and several neighbors, who rushed to the house.

According to William McLean and Jerry Bullman, Wellesley young men, who were summoned as witnesses, they ran into the house and upstairs to Miss Straine's room. They found the glass in the door broken, and they say Straine had his daughter and her maid on the floor, a piece of rope over his daughter's head and a black bag, with which he was apparently trying to cover her face.

Abductor Captured.

They declare they seized Straine, but he broke away. He was caught by Patrolman Armitage, who locked him up on a charge of disturbing the peace. In half an hour the woman accompanying Straine was arrested. Neither she nor the father would give the police any information about her. She calls herself "Mary Smith."

The girl's mother died seven years ago, leaving her heir to a large fortune. Her father has been, nominally, her guardian, but of late Roland W. Boyden, a lawyer of Beverly, has been her actual guardian.

Miss Straine has not sufficiently recovered from the shock to appear in court. She told friends her father had tried twice before to take her away from where she was living.

Straine's Career.

Straine has had a checkered career in recent years. He has operated extensively in financial schemes in Boston and its vicinity.

Straine's companion said she resided in Worcester. She appears to be about 35 years old, and is rather good looking. She and Straine were held in $100 bonds each to appear next Thursday.

Straine was conspicuous about ten years ago as president of the United Telegram Co., and in May, 1897, he and Treasurer Charles A. Lamson were arrested, charged with trying to defrand the company out of about $73,000. A decision favorable to Straine was rendered.

In May, 1905, he was arrested, charged with defrauding Mrs. Elizabeth Avery of Salem out of $1750. He was indicted and the cause came up in the Superior Criminal Court in Salem, but was continued until September.

MR. CLEVELAND SUFFERING FROM ACUTE INDIGESTION

Former President Rapidly Recovering and Will Soon Leave for His Summer Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 21.—The alarming reports concerning the condition of former President Cleveland attracted many strangers to Princeton today and there were so many inquiries Mrs. Cleveland was forced to deny herself to visitors. Her mother, Mrs. Perrin, said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent:

"Mrs. Cleveland desires to say that Mr. Cleveland is suffering from acute indigestion and is not seriously ill. We expect Mr. Cleveland to be about as usual in a couple of days. The preparations for the family's stay at Tamworth, N. H., will then be completed and they will start as originally intended."

The fact that Dr. Joseph D. Bryant left here yesterday and that Dr. D. M. Carnochan of Princeton went out in the country, was taken to mean that the ex-President's illness could not have been particularly serious. The story that the grounds were roped off and that no one was permitted to enter is untrue.

GARDNER SHUT OUT OF SUMMER HOME

St. Louisan Barred From His Dresden (Tenn.) Place by Court Injunction.

DIDN'T GO TO EUROPE

Present Occupant Says Gardner Family, Planning Tour, Promised Him Use of House.

A tenant who likes Russell E. Gardner's costly summer home at Dresden, Tenn., too well to move out, is interfering with the summer plans of the Gardner family.

C. A. Hough, a Dresden jeweler, the tenant now in possession, has gone to law to keep the owner off the place this summer. His petition for an injunction to prevent the Gardners from occupying the premises will be heard by Chancellor Cooper at Trenton, Tenn., next Wednesday, according to press dispatches. Meanwhile, the Gardner family is restrained by a temporary injunction.

The town of Dresden was Mr. Gardner's birthplace. As a boy he played in the road in front of the Scott dwelling, the finest in the neighborhood. To him it was the grandest house in the world. He resolved that if he ever got money enough he would buy the house and the fine homestead surrounding it.

Carried Out Boyhood Plan.

In 1897, after Mr. Gardner had become wealthy in St. Louis, he carried out his boyhood plan. He bought the old Scott place, spent several thousands in remodeling it, and made it the handsomest residence in West Tennessee. He and his family have spent the greater part of their summer vaactions there.

Last fall it was understood at Dresden that the Gardners would be in Europe all this summer, and Capt. T. C. Cathey, Mr. Gardner's father-in-law, who was overseer of the place, permitted Hough to assume the care of the premises.

Hough says he understood that he was to be undisturbed for a year. When he learned recently that the Gardners had not carried out the plan for a European tour, but expected to be in Dresden shortly, he employed a lawyer and filed his petition in chancery, obtaining the temporary injunction.

Family Going Away.

An answer was filed in Mr. Gardner's name, in which he denied that Hough was authorized by him to remain in the place for a year. He asked that the temporary injunction be dissolved.

At his home, 4576 West Pine boulevard, Mr. Gardner said Friday: "I have not followed the case closely. It has been necessary to use my name in the proceedings, as I am the owner. My family will probably want to go to the place after awhile."

MEN OF AFFAIRS

Need Proper Food to Supply the Brain.

A medical journal comments on the restless brain worker of our large cities and refers to the fact that he thinks he knows as much about the needs of the brain, when he is tired and shows brain fag, as a trained practitioner.

He is inclined to spur up the tired organ by some stimulant or perhaps quiet his complaints with some narcotic and this plan goes on until suddenly he collapses, for brain fag is a sure sign that the elements that compose the brain are being more rapidly used up than replaced by the food.

There is really a choice of but two pathways for an active brain worker—a man of affairs—when he shows symptoms of breaking down. Either he must quit work or he must have food that will replace the structure of brain and nerve centers as rapidly as they are used up each day.

Chemical analysis of the particles thrown out through the pores of the body shows that after continued brain work, a large portion of excreta contains phosphate of potash. It is known that when this element is furnished by the food in proper quantities, the system unites it with albumen and from that compound makes the gray matter that fills the nerve centers and the brain.

This is an especial feature of the food known as Grape-Nuts, a delicious, ready cooked and predigested breakfast food.

A definite and well understood gain in brain power and physical strength will set in after Grape-Nuts has been used eight or ten days, and sustained and continued brain work can be carried on if a reliance is placed upon this food in connection with the ordinary food of the day.

WHY WE DO IT

One man said: "I should think you could get regular prices at this season of the year." So we could. Many firms do. But suppose it should mean that several hundred suits would have to be carried over until next season? Then we would be failing to adhere to our cast-iron policy not to carry over clothing from one season to another. We want to give you the newest and the best in our power every year that we serve you. This backward season brought backward business, and our stocks must be reduced. Reduced prices will give us the reduced stocks. The benefit is yours.

Our Clothing Department is on the Third Floor. You are always welcome to inspect our suits; no obligation to purchase.

The May Co.

Your money back should you ask it.

We guarantee to give satisfaction.

GIRL PUPILS, CALLED TUTORS' "BABIES," QUIT

Pay $40 to Learn Telegraphy, but Go to Court After First Lesson in Wireless.

COMPLAIN TO COURT

Say Principal Tapped One's Knee and Refused to Refund Their Money.

"Ah! here are my babies!"

This is the surprising salutation with which Miss Lillian Bryan and her friend, Miss Mabel Harris, were greeted the first morning they appeared at the telegraphy school known as the Union Electric Telegraph Co. at 102 North Third street, according to testimony in Justice Grier's court Friday.

It was the principal of the school, Henry C. Roeth, who addressed the words to them, Miss Bryant testified, and when a few minutes later he began their instruction first by his hand on Miss Harris' arm and then by gently patting Miss Bryan on the knee, they decided to quit the school.

The girls demanded the return of $40 tuition fee which they had paid, and Mr. Roeth refused to give it to them. Justice Grier decided that the money must be returned to them.

Had Been Nurses.

Miss Bryan and Miss Harris were nurses in the State Hospital for the Insane at Nevada, Mo., when they read the advertisement of the Union Electric Co. in a St. Louis newspaper. They wrote to the school, and terms were arranged. Each sent $20 to Roeth. They came to St. Louis, May 13 last, and the following morning appeared for instruction at the school. It was then that they received the hearty welcome.

"We sat down at Mr. Roeth's desk," Miss Bryan testified Friday morning. "He began to talk about telegraphy and then he reached over and tapped Miss Harris on the arm. He even remarked what a shapely and pretty arm she had, and when she pulled it away, he turned to me.

"Then he began to talk to me, and the first thing I knew he was patting me gently on the knee. He asked me if I was married, and complimented me. I drew away.

Called by Nicknames.

"As we talked I called Miss Harris by the nickname 'Harry' and she called me 'Billie,' our nicknames. As soon as he heard them he began to addres us as 'Harry' and 'Billie.'

"'Billie,' he asked me, 'have you girls got your room yet I'll send out and rent a room for you.'

"We thanked him and said it was not necessary and then we went away. We decided that we didn't want to go to school to Mr. Roeth and we went back and asked for the $40 we had paid. He wouldn't give it to us. Then I wrote to Uncle Dick. He lives at Grafton, Ill., and he came down to see about it.

Mr. R. D. Mitchell, Miss Bryan's uncle, sat with her through the hearing.

On the stand Mr. Roeth, who is about 45, wears eyeglasses, dresses plainly and is portly, admitted that he had tapped Miss Marie on the arm and admitted that he tapped Miss Bryan on the knee.

"It is a part of the regular instruction," said he.

CHICKEN THIEF CARRIED ACCIDENT POLICY ALONG

Document Dropped Near Coop Bearing Name and Address Leads to Arrest.

Albert Koestlin of Alton, confessed pilferer of 30 chickens, made a daring effort Thursday evening to escape from Deputy Sheriff Crowe, who was taking him to Jail at Edwardsville from Alton. When the interurban car in which they were riding reached East St. Louis Crowe, seated beside his prisoner in the smoking compartment, leaned over to drop ashes from his cigar into a cuspidor. Koestlin leaped from his seat and dashed through the door of the car.

A passenger just entering impeded the fugitive's flight, and before he had run 0 yards in the street Crowe overtook him and dealt him a blow with his fist in the back of the head which felled and stunned him.

Koestlin was revived and taken on to dwardsville. He stole 30 chickens Tuesday night from a coop back of the home of W. R. Gillham, 301 Twentieth street, Alton, and while storing them in a sack dropped an accident insurance policy. Gillham found the policy, bearing Kostlin's name, age and address, the following morning, and when the man was arrested he admitted the theft. He had sold all the chickens.

Wants City to Build Terminals.

That terminals should be built on the river front by the city instead of the Terminal Association, as proposed by an ordinance before the Council, is the position taken Thursday night by the Twenty-fourth Ward Improvement Association. The opinions were expressed that railroad lines entering over the free bridge would then have switching facilities at a small cost.

POISON FOR DOGS, SACK FOR FOWLS

Residents Near Forest Park and Newstead Complain of Kennel and Coop Losses.

A dog poisoner and a chicken thief are emptying kennel and coop in the residence neighborhood around Newstead avenue and Forest Park boulevard.

Simon S. Bass, an attorney, living at 4396 Forest Park boulevard, told the police at the Newstead avenue station Friday that his Irish setter, for which he said he would not have taken $150, had just died after a four days' illness from poison.

He said he had been informed that Dr. Henry Jacobson of 4392 Laclede avenue and the Bohn family of 4381 Forest Park boulevard, had suffered similar losses in the past few days. Dr. Jacobson's dog, Bass said, was a fine Yorkshire terrier.

John E. Monan of 4380 Laclede avenue came in at about the same time to tell the police that a hen and 17 small chickens had been taken from his henhouse during the night.

"You don't think they could just have strolled out to the park to hear the band concert?" Capt. Mansfield asked him.

"I think they strolled away in a large gunny sack," was the reply.

It was reported in the neighborhood that eight dogs in all had been poisoned by strychnine in the past week. There is alarm not only for the surviving dogs, but for children, who, it is feared, may put into their mouths some article bearing the poison.

DELEGATES ATTEMPT TO MOB T. P. A. PRESIDENT AT NORFOLK

Effort to Carry Over Election Creates Tempest in National Convention.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORFOLK, Va., June 21.—The Travelers' Protective Association of America adjourned here at 5 a. m. today after a stormy session, in which efforts were made to mob President Howe because of his attempt to adjourn and carry election over until today.

W. R. Johnson of Knoxville was elected president over Thad H. Howe of Chicago by five votes, and Louis T. Lebeaume of St. Louis was re-elected secretary-treasurer over T. Schuyler Logan of Indiana by 12 majority.

Milwaukee was selected as the next place of meeting.

St. Louis members of the new Board of Directors are George W. Smith, Fred R. Scharlock, William Fisher and William Jackson.

Calls An Unmarried Pastor.

A call has been extended by the First Congregational Church, one of the strongest churches of that denomination in Missouri, to Rev. Albert H. Jordan of Mason City, Io. It is expected that he will arrive about Sept. 15. Mr. Jordan is a young unmarried man who has been in the pastorate for five years. During the Spanish-American War he was chaplain in the Army.

An interesting out-of-town wedding was that of Mrs. Anna McLean Moores of Texas and Mr. John R. Towler of St. Louis, which took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. D. Hunting, Birchmonte, North Conway, N. H.

Mrs. Towler was a member of the

BRIDE OF THIS WEEK, WAS MISS CLARA JULIAN

MRS. LUCIAN SHIPLEY.

Board of Lady Managers during the World's Fair, when she represented Texas. She was always popular and much sought after as a guest of honor not only among the Southern coterie, but with everyone.

Mr. Towler is prominent in St. Louis financial circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Towler will make their home at the Buckingham after an Eastern honeymoon journey.

Crittenden—Oliver.

William J. Crittenden, youngest son of Former Gov. Crittenden, and Miss Amelia Neville Oliver of Pittsburg, were married at 4 o'clock Wednesday at Shields, the suburban home of the mother, Mrs. James B. Oliver, near Pittsburg. The wedding appointments were simple, owing to the recent death of the bride's father and sister.

Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. The bride had her sister, the Marquise Alfred Dusmet de Smours of Naples, as her matron of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden departed for an Eastern honeymoon. They will make their home in Kansas City.

Bersche—Godron.

An approaching wedding of interest is that of Miss Ellonore Bersche to Mr. Frederick Godron, Wednesday evening, June 26.

The ceremony will be witnessed by only a few friends and relatives at the home of the sister of the bride, Mrs. Henninghause, 4306 Arsenal street. The bride will be attended by Miss Ethel Kingsland and Mr. Leslie M. Campbell will act as best man.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon in the East. On their return they will reside at 3133 Portis avenue, where they will be at home to friends the latter part of July.

Party for Miss Sawyer.

Mrs. Robert E. Lee of Blaine avenue entertained Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Lillian Sawyer. Miss Sawyer sang a number of selections. Another enjoyable feature of the evening was an informal piano recital by Mr. Chas. Doerr. A dainty luncheon was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stevens, Jules H. Neuhoff, Charles P. Gregory; Misses Lillian Sawyer, Miss Averill of Joplin, Miss Lee; Messrs. Charles L. Doerr, Stanley, Robert E. Lee.

Mrs. Selva Entertains.

Mrs. F. Selva of 2823 North Vandeventer avenue entertained friends Monday afternoon with a euchre party. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dick Richardson, Mrs. J. C. Christerphen and Mrs. Charles Ernst Jr.

Miss Hazel Richard received the booby prize. Delicious refreshments were served. Others present were: Mmes. E. Herzog, R. H. Enyard, Chas. Willette, C. Kurts, Leon Len, S. M. Keyes, L. Marks, Charles Ernst; Misses Hazel Richard, Jennie Weill.

Mrs. Morgan Surprised.

Mrs. S. S. Morgan of 2945 South Jefferson avenue was surprised Wednesday afternoon by friends and relatives calling in honor of her seventh wedding anniversary. The surprise was an apron shower. Those present were: Mmes. M. Wasterman, A. Lorenze, H. Brune, Nadler, S. Morgan, F. O. Moses, Charles Dunsford, W. W. Scott, J. A. Obrist; Miss Hazel Morgan.

St. Stephen's Athletic Banquet.

Thursday the St. Stephens Athletic Club gave a banquet in honor of its success. Mr. William Roberts acted as toastmaster. Present were:

Washington Club Dinner.

The Washington Club of Christian Brothers College gave a stag dinner Tuesday night in honor of William Ratican Jr., to celebrate his victory in the 100-yard college championship. Those present were: Messrs. William Ratican Jr., John Dougherty, Deveraux Henderson, Edwin Fox and Frank Stauf.

Becker—Janssen.

Among the pretty weddings of the week was that of Miss Florence V. Becker and Mr. Arnold H. Janssen Wednesday morning at the Visitation Church, Rev. Father E. J. Dempsey performing the ceremony. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Olive E. Wesseling, as maid of honor and sole attendant, Mr. George F. Janssen serving his brother as best man.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Terry will be at home to their friends after July 15 at 4721 Cook avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wolf will leave about the middle of July for a two-months' trip to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. George Leves are the proud owners of a son, whom they have called Frederick Herbert.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman King will leave Saturday for New Haven, Conn., where they will attend the commencement exercises of Yale University, where their son, Clarence Hopkins King, will graduate this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence A. Bowlin of Windermere place will close their residence the coming week and with their family depart for their cottage at Douglas, Mich., to remain until Sept. 15.

Miss Hermine Gratz, who has been at St. Luke's Hospital since her serious accident of last Sunday was partly conscious Wednesday afternoon and night, though her condition remians about the same.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Brockman, daughter of Mrs. Emma Brockman, and Mr. A. A. Hunt is announced for Saturday, June 29.

The ceremony is to be performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. S. C. Palmer of Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church, in the presence of the immediate families only.

The bride will wear a dainty lingerie bridal robe of French batiste and lace, and will carry a shower of lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns.

Mr. Hunt and his bride will dispense with a wedding trip and go to housekeeping at 623 Veronica avenue, East St. Louis, where they will be at home after Sept. 1.

Woman Pulls Girl From Creek.

Dashing into the waters of a narrow but swift stream near Kimberly avenue and Williams place, Mrs. E. J. Weininger of 3420 Abner place saved Mable Briqueler, 4 years old, of 3431 Williams place, from drowning Thursday afternoon. The little girl had lost her balance while trying to catch a small fish. Mrs. Weininger, who was standing near, heard her scream. Wading into the water she caught the girl's hands just as the current was taking her forward to a deep pool.

RISE IN PRICE OF MEAT IS NATURAL

Secretary Wilson Expects Further Advance and Says Packers Are Not to Blame.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

WASHINGTON, June 21.—In the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, the recent increase in the price of meats is entirely natural, and even a further advance in prices may be expected.

That the cost of meats is greater today than ever before is conceded, but Secretary Wilson believes American prosperity is at the bottom of the situation. The people are eating more meat and the farmers are not raising as many cattle as formerly.

There is also an enormous export trade which cuts a great hole in the supply. Last year we sent abroad more than $223,000,000 worth of animals, meats and animal products.

It was suggested to Mr. Wilson that the high price of meats was due chiefly to the determination of the meat packers of Chicago so far to increase prices as to make the public pay for losses suffered by the packers as a result of the meat inspection law.

"I don't think there is anything in that," said the Secretary. "As a matter of fact, Chicago does not fix the price of cattle. New York and the East have their buyers at Chicago, and they compete too sharply for Chicago alone to fix the prices."

One Session in Four Years.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer which does not always excite suspicion because of its insignificance; but as the poison becomes more firmly rooted in the blood, the mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a rash breaks out on the body, the hair begins to come out, glands in the neck and groins swell, and often ulcerating sores form on the limbs, hands or face. But this is not all: if the poison is allowed to remain it works down and attacks the bones, causing necrosis or decay, and makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. It will not do to tamper with a disease so powerful as Contagious Blood Poison, for every day the virus remains in the blood the trouble is progressing toward a more dangerous stage, and may in the end get beyond the reach of any treatment. There is but one certain, reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison, and that is S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers. This remedy attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the blood and forcing out every particle of the poison. It makes the blood pure and rich, strengthens the different parts of the body, tones up the system and cures this humiliating and destructive disorder permanently. The improvement commences as so on as the patient gets under the influence of S. S. S. and continues until every vestige of the poison is driven from the blood, and the sufferer completely restored to health. S. S. S. is not an experiment, it is a success and has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison in every stage, and being entirely free from minerals, is a safe as well as certain treatment. If you are suffering with this debasing disease get the poison out of your blood with S. S. S. before it does further damage. Special home treatment book on the disease and medical advice sent free to all who write.

COUZINS SPEECH STIRS TEMPEST

She Charges University Snubbed Her; Chancellor Admits Address Was Turned Down.

WASN'T SPECIALLY INVITED

Name Not on Program, but Washington Women Gave Out Copies for Publication.

Chancellor Chaplin of Washington University said Friday that the reason Miss Phoebe Couzins did not speak at the commencement exercises of Washington University Thursday was that she had not been invited to do so by the faculty and that her specific request that she be permitted to do so was refused.

"She knew perfectly well she was not going to speak," said Mr. Chaplin, "because I had written to her and told her so."

Not Invited to Speak.

Mr. Chaplin said Miss Couzins was not invited to St. Louis to make a speech, but merely received an invitation like every other one of the university's thousands of graduates. Miss Couzins admits herself that she wrote to the alumni association asking that she be permitted to make an address at the alumni dinner, but that she was told that the program had already been arranged.

Then she wrote a long letter to President Brookings of the university from Washington, D. C., where she makes her home, repeating her request. The letter was answered by Mr. Chaplin. Miss Couzins did not say what it contained. But Mr. Chaplin stated Friday that it contained a refusal.

Miss Couzins Gave Out Speech.

Miss Couzins came to St. Louis, nevertheless, and furnished newspapers with a copy of her "speech." Friday she asked that the manuscript be returned to her.

Miss Couzins, in her invalid chair, occupied a place near the front at the commencement exercises and was also present at the alumni banquet. She was not called on at either place. Now she says she was snubbed.

RICH PLANTER IS HELD A PRISONER ON A SHIP

Hotchkiss Refused to Go to Hoffman Island Until Quarantine Was Lifted.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, June 21.—Edward L. Hotchkiss, the manager of a Cuban plantation, is a cheerful and well-fed prisoner aboard the Ward liner Havana, lying at the foot of Wall street. When he sailed from Havana crowded conditions in the first cabin forced him to take passage in the intermediate class.

When the ship arrived in New York the health authorities tried to compel him to go to Hoffman Island along with the other second cabin passengers to fill out the five-day quarantine period instead of allowing him to land with the first-class voyagers. Mr. Hotchkiss would not go, so the ship's officers had to keep him aboard until the quarantine period expires today.

Hotchkiss, when released today, will go to a lawyer to find out what his rights are. In an interview he said:

"I am going to make a test case to find out whether this difference between first-class and intermediate passengers is to be continued. I am not after a pecuniary compensation, but I want the business of either sending all the passengers or none to Hoffman Island to be settled."

FIRST WHITE PLAGUE STUDY CLASS IS HELD IN OPEN AIR

Illustrated Free Lecture Informs Public of Dangers of Spitting in Cars.

The first of the open-air meetings to educate the public about tuberculosis, suggested by the Post-Dispatch, was held Thursday evening in the yard of the Patrick Henry School, Tenth and O'Fallon streets, under the auspices of the Society for the Relief and Prevention of Consumption.

N. O. Nelson presided over the meeting and Dr. Jesse S. Meyer delivered an illustrated lecture, terse warnings and suggestions relative to tuberculosis thrown on the screen used to illustrate the lecture. They dealt principally with the problem of expectoration. These meetings will be held frequently from now on and will be addressed by leading physicians.

POLITICS FORCES DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK TO RESIGN

Clayton Man Quits to Fight Maplewood-Greenwood Consolidation.

Adolph Helmering, deputy clerk at Clayton, in charge of County Court records, resigned Friday as a result of the controversy over the proposed incorporation of Maplewood and Greenwood. He was told by County Clerk John Ruhl that he would have to let the controversy severely alone or else resign. He chose the latter alternative.

County Clerk Ruhl says that the question of incorporation will have to be decided by the County Court, and that he did not think it was proper for any member of the County Clerk's staff to be taking sides in the matter.

Elk Killed by Paralysis.

A young buck elk, born at the Forest Park Zoo a year ago, died Thursday evening after a brief illness. He never has run wild in shadowy forest aisles as nature intended his kind to do, and civilization was too much for him. He was stricken with paralysis. The head keeper says many animals in captivity are affected in that way.

STABBED BY HIS SON'S PURSUER

Hammerle Intercepts Stranger After Boy and Is Seriously Injured.

Archibald Hammerle, 32 years old, a painter of 4611 Sacramento avenue, was stabbed in the abdomen at 9 p. m. Thursday by a man whom he tried to prevent from chasing his son Francis Hammerle, 11 years old, and another boy.

Hammerle, who was a short distance from his home, saw the man running after the boys. He barred th pusuer's way.

The man drew a knife and slashed at Hammerle. The blade penetrated several inches into the body.

Hammerle pursued his assailant for two blocks, but his strength gave out and the man escaped. Hammerle then walked painfully back to his home, where a physician was summoned. The physician directed that Hammerle be removed to the City Hospital, where it was reported Friday morning that his condition was serious. He says he does not know the man who stabbed him.

SERGEANT GEORGE BYRNES STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY

Soulard Street Station Officer Becomes Unconscious After Hearty Meal.

Sergeant George Byrnes of the Soulard Street Police Station was reported to be dying of apoplexy Friday morning. He went to his home at 11 a. m. Thursday, ate a hearty meal and then nailed up the back fence of his yard. He lay down to take a nap afterwards, complained of a headache and lapsed into unconsciousness.

The family physician was summoned. He said that a blood vessel in the brain had burst. The Sergeant's right side was paralyze and he remains unconscious. It was said Friday that he could not live through the day.

LIGHTNING HIT CHIMNEY, KILLS BOY IN THE HOUSE

Mule Standing Near Partially Completed Building Also Killed, But Man Was Unhurt.

Lightning that struck the chimney of a house being erected at Glencoe, St. Louis County, killed William Lutz, 19 years old, who had sought shelter from a storm Thursday afternoon in a room through which the chimney ran. A mule tied under the porch not six feet away from where the boy was found was also killed.

The house is the property of Benjamin Gratz of 3656 West Pine boulevard. The young man, who is the son of a contractor at Glencoe, had been working on the roof until the storm came up. His father was standing within a few feet of the house when he heard the crash as the lightning struck the house. His son was dead when he reached him.

Paine's Home Not For Sale.

JUDGE FINDS COLLUSION IN MILLS DIVORCE

After Hearing How Spirits Kept Tab on Husband Court Throws Out Case.

WIFE HAD SUED ALSO

She Denies Story of the Ghosts But Admits She Went to a Clairvoyant.

Mrs. Flora Edith Mills of 3311 Morgan street is not so sorry that she failed to get a divorce from Edward Mills of 3802 Arsenal street. She kept her husband from getting a divorce from her, anyway. She smiled her satisfaction when Judge Withrow dismissed both her husband's petition and her cross-petition at the conclusion of the case.

There was a buzz of approval from women sympathizers.

"The indications of collusions are so strong in this case, on the part of both," said Judge Withrow, when the evidence was all in, "that I shall dismiss both the bill and the crossbill."

Had An Agreement.

The comment on collusion referred to an agreement entered into by Mr. and Mrs. Mills the day before he filed his suit, by which part of the property was made over to her and her husband, was to have the custody of the children. The expectation was that she would be away from the city for a time and would not contest the suit, but she repented having assented to her husband's custody of the children, repudiated the agreement as far as she could and filed a crossbill.

Mrs. Mills denied on the witness stand that she had told Mr. Mills that the spirits told tales on him to her. She told him, she said, that she had had a dream about him. She admitted that she had gone to a clairvoyant, who told her that her husband drank.

She said she caught him 15 years ago in the kitchen kissing and hugging the servant girl and that he "got pretty gay" with a woman employed in the house after their return from California.

Kept in An Asylum.

She was kept, she said, three and a half months at St. Vincent's and her husband called on her only three times and did not bring the younger children to see her at all. Mr. Mills explained when he was on the stand that he remained away because the doctor so advised.

Rev. William Court, pastor of the Grand Avenue Methodist Church, of which Mr. and Mrs. Mills are members, denied that he talked about Mrs. Mills to Mrs. John Rothschild on a street car. "I was very guarded in what I said to Mrs. Rothschild," he said.

WANTS LID LOOSENED TO LET PORTERS CLEAN UP

Delegate Warner Says Mulvihill's Order Will Cause Unsanitary Conditions.

Delegate Warner will enlist the aid of the Board of Health in an effort to obtain permission from Excise Commissioner Mulvihill for porters and attaches of saloons to remain inside for an hour and a half after midnight Sunday morning to clean up. He says Mr. Mulvihill's ruling, which is that the saloon must close promptly at midnight and remain so until 5 a. m. Monday, produces unsanitary conditions harmful to the general health.

Delegate Warner says foam blown from beer on the floor, which is also littered with scraps of free lunch, will, unless the porters are permitted to do their work after the saloons are closed, cause offensive odors before Monday morning.

Commissioner Mulvihill declares that owners and their employes will be allowed to enter saloons during proscribed hours only for emergency purposes, and then they must lock the doors behind them. Leniency in this respect, he says, affords opportunity for breaking the law.

FATHER KELLY FINDS LOST PRIEST IN THE HOSPITAL

Pensioned Prelate From Milwaukee Falls Downstairs in His Home.

Making his daily round through the City Hospital Friday Father T. T. Kelly of St. Vincent de Paul's Church found Father Theodore Garthaus of Milwaukee in the surgical ward with a broken leg. Father Kelly had been searching for Father Garthaus two days.

A week ago a man about 70 years old called on Father Kelly at St. Vincent's parsonage and presented a letter from Archbishop Messmer of the Milwaukee diocese saying that the bearer was Father Garthaus, a retired and pensioned priest and that any courtesies extended to him would be appreciated.

The only favor asked by Father Garthaus was that he be permitted to say mass at St. Vincent's Church each morning. He did this until Wednesday, when he failed to appear at the usual hour.

Father Kelly endeavored to find out where the retired priest lived, but he had no clew to his whereabouts until he found him in the hospital Friday. On the records he was entered as "A. Gardner."

He fell down a flight of stairs at his rooming place at 708 South Fourth street Tuesday afternoon. Father Kelly had him removed to the Mullanphy Hospital.

FOUR MEN STRICKEN DEAD COMRADES PRAY IN TERROR

Flash of Electricity Instantly Kills Laborers in Factory on Staten Island.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Four men wheeling a dummy engine on a flatcar in a factory enclosure at Mariners' Harbor, Staten Island, last evening, suddenly were felled dead in their tracks and their two comrades hurled 20 feet.

The Italians working about the grounds were terror-stricken, and prayers were offered that they be spared. A hundred laborers were paralyzed with fear, until the foreman saw that the smokestack of the engine had come in contact with an electric wire, communicating the high voltage to the men who were pushing the engine boiler. It took some tiem to quiet the fears of the superstitious laborers.

Will Not Tell Where Ring Is.

Still refusing to tell to whom she gave the $900 diamond ring stolen from Miss Catherine Verner of Pittsburg, Pa., when the latter was a guest at Dr. R. E. Wilson's home, 4224 Westminster place, Lillie Poston, the 19-year-old nurse girl, pleaded guilty Thursday before Judge Rodgers of the Court of General Sessions.

CALICO DRESSES FAVORED FOR SCHOOL GIRL GRADUATES

Chicago Teachers Working in Interest of Poor Students as Against Rich.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Calico dresses for high school girl graduates! This is the probable dictum of the Board of Education whose commands may be invoked to save poor students from humiliation and heartaches on account of rich girls who read their essays in extravagant and costly attire.

An organization of high school teachers today began work on a plan to bring about uniformity of cost and material in costumes to be worn in the future by graduates of the Chicago high schools, the intention being to enlist so much support among teachers and pupils as to compel action on the part of the Board of Education.

Chemist Arrested in Park.

A man giving the name of Fred Hertel, and who says he is a chemist living at 1800 Menard street, is under arrest at the Tower Grove Police Station charged with improper conduct in Tower Grove Park Thursday afternoon. James C. Stice of 3720 Juniata street, 16-year-old son of James L. Stice, assistant postmaster, is held as a witness against him.

First Humphrey Law Violator.

John Malon, who conducts a saloon at 825 O'Fallon street, is the first saloonkeeper to be cited before Excise Commissioner Mulvihill for alleged violation of the new Humphrey law, which provides that all dramshops must be closed between the hours of 1 and 5 a. m. The hearing will be held next Tuesday. Malon is accused of selling liquor to two men between the proscribed hours.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER

INDIGESTION

MRS. E. KEOGH.

Show me a person who suffers from indigestion or dyspepsia and I will show you a person with the meanest disposition on earth. You can't blame them.

Nothing in the world takes all the cheer and brightness out life like a balky stomach. People who suffer in this way feel out of humor, out of sorts and irritable all the time. They can't eat a meal without suffering intensely afterward. Their faces are usually covered with pimples and blotches. They always have headache, constipation, are tired and listless, and as many whom I have talked to put it "just feel mean and bad all over." They are always dosing themselves on pills and pre-digested foods and the like until they have so weakened their stomachs that they can't eat anything. It's all nonsense. I have seen and talked with people who had lived for months on milk and toast, take a bottle or two of Cooper's New Discovery, and inside of two weeks sit down and eat a big meal at night then go to bed and sleep as well as any one. Here is one case I have in mind.

Mrs. Ellen Keogh, 1907 Ogden Av., Superior, Wis., recently wrote me:

"No one knows what awful suffering I have endured from indigestion. My stomach would not digest the simplest foods and no matter what I ate I would be sure to suffer afterwards. I was also constipated and had queer dizzy spells and frightful headaches. Oft times I felt so badly that I could scarcely walk. I had taken Cooper's New Discovery but a short time when I noticed a decided improvement. Now I can truthfully say I feel greatly improved in every way and today for the first time in ten years I enjoyed a hearty meal. I am indeed very grateful to you."

The fact that Mr. Cooper's medicines enjoy larger sales than any others is proof of their great merit. They are sold by all druggists.

TO ERECT OFFICE BUILDINGS

Plans Filed for Structures at an Aggregate Cost of Nearly $400,000.

Applications for permits in the office of Building Commissioner Smith within the past 15 days show that office buildings costing nearly $400,000 are to be erected in the Washington avenue wholesale district this summer.

The Dulaney Realty Co. will erect an eight-story structure on Robbins Lane, between Washington and Lucas avenues, at a cost of $125,000. It will be 60x130 feet. The architect is A. B. Groves, and the contractors the Murch Bros. Construction Co.

The Chapman estate has a permit to construct an eight-story building at 1320 Washington avenue, to cost $125,000, while the Misval Realty Co. will erect a seven-story building at 1508 Washington avenue at a cost of $92,000.

GERMAN JESUITS FOR JAPAN

Will Take the Missionary Post Pope Had Intended for Mission Priest.

It is thought by St. Louis representatives of the Jesuits that Pope Pius will abandon the plan he had in view of turning over next fall to the Missouri province of the Jesuits the missionary and educational work in Japan, on account of the controversy that has arisen between the United States and Japan over the San Francisco incidents.

The Pope some time ago sent Bishop O'Connell to Tokio to study conditions there and the Bishop reported that in his opinion American Jesuits could best accomplish the work on account of the friendly feeling between the two countries. Jesuits from France are now in charge. There are about 40,000 Catholic converts in Japan. It is believed that the German Jesuits will now be given charge of the work.

TERMINAL MUST IMPROVE WHARF IN THREE YEARS

Lease Changed to Empower City to Recover Ground for Failure.

RENTAL UNDETERMINED

City's Revenue From River Front Depends on Government's Ruling.

Changes that will better protect the city's interests and insure larger terminal facilities have been made by members of the City Council's Railroad Committee, Harbor Commissioner Whyte, City Counselor Bates and Albert T. Perkins, adviser to the Municipal Commission, in the bill granting to the Terminal Railroad Association a lease of the wharf between Ashley and North Market streets.

Their revision has made practically a new measure.

Other additions and amendments are under consideration, but cannot be incorporated until the War Department has decided to what distance into the river the city's ownership and jurisdiction extend.

The Terminal Association has accepted all the new provisions and stipulations thus far written into the original bill by its revisers.

Rental Is in Doubt.

The amount of rental to be charged for the use of the wharf is among the questions to be left for settlement to the Railroad Committee. The rate of compensation cannot be fixed until it is known what area will be ultimately available.

The bill authorizing the lease was drawn by attorneys of the Terminal Association and introduced at their request into the City Council.

In the first section a stipulation has been inserted that the term of the lease is to be three years, during which the construction of the terminals is to be completed. If at the end of that period the dike is built the wharf is filled and leveled to the satisfaction of the Board of Public Improvements the lease will be extended for 47 years.

Should the Terminal Association fail to do the work in three years the bill as it now stands, provides that tracks, buildings and materials must be forfeited and the wharf restored to the city.

Tracks, inclines, landings and all other improvements are to be approved by the municipal authorities.

Every Third Street Open.

A vital requirement is that every third street shall be opened across the strip of wharf to the river, and that these roadways are to be built and maintained by the Terminal Railroad Association.

The Terminal Association is prohibited from making any charge for use of the wharf by boats receiving or discharging cargoes.

If the Federal Government prevents the use of that part of the wharf which lies east of the inner harbor line and between Ashley and North Market streets, the area originally believed to be available for these terminals will be reduced by half.

It was at first supposed that the city could lease a total of 21 acres. With the inner harbor line as the eastern boundary of municipal jurisdiction the acreage would be between 9 and 10 acres or 402,672 square feet.

South of Brooklyn street nearly all the high level wharf already extends east of the inner harbor line.

WATTERSON SAYS HUGHES WILL LEAD REPUBLICANS

Believes New York Governor Will Receive Nomination for the Presidency.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 21.—In an interview at Bloomington, where he is attending the commencement exercises of Indiana University, Henry Waterson gave it as his opinion that Gov. Hughes of New York would be the national standard bearer of the Republicans next year. He said:

"Gov. Hughes is the most available man the Republicans can nominate for the Presidency and the trend is certainly all towards him now. He is saying nothing but is attending strictly to business and is making a record as an efficient executive.

"Probably two-thirds of the delegates will go to the National Convention instructed for favorite sons and there will of necessity be a dropping out after a few ballots. Then the effort to concentrate on some man will be made and the choice of the majority will fall upon Gov. Hughes, unless I am much mistaken.

"I like Fairbanks, who is a Western man and a neighbor, and would be glad to see him nominated, but I don't think he or anyone else now actively before the people as a candidate stands any chance of receiveng the nomination."

NIEZINGER PLANS ALIBI IN ACID THROWING CASE

Hopes to Prove He Was Four Miles Distant When Mrs. Wunsch Was Attacked.

Albert Niezinger, identified by Mrs. Lena Wunsch as the man who threw acid in her eyes a week ago, will endeavor to prove an alibi. His attorney appeared Thursday evening at the Four Courts, and told the police he had letters by which he could prove conclusively that Niezinger was at Klausman's Grove, four miles from the scene of the acid throwing, when it occurred. Mrs. Wunsch and a man were walking near Kiser's Garden at Fifteenth and Osceola streets when attacked. She is at the City Hospital and has lost her sight. Niezinger's trial is set for July 2.

Blind Pupils Get Diplomas.

Four blind pupils received diplomas at the commencement exercises of the Missouri School for the Blind held Thursday night in the auditorium of the school. The invocation was read by Rev. J. C. L. Boehm of Piedmont, Mo. The graduates are George William Dieter, Eugene Carroll Mahanay, Waldemar Karl Keitel and Travis Harris Stillwell.

Joseph Bogy Dead.

Joseph Bogy, son of former United States Senator Lewis Bogy, died from paralysis Thursday night at Eureka, Mo., where he has been living for the past five years. Bogy was formerly a resident of St. Louis and while he was here he suffered a paralytic stroke. Bogy is survived by his wife, daughter and two sons.

Church Pigeons for Supper.

Hundreds of doves, which had made their home among the rafters and in the spire of the Centenary Methodist Church at Sixteenth and Pine streets, gave up their lives Thursday to supply material for a squab supper, to be served Friday night by the Epworth League. Members of the league caught the pigeons and killed them.

Don't Let Talk Take the Place of Test

Don't let anyone's prejudice or selfish opposition convince you that any of the "Triangle A" brands are not better than any other cigars sold at the same price.

That's no way to judge.

You can test it for yourself, and you are the only one who knows when the cigar suits you.

Smoke any "Triangle A" brand and compare it fairly with any other cigar sold at the same price.

We are willing to stake the success of our whole business on public opinion founded on this test.

The experience which has been combined in producing the American Cigar Company's cigars was acquired from the operation of nearly 100 of the most famous and successful factories in Cuba and the United States. And processes of proper refining and scientific blending mean much to every smoker.

You can bank on the "Triangle A" sign every time. No more raw, green, bitter tobacco in your cigars!

Is that worth the trouble?

The "Triangle A" is the mark that protects you.

The New CREMO

5 cents

Every box is now extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red. The cigars are kept clean, fresh and in perfect smoking condition until the box is opened.

SHOT IN BACK FROM AMBUSH

White Oak Resident Declares He Was Rat Hunting When He Fired.

William Tebbs of White Oak, Ill., who is in the Belleville Jail on a charge of assault to murder, says he was shooting at rats when he hit Abner Hamilton of Marissa in the back.

Tebbs was arrested. He had had a quarrel with George Higgins, a neighbor. He left the Higgins home vowing vengeance. He went home, procured his shotgun and a jug of whisky and went into the woods near the main road from Marissa to White Oak and lay down beside some bushes.

When Abner Hamilton went along the road at the point where Tebbs was hiding he heard someone say: "Now I've got you," he says. At the same time he heard a shot and felt a stinging sensation in his back. He looked around and saw Tebbs with the smoking gun in his hand, held as if ready to shoot again.

Planning Tab on 2-Cent Fares.

General auditors of Missouri and Illinois railroads met at the Jefferson Hotel Friday to consider plans for tabulating the earnings of the various roads under the 2-cent fare law, which becomes effective in Illinois July 1. As the railroads expect to enjoin the operation of the law at the expiration of a 10-days' trial, the auditors are anxious to adopt a uniform system of accounting in order to make a joint presentation of figures to the courts.

CLOTHING OF DEAD GIRL WAS TORN

Article Found in Lake Indicates That Mary Vennell Met Violent Death.

BRIDGETON, N. J., June 21.—An article of clothing belonging to Mary Vennell, whose body was found in Sunset Lake, was found by a World reporter today on the edge of the shore at Piney Point. The spot where this article was discovered is about 100 yards from where the body was found and close to where George Evans, who took Miss Vennell out in the boat, says he landed when he swam ashore after his boat was sunk. He did not make any attempt to save the girl.

The article was still damp, as if it had been in the water, and was torn, as if it had been removed by violence. Ever since the drowning occurred the relatives of the girl have insisted that she wore this piece of clothing when she left home. It was shown to Mrs. Eliza Ecrett, the mother of Miss Vennell, who, in the presence of Coroner Hitchner, positively identified it.

Identified by Girl's Mother.

"I gave it to my daughter," she said, "late Monday afternoon. She came in here while I was ironing and asked me for it, and I gave it to her. I know it is the same, because it is darned."

The newly discovered evidence has an important bearing on the case, as it strongly suggests that violence was used in removing it. Added to this are the abrasions on the upper and lower lips and the cut on the inner side of the lower lip, which was probably made by contact with the teeth.

There are no other marks of violence on the body, despite reports to the contrary. There is a well-defined scratch about an inch and a half long on Evans' right cheek. He told a reporter he did not know how he got this scratch.

Several persons who were out on the lake the night of the tragedy have come forward to testify that about the time Miss Vennell came to her death they heard a scream in the direction of Piney Point. One of those who heard the scream is a substantial Bridgeton citizen, who called on the Coroner this morning.

Evans Hired a Boat.

Henry Batcheler, who had charge of the boathouse on Tuesday night, remembered hiring the boat to Evans and Miss Vennell. He said if Evans had been drinking he did not notice it. He also contradicted the report that Evans took three bottles of beer out in the boat with him.

J. Hampton Fithian is Prosecutor of the Pleas of Cumberland County, of which Bridgeton is the county seat. Mayor George Hampton of Bridgeton is Mr. Fithian's law partner. These two men held a consultation with the Coroner, at which the newly discovered evidence was discussed.

"While there is evidence pointing to violence," said the prosecutor after the conference, "I do not think it advisable to make an arrest at this time.

"I have had a talk with the father of George Evans and he has assured me that he will produce his son at the inquest on Tuesday next, or at any other time his presence may be required. We propose to make a thorough investigation of Miss Vennell's death."

PERPETUAL PURE MILK CRUSADE

City Chemist Reports 144 Prosecutions Successful.

City Chemist Buckland, in his annual report, says that not only was the prosecution of violators of milk laws a success during the past year, but a perpetual crusade along the same lines is to be maintained by his department.

Only 14 of 158 cases prosecuted in police court failed of conviction, while in most instances the defendants received heavy fines.

There will be no need of increased appropriations in Mr. Buckland's department. He was given $16,910 with which to conduct it the past year, and turned back $5108.05 into the city treasury.

BAKER LAYS BARE ALLEGED BRIBERY PLOT

Says He Was Paid to Swear Killian Threatened Williams Before Murder.

MET BY GERNEZ, HE SAYS

Taken Care of, He Declares, by McGrath, and Sent Out of St. Louis.

In answer to the affidavit of Joseph Baker, the runaway witness in the Williams' murder case, Attorney John A. Gernez, Williams' lawyer who is now facing contempt of court charges, denies that he ever gave Baker money.

Gernez's statement of what Baker said in Judge Harvey's office regarding the killing, and Baker's statement in the affidavit, of what he was primed to say when there by Thomas McGrath, agree in every particular.

Baker says his life was threatened. He said he came to St. Louis a stranger from New York Feb. 10 last and on the night of Feb. 26 entered McGrath's saloon and saw Williams shoot and kill Lee Killian. On May 6 a stranger he had met in a saloon introduced him to McGrath and the three went to a cafe for dinner. While at dinner Baker quotes McGrath as saying:

Pleads for Williams.

"Now, you are a young man and a stranger in this town, and you need friends. Be a good fellow and you'll get along all right. That's a mighty nice boy in Jail. Treat him right and you'll never want anything."

Baker says McGrath suggested that he change the testimony he had given before the Coroner and say that he had overheard Killian say that he was going to kill Williams. He was told to say that he heard Killian say this to Harry Nelson as they were entering the saloon.

The testimony was to be that Nelson asked Killian how he was going to "get" Williams and that Killian replied that he was going to "put him off watch," and that he had his two brothers, Don and Pierce, there to take care of McGrath.

"McGrath further asked me to swear that the witness, John Shannon, was not present," the affidavit says. "McGrath also asked me to swear I saw Killian's gun by Killian's body on the floor and not in his pocket. He further wanted me to say Killian was not very much intoxicated. I told McGrath that I would make such a statement, but would not swear to it.

Soon Meets Gernez.

"The next day I saw Gernez and he said: 'Well, McGrath has told you what to say. Now you do that. I said I would do so. Later Gernez took me to the office of Thomas B. Harvey. He said 'I want you to make this statement before Judge Harvey and not to forget what McGrath told you to say.'

"At various times I received money from Gernes. Gernez asked me to get beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and said if I did not do so I would be indicted for perjury and sent to the Penitentiary. He tried to intimidate me.

"On the first of June Harry Broiasky put me to work on the steamboat City of Providence. He paid me $4 and advised me to leave the city and gave me $10 for fare. Later I met a stranger who told me to see Frank Williams and also if I did not leave the city I would be a dead man before I could testify in the trial.

"They so worked and preyed upon me that I left St. Louis June 5 for Detroit to get beyond the jurisdiction of the court and to avoid the necessity of testifying."

MYSTERY IN CAUSE OF DEATH

Members of Family Believe Kuemmel Assaulted and Robbed.

Gustave Kuemmel, aged 57, died at a hospital on North Garrison avenue Thursday night, following injuries received in a mysterious manner Monday night. Kuemmel, who was employed in the office of a German newspaper, was summoned there Monday night after supper. When he returned to his home, 2661A California avenue, at 10 o'clock, his shirt front was covered with blood, his nose was swollen, there were cinders in his hair and his pocketbook, containing $26, was missing.

He did not explain how he was injured. Tuesday he was removed to the hospital and there he became delirous. His widow and four children think he was assaulted and robbed by a highwayman. Dr. C. S. Rehfeldt of 2255 South Jefferson avenue, however, says the primary cause of death was alcoholism. An inquest will be held.

W. J. SMITH DIES SUDDENLY

Passes Away Within an Hour After He Becomes Ill.

Within less than an hour after he had complained of feeling ill William J. Smith, president of the George P. Plant Milling Co., died at 11 p. m. Thursday of apoplexy at his home, 4322 Lindell boulevard. The funeral will be held Saturday.

Mr. Smith was 52 years old. Before coming to St. Louis in 1880 he had been a broker at Memphis. His connection with the Plant company extended over 25 years. He is survived by his wife and a 6-year-old daughter, Isabelle.

WATER COLORS ATTRACT THRONG TO ART MUSEUM

Second Annual Exhibition Brings Out Many Excellent Specimens of the Work of Local and Foreign Artists.

The second annual water color exhibition was opened Thursday afternoon at the Art Museum in Forest Park, when a reception was given to the annual members of the Art Institute and press representatives. The exhibition was opened to the public Friday.

One of the most remarkable water colors ever shown here was discovered late in the afternoon by a party of artists. It is Adam Emory Albright's "In the Firelight." This picture is painted on canvas instead of paper, and is so like an oil painting in treatment that it required long and careful studying to convince the artists that it was really a water color. The green haze over the entire picture is remarkable, and the coloring and treatment of texture are exceedingly fine.

To quote a well-known sculptor: "It is one of the most remarkable and stunning things that has been displayed here for a long time. It is by far the most remarkable picture in this collection."

"Near the Sea," by Fidelia Bridges, the 70-year-old New York woman, was much admired, though her opaque sky was not considered as effective as W. H. Lippincott's in his "Boat Landing."

Second Fifth Avenue Scene.

Colin Campbell Cooper has another Fifth avenue scene, or rather, the same scene that he painted last year, from a different angle. His last year's picture was bought by the Museum, and is considered somewhat better than the one now on exhibition.

Walter Jack Duncan's "Wasington Square" is very fine in the simplicity of its treatment. Childe Hassam, who is very well known in St. Louis, and whose last year's picture was sold here, has three on display this year.

F. Louis Mora's "Before the Bullfight" is very strong. It shows the fighters kneeling in front of the shrine before entering the ring.

Mr. Wuerpel would like R. M. Shurtleff's "Morning." The spirit of early dawn is admirably portrayed and the deer in the distance are indicated rather than detailed.

Albert Felix Schmitt has made a new departure in his "Bathers." Schmitt is primarily a painter of still life, but he shows great versatility in the excellence of this figure picture. His "Symphony in Blue," a still life picture, hangs in an adjoining gallery of the museum, among the permanent collection.

Picture That Puzzles.

A picture that attracted the artists and received their enthusiastic praise, but which would scarcely appeal to ordinary mortals, was Henry Reuterdahl's "The Finish of the Yacht Race." The coloring in this picture is very fine. The picture was the bone of contention between the artists and groups of visitors all afternoon, the artists trying to explain what the picture really represents.

Lee Woodward Zeigler's "Last Lover" shows a woman receiving the kiss of the Death Angel, while her earthly lover is prostrated with grief. It is a very pretentious subject for a water color, and received both praise and criticism.

Charles Livingston Bull, in his decorative panel, gives a very beautiful treatment of the peacock.

W. H. Drake's lion pictures are exceedingly strong, particularly his "Lion's Lair."

Emma Lampert Cooper's "Weaver" was greatly admired. Her treatment of texture is especially fine.

Studies in Still Life.

Some very fine studies in still life are shown, among them pictures by Elizabeth R. Hardenbergh, May S. Haldock, S. Stella Henoch, Villa Jones, Mina Fonda Ochtman, wife of Leonard Ochtman, Mrs. E. M. Scott and Bell Cady White.

Leon Mora has a very pretty sketch-like figure, which he calls "Sylvia." The girl is of the dainty, fluffy type so popular just now for the oval panels.

"The Blue Ribbon" by Francis Day was generally conceded to be appropriate for a Paddle and Saddle Club.

The coloring in William J. Whittemore's "Pan's Pipes" is very beautiful.

There are pictures for everyone in this year's collection—the lover of still life, the lover of animal studies, and the lover of landscape. The entire collection is of a high degree of excellence. It will be on display until September.

Many Attend Reception.

Lemonade was served during the afternoon by Mmes. Arthur Gale, Simeon Ray, Harrison and Charles A. Cox.

More than 100 were present at the reception, among whom were:

Mmes.—
J. O. Allison,
C. E. Udell and guest,
P. J. Pauley and three guests,

The effect in the galleries was very pretty, the light summer dresses corresponding harmoniously with the dainty colors of the water colors. Informal chats were the order of the day, there being no formal lecture given on the pictures. Miss Anita Moore, Benjamin P. Jones and several well-known artists discussed the pictures in an informal way.

INDIANA GIRLS FORM FINANCIAL PROTECTIVE MATRIMONIAL SOCIETY

Suitors Must Show Rating of $2000 and Carry $2000 Life Insurance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FAIRFIELD, Ill., June 21.—The marriageable young ladies of three Southern Indiana towns, Hymera, Jasonville and Columbia, have formed an association for mutual protection to be known as "The Young Ladies' Protective Society." They propose to have branches all over Indiana.

The young ladies propose to know just how they stand financially when they take the important step of matrimony. They propose to refuse the entreaties of any and all young men for their hearts and hands, who cannot furnish a commercial rating from Dun or Bradstreet.

The young man who would woo a member of this club must carry documents showing that he has goods and chattels to the value of $2000, and must also carry a life insurance policy for at least $2000 additional.

The girls have in mind a sure thing in matrimony. With $2000 in available assets and $2000 in futures, they believe a young man is entitled to consideration and they will then "sit up and take notice."

The promoters of the organization have observed that the most frequent cause of unhappy married lives is poverty, and if happiness can be nailed down by any before-hand scheme, the girls will take delight in doing the nailing.

The scheme is said to be producing a good effect in the sections where the girls live, and it is said that life insurance solicitors have found these towns capital places to work lately.

It is likely a "$1500 club" will be formed by girls who are not quite so exacting, and there are a few young men who are waiting for a "$500 club" to be organized.

BRAKEMAN SHOT BY NEGRO

Stranger Resists Ejectment and Wounds Railroader Three Times.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARMI, Ill., June 21.—In an effort to force a strange negro from his train last night, W. M. Williams, a Big Four brakeman, was shot three times by the tramp, who escaped.

Williams ordered the man to leave or be ejected, and, drawing a revolver, the negro fired three shots, all hitting Williams.

The train crew chased the assailant through fields this morning, but were unable to capture him. Williams will recover.

Picnic Next Sunday.

The annual picnic of the Final Amoona Young People's Aid Society will be given Sunday at Normandy Grove. There will be races and a baseball game between young people in the church. The money taken in will be used for charitable work in the Ghetto. Louis Perimutter is chairman of the committee in charge.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes. "First in Everything."

KILLS HIMSELF WHEN HIS WIFE FIRES THE COOK

Business Man, After Quarrel With Wife, Blows Out His Brains in Barroom.

SORRY FOR SERVANT

Asks Her to Stay Shortly Before He Left Kitchen to Commit Suicide.

The discharge of Amanda Delaplaine, the cook, by Mrs. Benjamin Walters, was the crowning act of family troubles that immediately preceded the suicide of Benjamin Walters, a well-to-do merchant, last Monday at Madison, Ill.

Twenty minutes before his self-inflicted death, Mrs. Delaplaine says that Walters begged her to disregard his wife's authority and retain her position in his household. Overhearing a quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Delaplaine says that she reconsidered her intention to yield to Mr. Walters' request, packing her belongings and left the place.

Was Sister's Witness.

Mrs. Delaplaine is the sister of Mrs. Lucy Shannon, who was acquitted of murdering her husband, Leonard Shannon, by an Edwardsville (Ill.) jury on April 21. Mrs. Delaplaine was the principal witness for her sister at the trial and testified to helping carry the mortally wounded husband into his house, after he had been shot by his jealous wife.

After she quit the Walters' residence, about 8 o'clock in the evening, Walters went into a barroom connected with his establishment, dismissed the employes and, composing himself upon a long, narrow bench, fired a shot through his head. This was not more than a half hour after the cook had withdrawn from the kitchen.

Mrs. Delaplaine when interviewed said:

"Mr. Walters quarreled with his wife because she looked into the window of her next-door neighbor. On Monday she called me out on the porch to watch the neighbors through a window. I was standing there with Mrs. Walters when her husband came out and chided her.

"After that Mrs. Walters fired me. I was getting ready to quit, when Mrs. Walters burst out laughing again and called to me. I wouldn't go.

"Mr. Walters came into the room where I was packing up and told me that he did not mean the scolding for me and he wished I would stay. He begged and begged me not to leave.

"I had about decided to stay, when I heard Mr. Walters and his wife in a row about firing me. Then I left. That was 8 o'clock. He killed himself about 8:30."

Mrs. Walters refused to talk.

Boy Dies of Pneumonia.

The funeral of Virgil Fitzpatrick, 7-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Fitzpatrick, took place from the family residence, 5606 Easton avenue, Friday afternoon. The boy died Wednesday, after being stricken with double pneumonia Monday. It is the third child tht Dr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick have lost by death. They have one younger son.

"MANNIE" LEVY WANTS DIVORCE

Jeweler Returns to St. Louis After Having Bride Arrested in Denver.

Emanuel (Mannie) Levy, who caused the arrest of his wife, Florence, a week ago in Denver while with another man, filed suit Friday for divorce. He charges her, among other offenses, with visiting winerooms and applying vicious epithets to him. The petition says they were married in Leavenworth, Kan., May 7, 1907.

Levy went to Denver, ostensibly on a vacation, and found a couple known there as Mr. and Mrs. Stockman, whose arrest he caused, declaring the woman was his wife.

She denied that she had ever seen him before. Levy has just returned to St. Louis. He is a member of the Morrison-Levy Jewelry Co., at 217 North Seventh street.

Election Records About Perfect.

From the Kansas City Times.

Only one mistake found in the Kansas City (Kan.) Election Commissioner's books with a total vote cast of nearly 14,000 furnished a new record for the handling of elections on the West Side. The mistake was made in the writing of one name wrong.

THE AMERICAN COMMONWEALTH.

All that Mr. James Bryce says of the United States and of the West when he visits us as British Ambassador is important, but it is far more important to us and to the world in general because he is the author of "The American Commonwealth" than because of his official rank.

In that title, as well as in all he has written under it and in all he says now, Mr. Bryce recognizes the greatest fact of civilization in the United States and in the world. It is the "commonwealth."

The American commonwealth is not a community of property in its purposes, and it never will be in its results. There is no dream idler than the foolish hope of those who imagine the course of the United States can be changed in that direction. The final direction already taken and never to be changed is that of a community of rights.

All results now visible, the results it flatters us to have Mr. Bryce understand, are results of that "commonwealth," not of community in money, in property, or in anything else but rights.

In spite of all restrictions and resistance, the commonwealth of rights, creating open opportunity for common manhood to achieve its best results, stands for the best results we have to show from St. Louis since St. Louis was a trading post. The story of what the commonwealth of rights has made first possible and then actual, is a marvelous story, as it concerns the life of St. Louis alone. In its greater results, it is too great already to be comprehended by any single mind, however great. In its possibilities it is most calculated to inspire humility in minds that are actually greatest and hence most able to appreciate results and to understand causes.

These results are progressive. They will remain so. The American commonwealth as a commonwealth of rights, will endure. It will keep its direction. It will overcome all forces of resistance and obstruction. It will realize itself in results of which the present is only an obscure prophecy.

The former game law was not understood, and now it is not known just what the new one means.

TO THE FRONT!

Horace Greeley wrote of St. Louis: "She advances steadily and surely to her predestined station of first inland city on the globe."

Gen. Butler said: "The city of St. Louis shall become the very first city of the United States."

Parton said: "Fair St. Louis, the future capital of the United States and of the civilization of the Western Continent."

And now Ambassador Bryce says:

"St. Louis is the natural center of the vast fertile territory of the Southwest, and with her natural advantages must inevitably become the most important metropolis of this country."

Hello, there, New York and Chicago! British Ambassador Bryce says St. Louis must inevitably become the most important metropolis of the country.

WILSON ON BEEF PRICES.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture is not "a fellow of infinite jest." His habit of mind is a profound, thoughtful melancholy. So we must regard seriously his latest proclamation concerning the causes of the recent strong advance in meat prices.

The causes are purely "natural causes," he declares. There is no arbitrary fixing of prices in Chicago or elsewhere by any "trust." The consumers are the men who are guiltily conspiring to keep prices up. If nobody ate meat, then, obviously, the price would go down. But everybody eats it. "The American day laborer in the sewer trench," says Mr. Wilson, "dines more sumptuously than ever did Queen Elizabeth in her days of greatest power." High wages have made the American workingman "cheesty." He's acquired a notion that nothing is too good for him, not even a tender steak or a juicy chop. Instead of being content to pick a bone once or twice a week, after the manner of his more docile European brothers, he wants it every day. This is what boosts prices. And it's bad—very bad. Something ought to be done to check this luxurious extravagance.

How is this? Isn't Mr. Wilson giving the double cross to the whole Republican economic theory? Hasn't every manjack of them been shouting the top of his voice off, preaching that the American workingman is the real beneficiary of the protective tariff scheme, inasmuch as it has vastly improved his standard and enabled him to live off the fat of the land, instead of after the manner of the benighted and blighted European worker?

Does Mr. Wilson actually urge a return to the early standard? Does he remember the state of things in fair France, once upon a time, with "dumb Drudgery staggering up to its King's palace, and in wide expanses of sallow faces, squalor and winged raggedness, presenting its petition of grievances—and for answer getting hanged on a new gallows 40 feet nigh"? Well, pay was lower, in that time, and meat eaters were few amongst the laborers in the trenches.

Or, to take Mr. Wilson's own figures of comparison, would he urge a return to Elizabethan times, when royalty dipped its meat from the trencher with its fingers, and threw the gnawed bones under the table, to be scrambled for by the dogs and serving men?

All those in favor of the Wilson proposition say "Aye."

Seward got our great Alaska for us, but Lincoln got the presidency that Seward wanted. No present statesman has done as much as Seward did; so any may be a nominee.

ANOTHER ARBITRATION EXAMPLE.

The value of arbitration is again emphasized in the settlement of the difference between the Western Union Co. and the telegraph operators. As in the dispute between the Western railroads and their trainmen, the adjustment was aided by the friendly offices of United States Labor Commissioner Neill.

Mr. Neill conferred with the operators and the officers of the telegraph company. He learned exactly what the differences were and was fortunately able to show both sides a satisfactory ground upon which they could meet. The result is a settlement the value of which, not only to the disputants but to the country, in actual dollars and cents, cannot well be estimated. As an example of wisdom of talking rather than fighting over difference, it is of still greater value. The telegraphers, like the trainmen, in accepting Mr. Neill's offices and the terms offered, proved the good spirit of organized labor and its desire to conserve public interests.

The progress of arbitration as a means of preserving domestic as well as international peace, is one of the brightest signs of the time.

Perhaps the Federal Court considers St. Louis beer a temperance drink, whatever the Kansans may think.

INHUMAN STORM PREDICTIONS.

"Better get into your storm cellar or under the bed and stay there from Wednesday until Friday of this week," is the opening sentence of a news feature in Monday's edition of a local morning newspaper. The scare advice was based on the alleged discovery of sun spots indicating terrible storms, by a local weather guesser, who spends most of his time trying to advertise himself by predictions of dire disasters.

Doubtless many credulous persons—many persons who have actually suffered from storms and whose overwrought nerves are pitifully worked upon by storm predictions—have passed several wretched days and nights on account of these prophecies of destructive disturbances.

The public ought to be spared the infliction of these prophets of disaster who take hit or miss chances as weather predictors. Storms are bad enough when they come. If they could be predicted with accuracy it would be a good service to predict them in time to enable the public to make suitable preparations. But to scatter broadcast wild guesses of impending doom is merely to sentence nervous persons to the undergoing of storm horrors many times repeated. It merely puts into their minds haunting fears of what may happen—shadows without reality or truth. It is inhuman.

By all means let's prevent a noisy celebration of the Fourth ahead of time—and at the time, if possible.

THE AUTO-SPEEDING FARCE.

The folly of the present police method of regulating the speed of autos was well illustrated, with an outrageous variation, by Officer Stinger's wild chase of an auto scorcher in the auto of Mr. George M. Wright, containing Mr. Wright's daughters.

Mr. Wright's indignation at the seizure of his automobile and the endangering of the lives of his children by the police officer is justified. But the public is justified in being indignant at the misuse of the streets by the police to chase a violator of the speed law. The policeman himself violated the speed law and endangered not only the lives of the occupants of the automobile he had seized, but the lives of any luckless persons afoot or in vehicle who attempted to cross his path. The chase was a disgraceful spectacle, in disregard of law and public safety.

And a greater cause of general public indignation was the fact that Judge Tracy of the City Hall Police Court fined the chauffeur of the racing automobile only $10. According to the account of the chase, the occupants of the speeding machine knew that the policeman was after them and tried to escape by increasing their speed. They showed contempt for law and authority and should have been punished to the full limit of the law. The fine in this case should have been $500 instead of $10, and if any additional punishment were possible under the law, it should have been inflicted. Proceedings of this kind make the speed law a farce.

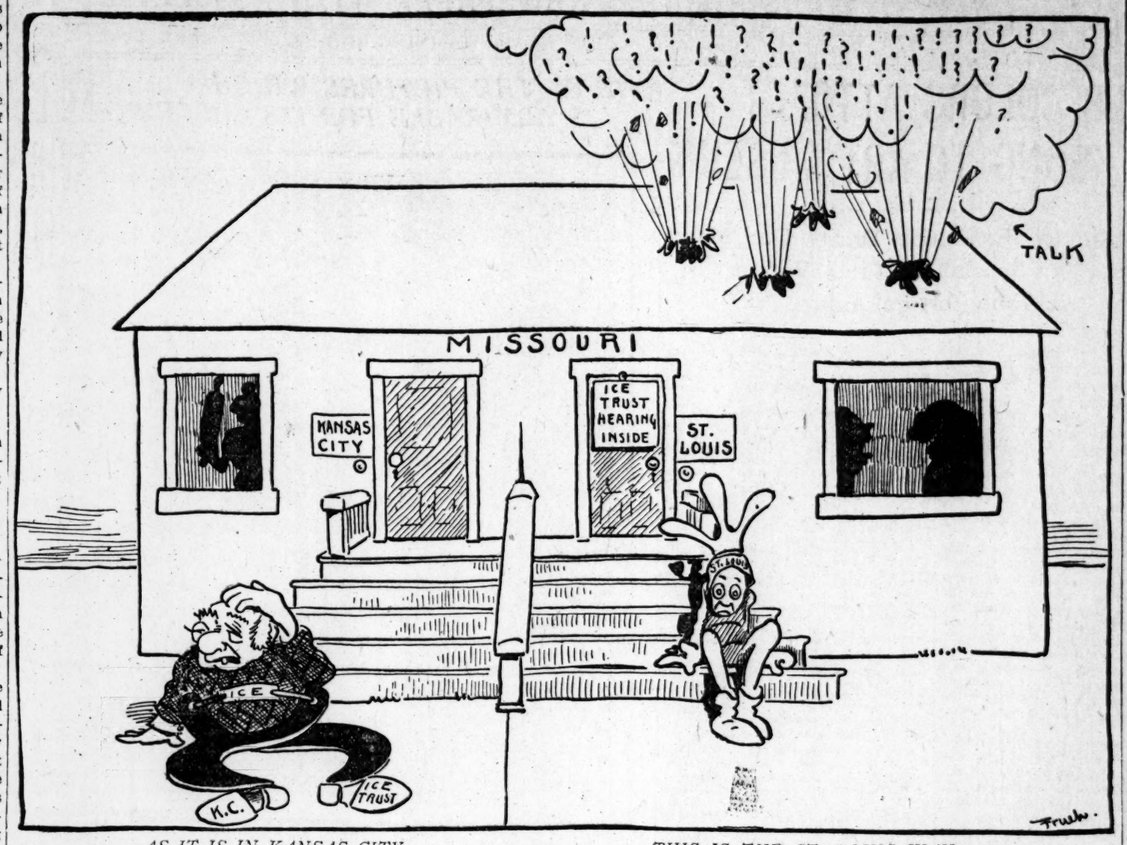

Mr. Taft.

From the Ohio State Journal.

Judge Taft was in Columbus last Saturday and everybody observed what a graceful and well-trimmed fellow he is—not apparently a pound of surplus flesh on that grand frame of his; and over it all beamed a youthful presence, ornate with smiles, and happy words, and generous greetings. No more "Big Bill" stuff for us; he is as physically poised as a baseball champion, and the very man to lead the grand march in 1908.

TRUST BUSTERS—A CONTRAST

Some Serious Reflections in Which St. Louis Indulges, Depicted by a Post-Dispatch Cartoonist.

AS IT IS IN KANSAS CITY. THIS IS THE ST. LOUIS WAY.

JUST A MINUTE

WITH POST-DISPATCH POETS AND HUMORISTS

THE GRADUATES.

Just two young men were in the class,
And girls there were, a score;
And one young man was very bright,
And t'other's marks were poor.
And one young man corraled a prize
And made a great oration,
While t'other one sat back, way back,
A-thinking of vacation.

The one young man (the bright young man)
Was covered o'er with glory.
The people scarce had heard his like
For youthful oratory.
They pinned a medal on his breast,
And hailed his mind the rarest,
And t'other young man sat way back
And awkwardly embarrassed.

The one young man was freely said
To have great things before him.
And O, but how his parents did,
Right then and there, adore him!
And t'other young man's mother smiled
A sweet, sad smile and dim,
And dearly wished her boy had been
A little more like HIM.

TEN YEARS AFTER.

O, nothing, but the bright young man
Is working now for t'other—
The one whose mother envied once
The other fellow's mother.

JUNE 21.

This is the longest day of the year. It is your chance. Notwithstanding the assurance that time and tide wait on no man, time lags for you today. If you are ever to do anything, you will start today. You have been pleading no time. But today you have all kinds of time. Time fairly hangs around, awaiting your pleasure.

This is the tide in the affairs of men mentioned by Shakspeare. It is today that Opportunity steps up and delivers the Ingallian knock. What have you on? If it was a little matter, there was time before breakfast, for this morning was not like other mornings. From daybreak to breakfast a poet, inspired by the glories of dawn, could have penned his masterpiece. Between breakfast and lunch there was time for big things. Have you had some rather pretentious idea germinating in the deep ooze of your brain? This morning was the time to have pulled it off. Maybe you did. If not, you never will. Tomorrow w... be a short day. All tomorrows are short days. You will have no time. The whirl of your daily life will so spin you from bed to brea...ast, from breakfast to lunch, from lunch to dinner, and from dinner to bed, that you will have not a moment for anything out of the routine.

No other day separates the sheep and the goats as June 21 can do it. There is a small element of us who have in us the initiative to do something. We start on June 21. There is a larger element of us who haven't it in us to do anything. We pass June 21 as if it were Dec. 21. The fact is that all dates for us are 23, regardless of the month. We wouldn't get off for glory, fame, wealth or happiness if there were a day with 400 hours in it. Noon would find us telling about the start we were going to make, and night would discover us still trying to make up our minds.

How about you? It's June 21.

CONSIDERATE.

"We're ordered out on a strike," the spokesman of the departing telegraph operators announced as they passed the desk of the managing editor.

"That's all right, gentlemen," the editor answered. "It was white of you to wait until the President retired on Oyster Bay."

An Expensive Compliment.

"Excuse me, sir, but this is the sixth time that you have gone away without paying."

"Oh, my dear young lady, when a man sees you he forgets everything else."

THE ANANIAS CLUB FIELD DAY.

Written Especially for the Post-Dispatch
By Clark McAdams.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB, the President's club, went for an outing one day in the wood.
Though Storer was busy, and Chandler was ill, and Harriman had some engagements to fill,
They went to a grove at the foot of a hill, and put in the day there as picknickers should.

The Long invocation was quite an oration, and then they arranged for a dash.
Though Roberts was speedy, and Harriman's spurt was such that his brogans threw all kinds of dirt,
Maria won out, notwithstanding her skirt, and the hundred-yards record went smash.

The broad jump was entered by all, but bets centered on Wallace, who jumped the Canal.
Such jumping as he did—he leaped from the taw just forty-five feet—never mortal man saw Such a leap in the air, nor had heard such hurrah, and no one again ever shall.

And then, having rested, their hurdling was tested, and Tillman was favorite, Ben.
The record was seconds fifteen and a shade, the distance one twenty, and Benjamin made
A new mark, refreshed by a red lemonade—he did it, unwinded, in ten.

The pole vault was called, and they all stood appalled at the record set down in the guide.
But Chandler was thin, and he had a great spring, and the arc he described was a wonderful thing,
For he flew through the air like a bird on the wing, and his margin of triumph was wide.

Then Harriman howled and persistently growled, for nothing had Harriman won.
So they played at pickpocket (a sort of hotch-potch), and the others all messed it and made it a botch
Until Harriman got every other one's watch, and of money the others had none.

And while they were playing, a dog was heard baying—"It's Pete!" said Jack London, "that's plain!"
And the Big Stick projected quite over the hill, whereat they all bolted and ran fit to kill,
And the President followed and chased them until the last one escaped to the train.

EVERYBODY WAS SATISFIED

LORD ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL fell in love with Miss Janet Callender, and went to his father, the Duke of Argyll, for his approval of the engagement. "I'm delighted; nothing could be better," said the Duke. "But—er—er—hadn't you better let me speak to Lorne? He might think we ought to consult the Princess." So to his brother, the Marquis of Lorne—now the Duke of Argyll—they went, and he certainly thought that his wife, the Princess, should be consulted as to who should be admitted into the family. "If Archie likes her, she suits me down to the ground," said the Princess impulsively. "But, you know, I think I ought to speak to the Queen." Her late Majesty graciously approved of the match. "But, Louise, I think I ought to consult our German cousin first," she said, and accordingly wrote to the German Emperor. The Kaiser—the present Emperor's grandfather—remembered having met Miss Callander, and approved of the match, but left his letter open because he did not care to answer finally without consulting Bismarck. The Kaiser found his Chancellor, and telling him of the proposed alliance, asked what he thought. When his sovereign had finished, Bismarck blew a cloud of smoke and replied: "Me? Oh, I don't care a hang!"

HOW CHINESE EDITORS REJECT.

THE Chinese editors excel all others in the art of returning contributions in such a way as to spare the contributor's feelings. Instead of curtly saying that the manuscript is "unavailable" or "not adapted," they send the writer a letter somewhat like the following:

"Illustrious Brother of the Sun and Moon—Behold thy servant prostrate before thy feet. I bow to thee and beg of they graciousness thou mayest grant that I may speak and live. Thy honored manuscript has designed to cast the light of its august countenance upon us. With rapture we have perused it. By the bones of my ancestors, never have I encountered such wit, such pathos, such lofty thought. With fear and trembling I return the writing. Were I to publish the treasure you sent me the Emperor would order that it should be made the standard and that none be published except such as equaled it. Knowing literature as I do, and that it would be impossible in 10,000 years to equal what you have done, I send your writing back. Ten thousand times I crave your pardon. Behold, my head is at your feet. Do what you will. Your servant's servant, THE EDITOR."

A Spiritual Suggestion for Today

IT is folly to endeavor to make ourselves shine before we are luminous. If the sun without his beams should talk to the planets and argue with them till the final day, it would not make them shine; there must be light in the sun itself, and then they would shine of course.—Horace Bushnell.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

(This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters must give name and address of writer and should not exceed 150 words. Names will not be published, if so desired. Suggestions and criticisms concerning the Post-Dispatch are invited.)

A Chance for "Isobethe."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If one who signs herself "Isobethe," complaining that she cannot get work in yesterday afternoon's paper (June 18) will call at 5219 Ridge avenue she may be just the person wanted in family of three for general housework. Will pay car fare. GOOD HOME.

O'Fallon Park Lake.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We have great pride in our parks, and their many beauties, but there is a terrible stench that emanates from the water in the lake of the O'Fallon Park, that is a serious menace to the health of the many children and others, who enjoy boating upon it. This hot weather will make it a very serious risk for any one to remain on it any length of time. Can we not have the proper authorities take some action in the matter and have the lake cleaned out and the odor from whatever cause removed. WILLIAM NAGOL.

Torn-up Chestnut Street.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The people having business interests on Crestnut street have long wondered why those interests should be subjected to an almost perpetual interruption from a torn-up street and the delightful odor emanating from a tar furnace. The editor is probably no better equipped to answer this question than the people to whom it has suggested itself, and who are so affected and inconvenienced by the chronic condition of impassability which has marked the street ever since a good granite pavement was torn up to be superseded by a "bithulitic" pavement, or something with a name equally euphonious. But the cold fact remains that this nuisance has passed the point where it can be looked upon with equanimity, and the sufferers believe they are entitled to relief. The old street was good; the new one is bad. Why not repeat the operation, only in inverse order—tear up and discard the new street and reinstate the old one which in its day was torn up and discarded for an experiment. We honestly believe it is high time for the proper authorities to take cognizance of the conditions in force here and give up a street that once made will stay made, and not be torn up every few days for repairs of damages caused by the legitimate and ordinary traffic of the street. We are brought to the point at which we cry: "How long, O Lord! How long?"
LEON L. HULL.

Legal Commitment of Insane.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your Thursday afternoon edition, in reporting a certain divorce case, credits one of the learned judges of our Circuit Court with the following statement:

"I want to say here that it is not clear to me how this woman was taken to the asylum," said the Judge. "Under the law no one can be deprived of liberty that way without being declared insane by the Probate Court."

By inference, at least, this might seem to carry the innuendo towards the physicians who furnished the certificate in this case (and in other cases). In their defense it is only fair to have the statement made that it is perfectly legal in the State of Missouri to send a patient to an asylum on the certificate of two registered physicians. The law further provides for the method of inquiry in the Probate Court, either before or after the commitment has been made.
F. R. FRY.

Socialism and the Church.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

No doubt many thousands of intelligent readers of the Post-Dispatch will marvel at your article quoting Rev. F. W. Russell, deploring Socialism as being set against the interests of the church. It is to be regretted that the good Dr. Russell neglected to ground himself on the principles of Socialism prior to preaching this sermon, else he could not in justice to truth and his conscience have stated that it is opposed to the church. Mr. Russell goes on to say that the church, however, "could not deal with the economic or wage side of the question." That is the meat of the whole trouble. Why should he attempt to discredit Socialism, when he confesses his impotency to cope with the vital issue, the great question of meat and bread. The economic or wage side of the question is the one vital issue. Would not the good Dr. Russell explain why Socialism is opposed to the church, or wherein it does not harmonize with the spirit of true Christianity, as taught by the Savior? TRUTH LOVER.

CUPID IS BLIND

BY IVAN WHIN

LISTEN, my children, and you shall hear of a midnight ride and a case of beer. Please, Mr. Longfellow, excuse me for seeming to parody your classic; it was a lapsus pencilius, as a fair young valedictorian might remark. And yet this story will concern itself chiefly with a midnight ride and a case of beer.

If you have any doubt anent the absolutely historic veracity of this narrative you are referred to Fred Warmbold, speaker of the Nord St. Louis Turnverein; he'll deliver an oration on it that you will remember. Or President Albert Haessler, whose statement will be neither too warm or too cold and will have the genuine cork in it. Or you might lure Charles Doer away from his skat or euchre long enough to get some of the facts. And as you are apt to find them at the same table up at Twentieth and Salisbury, you might interrogate Charles Kircher (who will gladly stop saving the Turnverein's money to tell you all he knows about the facts. As Francis Brinkmann drinks nothing but sarsparilla, his testimony is likely to be unbiased. But if you don't believe him, there is still our hungry 325-pound friend, Edward O. Harrs, who can be depended to give it to you straight. He knows as much about the truth of it as the others.

Now I have given all the real names any reasonable person can ask. The characters in this story shall have stage names, and I will even carry the disguise further in the interests of that harmony which is the soul of peace.

It all happened in the year—let us call it 1492—when Habakkuk, or some other fellow of pronounced temperancer procivities, was Governor of Missouri. Anyhow, it was before August Kern was married, and that ought to fix the time close enough for all practical purposes.

Let us attack the case of beer, 24 bottles of—the advertising manager won't allow me to give the brand or the brewery, but neither is important to the story. The double dozen bottles was a present from the manager of a brewery to Algernon Swinburne—how's that for a stage name to be worn by a North St. Louis Turner? It was one case in a series presented weekly by the manager, because he liked to play poker in Algernon's rooms on St. Louis avenue and Umpteumpty street. Have to be careful in this story, and not give people away, you know.

Percy Fitzmaurice—my word, but that's a loo-loo stage name for a husky wrestler—happened to be waiting for Algernon at the door of the latter's house when the brewery wagon arrived. He knew all about the case, having seen the likes of it before.

"Put it on the carriage," he told the driver, who, thinking Percy was Algernon, obeyed.

I forgot to tell you that Percy had called for Algernon in a carriage and they were going thence to pick up Hermione Glenthorp and Alicia Dunraven (Honest, I can't help laughing at those names myself, they are so unlike the real thing.) who were accompanying them to the Sud St. Louis Turnverein for an evening of communion with the goddess of the musical feet.

The carriage driver assisted in the disposition of the case under his own legs and Algernon coming forth clad in glad raiment did not know of the robbery in which Percy and the driver connived.

So all went merry as a marriage bell. Gwendolin—no, I mean Hermione and Alicia, were charmingly gowned and therefore in the most charming humor. The hours passed swiftly, too swiftly.

It was almost midnight when they entered the carriage homeward bound, for it was a midweek dance and our heroes had need of sleep that they might work.

How cozy it was in the carriage after the hot ballroom and how glad they were to lean back in the cushioned seats and rest. Conversation was gay for all that. Hermione was bright as a bunch of fireworks and Percy was full of stories and whenever Algernon could get a word in edgewise he made them all laugh and Alicia was by no means pushed into the corner. They had a long ride before them and they made the best of the situation.

The situation? Algernon awoke to the real situation first. The roll of the carriage on a country dirt road aroused him.

"Where are we?" he asked, alarmed. There was no such road between Chouteau and St. Louis avenues. He put his head out of the window and called the driver.

A beer bottle hurled at his head missed it narrowly.

You guess how the case of beer has been figuring, don't you? No? Then I'll tell you. The carriage driver instead of going back to the stable to wait until time to take his fares home had awaited them at the Turner Hall and incidentally refreshed himself to the point of intoxication. Instinct had gotten him away safely on the road home, but after the start instinct stopped working and he had driven due west on Chouteau.

Percy and Algernon were soon in control of the carriage. They swarmed up both sides and gave the driver occupation which precluded the throwing of more bottles.

But when he was subdued and the team checked the question, "Where are we?" remained unanswered. On either side of the road lay fields and away off on the moonlighted hillside a lamp burned in a farmhouse.

As luck would have it, a gardener bound to market rattled up the road. He was awakened and cross-examined.

"Where are we?" four voices demanded.

"About a mile from Clayton."

The four looked at each other amazed. Then their youthful spirits rose. They laughed until it seemed that even the farmer on the far-away hillside must wake. While they laughed a thought entered Percy's head. He looked challengingly at Harmione.

"Say," he whispered, "I dare you to go to Clayton."

"I never take a dare," she answered with spirit.

Algernon looked at Alicia.

"Will you?" he asked.

She blushed and nodded.

"Come on then," Percy shouted. "I'll drive."

They left the driver at the roadside, sleeping loudly, and drove away to Gretna Green.

It was in the frigid dawn of the morning after that the wedding party returned. And wasn't there a row in the homes of Harmione and Alicia! You can imagine it all, can't you? I don't like to dwell on unpleasant things.

After awhile, though, everybody agreed that what was done could not be undone, and it was best to make the best of it. And they did.

Neither Percy nor Hermione nor Algernon nor Alicia has as yet applied for a divorce. Perhaps they never will. There are exceptions to all rules.

ABOUT ANIMALS.

A COLLIE dog had learned to meet a newspaper carrier, get his master's paper, and take it home. The carrier served two morning papers, one illustrated, the other rarely with illustrations.

One morning he gave the dog the paper not subscribed for by his master, but the animal smelled it and dropped it on the ground. "Take your paper, Jimmie," said the carrier, but the dog would not. The carrier took up the paper, mixed it with others of both kinds, and offered the dog another of the illustrated kind, but folded differently, but the dog would not receive it. He would not leave until he had received the right paper.

I WAS greatly impressed by the intelligence shown by a young Plymouth Rock rooster which was chasing a turkey that had found a crust of bread. They had made several circuits around a cluster of bushes when it occurred to the rooster that he never could catch the turkey in that manner. So he stepped behind a shrub and, seeing a string lying across the track, which was tied at one end, he picked it up in his bill and tripped the turkey as he was making the round.

When the turkey fell it lost the crust of bread and the rooster seized it and fled, enjoying his stolen feast undisturbed.

A FEW years ago a family in Albion, Io., had a cow that would pump water by taking the handle of the pump in her inouth. There was a sewing bee at the house one day. The cows were in a pasture near the house, and during the afternoon they came to the water trough to get a drink. No one went near the pump, for they were anxious to see the cow's efforts. Taking the handle in her mouth, she began pumping. For some little time the other cows drank the water as fast as she pumped it, and not until she had pumped enough for all the others would she pump some for herself.

LOVE IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.

Rapid Transit to Matrimony Looks Well in Fiction, Says This Post-Dispatch Writer.

BY NIXOLA GREELY-SMITH.

GEORGE BRONSON HOWARD wooed his wife in 24 hours and spent a delightful honeymoon of two weeks with her. Then they quarreled, and the writer, who tried to live his own life as if he were the hero of a short story, is alone.

A physician rarely prescribes for himself, notwithstanding the ancient injunction to do so. And a wise author seldom endeavors to apply magazine fiction to life.

It is all very well in a story for the hero and heroine to meet on Monday and marry on Tuesday. But in real life this rapid-transit proceeding almost inevitably entails a divorce on Wednesday.

Love at first sight offers many opportunities to the writer. And doubtless some actual people feel it. Scarcely anyone, in fact, lives to be 30 or so without experiencing one or several of those sudden and inexplicable sympathies which cause very young people to marry on a 24 hours' acquaintance and then unfortunately to quarrel in a space almost as brief.

What the story-teller conceives as the stern parent usually prevents very young people from carrying the particular form of folly to its disastrous conclusion. The older person who marries on a day or a week's acquaintance, in my opinion, deserves his fate. In very rare cases, where a marriage is contracted hastily, the mental sympathy, which develops much more slowly between two persons than the physical infatuation on which such marriages are based, confirms the hasty first impression, and the couple lives happily ever after. But generally these unions, as in the George Bronson Howard case, bring quick disaster. The head nearly always follows the heart if it is given time, but it quite naturally resents being excluded from the contract altogether, as it is in these 24-hour marriages.

Any man may be a hero for a day; any woman wear the gilded aura of that man's ideal for the same short time. But the wise woman gives herself time to discover whether the heroism is real or of the stage, and the wise man has leisure to discover whether her halo is tinsel or pure gold.

Heroes and heroines of magazine fiction have developed quite a fad of late for making each other's acquaintance on the train en route to a house party and announcing their engagement by the time they get there. If the house party is on Long Island their action may not be as precipitous as it sounds. But men and women who emulate them in real life are not dismissed to eternal happiness at the bottom of a page, but are rather heading for the top line of the divorce calendar.

"It is all very well in a story for the hero and heroine to meet on Monday and marry on Tuesday. But in real life this rapid-transit proceeding almost inevitably entails a divorce on Wednesday."

THE CZAR'S TASTER

NO CHEF in all the world occupies a more peculiar position than M. Eugene Kratz, the little known but august cordon bleu who presides in the imperial kitchens of the "Great White Czar." This remarkable man draws a salary rather larger than that of the President of the United States—about $55,000 a year—and has paramount control of the palace kitchens in all the homes of the imperial family, from Peterhof, the Anitchkoff, the Winter Palace, the Tsarkoe-Selo, all the way to Livadia in the Crimea.

Six times a year M. Kratz makes the round of all the imperial kitchens throughout the empire, and his peculiar position may be realized from the fact that his social rank equals that of a general in the Russian army. And an army this wonderful chef certainly commands, with absolute authority—an army whose "weapons" are not the less important for being mere pots and pans.

Of course, a culinary artist of such rank as M. Kratz does little or nothing at all with his own hands, but is rather an inventive genius, titillating the palate of the Emperor and his august guests. For when the autocrat of all the Russias wearies of Russian, French, Italian and English dishes, he must be tried with some fantasie such as chicken gumbo as made in New Orleans, or some of the delightful sweet dishes of the Balkan states and Turkey.

It is well known that in the kitchens of the Czar most elaborate "tasting" ceremonies are gone through, and when the Czar is in residence at Peterhof—a palace about half an hour distant from the capital—not only M. Kratz himself, but also his under chefs and certain high officials of the imperial army are called in to taste every dish that goes to the Emperor's table, after which experiment a reasonable time is permitted to elapse to see whether or not the "tasters" are poisoned! This curious survival of other days comes down from the time of Ivan the Terrible.

Full View.

There are many anecdotes relating the queer sayings of children. One is of a boy whose mother was lying on her back on the sofa, when Jamie, who was sitting beside her, called to her to look at something he was doing.

"His mother turned her eyes and looked at him without moving her head.

"No, no, mamma!" exclaimed the child, "I want you to look at me with your nose."

Radicalism.

The Northwest was planning an exposition.

"Let us make it unique," said the management.

After pondering long, they decided to have the show ready to open at the opening date.

"It's a violation of precedent, we know," they admitted, "but this is the age of radicalism."

THE NEWLYWED BABY'S COMING TOOTH

Suggestions From Readers of the Post-Dispatch as to the Proper Place for the Tooth, Which Seems Likely to Appear at Any Moment.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

I am sending you the picture of Newly-Wed baby, and it will show you where the second tooth belongs. My teeth are something like that baby's, mamma says; my first two teeth were on the upper jaw. ROY BONA.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

Your baby's tooth has worried me very much for some time, and I am glad he is going to have another, and think it would be better beside the other in the upper jaw. I hope it is not asking too much to have a christening pretty soon. I do not remember you having one, and I have looked for one every night. MRS. HARTLEY.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

Your request was for a new tooth for the Newly-Wed Baby. I send a picture of the kid and its mother, the kid having a new tooth in the lower jaw.

HELEN BURGLUND.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

I suggest that the Newly-Weds' baby cut its other upper incisor next, as babies generally do. MRS. I. J. S.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

Two teeth will harm the Newly-Wed baby's individuality. "Tooth and a half" as an intermediate state is the suggestion of GERTRUDE KROCKMANN.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

Being interested in the Newly-Weds' baby, would like to inform you that the first tooth ought to have been at the bottom and the second right next to the first, as most babies receive their first teeth at the bottom.

1506 DE SOTO AV.

With another "dear little toothums" in the lower left-hand corner, mamma's "precious" would be "just the cunningest thing in all this wide world, Lovey."

N. L. Grayson.

Babies always cut their two upper or lower front teeth first, so Baby Newlywed will "have" to cut the other upper front tooth. Hope you will let the baby cut that tooth next and also name it "after me." GEORGIA R. BLACK.

Maplewood.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

Little Toodleums has a warm spot in my heart and I've been worried for some time because he didn't cut any more teeth, but am so glad you tell us he is to have another tooth. I think Toodleums should have two lower teeth, and enclose herewith my suggestion. We are now anxiously waiting to see little Toodleums take his first step.

NELLIE BANKS.

Newlyweds Editor Post-Dispatch.

I'm glad to hear Toodleums is to have another tooth. There's plenty of space in his mouth for one, but a hard matter to make him uglier, so suppose you have Mr. McManus try the lower left-hand side. By the way, has he been named yet? I haven't seen any record of it. The Newlyweds certainly are the funniest ever, and I'm still laughing over Sunday's issue, only I wish the nurse had got in one or two more licks before they rescued him. Please give "Booful" as nice a tooth as you can, and another licking as soon as possible. We call our office boy "Toodelums" because he looks like that baby. CORA B. WRIGHT.

Children's Bo-Peep Party.

ALL the children who are invited to a Bo-Peep party should be asked to come dressed as shepherds and shepherdesses, not an expensive garb by any means. The hostess of the afternoon, probably the mother or aunt of the heroine of the day, should be dressed as Mother Goose, and should receive the children.

Among the prize games played during the party should be one that brings forward a large sheep drawn on muslin. The sheep must be mnus a tail, and the picture must be pinned upon the wall. Then let each child be blindfolded and let him try to pin on the tail in the correct place. The one who can pin on the tail nearest to the correct place receives a prize.

The tea table should be prettily decorated with a mound of moss, in the center of which just as many woolly lambs as there are children should stand. As place cards for the girls have tiny dolls dressed as Bo-Peep, with small cards attached, on which the name of the little guest is written.

LOVING NOTE TO BABIES IS TRAGEDY KEY

East St. Louis Man, Killed Near Chicago, Identified by Letter.

PROMISED MONEY SOON

Was Looking for Work When Knocked Into Canal by Joliet Car.

An unfinished letter, addressed to his wife and babies, was left by Robert E. Donnelly of East St. Louis, whose body was taken from the Chicago Drainage Canal, into which he was knocked by a Joliet-Chicago electric car. The letter told of the inability of the husband and father to find work, and promised that as soon as he found employment he would send money home.

The family, consisting of the widowed mother and two girls, one aged 3 years and the other 15 months, was found Friday at 609 Ohio avenue, East St. Louis. This address was written on a memorandum found in the pocket with the letter.

The widow, Mrs. Ruth Donnelly, said that she had not heard from her husband since he started for Chicago 10 days ago. He was killed near LaGrange, a Chicago suburb. His body was taken to Cook County Morgue, in Chicago. Mrs. Donnelly said she would go to Chicago to claim it.

The letter found in the pocket, pathetic in the light of the writer's death, read:

"Dear Ruth and Babies: I have got to get out and get a job in some camp for awhile. I can't get anything. Just as soon as I can get to work I will send you some money. That is the best I can do or know what to do."

Donnelly was a cook, and was formerly employed by his father-in-law, who is proprietor of an East St. Louis restaurant. He was 35 years old. The copy of the letter and memoranda which established his identity were received by the East St. Louis police from Elmer Barton, a LaGrange undertaker.

East St. Louis News

W. J. Johnson of 540 North Twenty-second street reported to the police Thursday that thieves entered his home by a side window Wednesday night and stole two watches, a pocket knife and $24.

The Lansdowne Golf Club has changed golf courses and will officially open the new course in Harding Heights Saturday afternoon. The first course was laid out in Lansdowne, but the grass grew faster than the owners of the property wanted to cut it and the club got a lease on the ground in Harding Heights. The course was laid out under the direction of Dr. J. L. Wiggins and Paul S. Abt.

Miss Fannie Beckwith and G. B. Pearson were married Thursday night at the home of the bride's mother, 618 Beckwith place, by Rev. Howard Billman, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

The following births have been reported: To Mr. and Mrs. E. Driscoll, 1717 Bond avenue, a boy; to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayes, East Broadway, a boy.

Miss Margaret Woods and Lee McCarthy will be married next Wednesday at St. Mary's Church, by Rev. Father Harkins. The attendants will be Miss Gertrude Costello and N. J. Powers.

Two games of baseball in the City League will be played Saturday afternoon at Athletic Park. The first game will be called at 1:30 p. m., between the American Steel Foundry teams of East St. Louis and Granite City. At 3:30 p. m. the Stockyards team will play the Securitys of St. Louis.

The funeral of Mrs. Lizzie Entemane, 32 years old, who died Thursday night of dropsy at her home, 1721 Bond avenue, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the family residence to Mount Carmel Cemetery. She is survived by her husband and three children.

The East St. Louis Druggists baseball team will play the Smith Premiers of St. Louis Saturday at 3 p. m. at Alta Sita Park. Burton and Price will be the Durggists' battery.

The class of '07 of the East St. Louis High School received their diplomas Thursday night. The annual alumni reunion will be held Friday night in the high school building at which the graduating class and also the February class will be taken into the alumni. Arthur O'Leary, president of the alumni, will act as toastmaster at the banquet, which will be followed by a reception.

Miss Alice Talbot, an English artist, is the guest to her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Talbot. Mr. Talbot is supervisor of drawing in the East St. Louis schools.

STORMS WANT TO KEEP COOL

They Ask Permit to Build Passageway to Catch Breezes.

John F. Storm of 3506 Pine street and his son, Frank, of 3502 Pine street, made application to the Building Commissioner Friday for a permit to erect a connecting passageway between their houses, which they designate as a "place to sit afternoons and evenings, of such construction as will afford the most air possible and insure freedom from flies and mosquitoes."

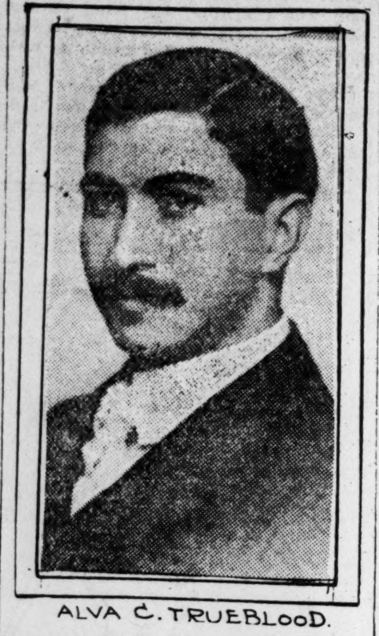

This substitute for a vacation on the Northern lakes or the Atlantic Ocean is to be 14 feet high and about 12 feet wide. Storm further describes the summer room as a place "where we can get the benefit of the breezes; a comfortable nook. In other words, we are trying to keep cool if we can."

The Building Department has never received such an application before, but will not block the efforts of Storm and his son to keep cool.

Prostrated By the Heat.

Fred Lebman, aged 63, of 1335 South Eighth street, was prostrated by the heat Thursday afternoon and fell senseless at Tenth and Park avenues. He was seen to fall by George Hartmann of 1432 South Tenth street, who summoned an ambulance. Lebman had not regained consciousness fully Friday morning, but was able to tell his name. He is a laborer.

STUDENT WHO WINS TWO LAW SCHOOL PRIZES

ALVA C. TRUEBLOOD.

A. C. TRUEBLOOD WINS BOTH PRIZES IN THE LAW SCHOOL

Captures Checks for Best Thesis and Highest Percentage in Three Years.

Alva Cooper Trueblood of 5943 Maple avenue won the highest honors in the class of 1907 at the St. Louis Law School, which is the law department of Washington University.

Only two prizes are awarded to members of the law class, and Mr. Trueblood won both. One is for the best thesis and the other for the best percentage in studies for the entire three-year course. Each prize is a check for $50.

SAY, MR. FAN! DO YOU LOVE BABIES?

If You Do, Then Go to Sportsman's Park This Afternoon and Help 'Em.

Today is the day of the big game between the Doctors and the Dentists, for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Free Ice and Pure Milk Fund. Are you going, Mr. Fan?

There are thousands of helpless little babies in St. Louis who are going to have a hard fight for their lives during the sweltering months to come. The Post-Dispatch is going to line up on the side of the babies, against the heat and its attendant ills, and needs your help. Go out to Sportsman's Park, Grand and Sullivan avenues, today and spend your quarter. You will see the game of your life, and your quarter will buy milk and ice for 25 babies! Just think of it! What an easy way to save a life!

Umpire Cahill will say "play ball" at exactly 3 p. m. Then will follow the scrap of their lives between these two most formidable amateur teams.

Brady, the scrappy catcher for the dentists, will be safely muzzled during the entire game. Owsley whispers that he has been "approached." He adds that Bobby Wallace is on the anxious seat.

One or two changes have been made in the line-up. Following is the revised list:

Dentists—	Doctors—
Owsley, ss.	Gibson, c.
Parish, lf.	Bailey, p.
Carson, p. or 3b.	Carley, 1b.
Brady, c.	Dillon, ss.

Powers—Hill.

Miss Lillie Powers, daughter of William F. Powers of 1709 North Grand avenue, will be married to Mr. Herman Hill at St. Teresa's Church, Grand avenue and North Market street, at 8 o'clock a. m. Wednesday, June 26. Owing to the recent death of the bride's grandmother, there will be no reception.

Two Spitters Fined.

Judge Kleiber fined two men $1 and costs each Friday in the Wyoming Street Police Court for spitting on street cars. They were William Clemens of 3730 Wyandotte street, arrested Thursday evening on a Broadway car and Henry L. Grimm of 4312 Chippewa avenue, arrested on a Cherokee car.

EACH SAYS OTHER KILLED AGED MAN

Anna Bentley Accuses Robert Sassaman, and He Her, of Murdering Carl Miller.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLDEN, Mo., June 21.—When the trial of Robert Sassaman, charged with murder, is called in Warrensburg next week there will begin one of the most complicated criminal cases in the history of Johnson County.

Carl Miller, aged 60 years, was murdered May 30, 1904, two and one-half miles west of Holden. The body was thrown in an abandoned well. The crime did not come to light till October of that year, when Anna Bentley gave her version of the affair to the officers at Harrisonville, who went with her to the scene of the crime.

The body of Miller, though badly decomposed, was found in the old well and the Coroner's jury, on the evidence of Anna Bentley, rendered a verdict that Miller came to his death at the hands of Sassaman.

According to the woman's story, she and Sassaman, who had known each other for years, were traveling in Kansas and when near Holden made the acquaintance of Miller, whom they persuaded to accompany them.

Crushes Miller's Skull.

They were delayed by a swollen stream, and on the night of May 30, while around the campfire, Sassaman murdered the old man, crushing his skull with an ax, she says. The motive was the possession of Miller's team and wagon. A heavy stone was wired to the body and it was thrown into the well.

Sassaman and the woman traveled westward, stopping at Topeka, where they remained some time. In September Sassaman, according to the woman, left her to go to Dakota, with the intention of making away with a lover of hers, of whom he was jealous. She immediately came to Missouri and informed on Sassaman.

Sassaman successfully eluded the officers for two years. In September, Deputy Sheriff Louis Geer of Holden learned the man wanted was in Chicago, and, with the assistance of Charles E. Morrow of St. Louis, who was Prosecuting Attorney of Johnson County when the crime was committed, located him. Oct. 29, 1904, Sassaman was arrested in the Chicago Postoffice. His version of the crime, as told to Geer, is as follows:

Lays Crime on Woman.

He and Anna Bentley had lived together in St. Louis for six months, and she wanted him to leave because she was jealous of a woman there. They traveled westward, meeting Miller near Warrensburg, where they were delayed by a swollen stream.

On the night of the murder, Miller had called them at midnight for the purpose of stealing corn from a neighboring farm. As the old man leaned over the fire to light his pipe, the Bentley woman, according to Sassaman, struck him on the head with an ax, killing him instantly. The woman said to Sassaman:

"From now on, Bobby, you do what I say. I am a woman. If you tell I killed the old man, nobody will believe you; if I say you did it, they will believe me and hang you. If you marry that little —— in St. Louis, I'll lay this murder on you the day you get married."

The pair traveled to Kansas City and then to Topeka, where, after several quarrels, they parted. Sassaman induced the woman in St. Louis to meet him in Kansas City, where they were married, he going under the name of Carson. The item of marriage was published in the Kansas City papers, whereupon the Bentley woman made good her threat.

These are the stories which the jury must sift. Sassaman has well-to-do relatives, who are furnishing good lawyers to defend him.

HARNESSING WATER POWER

Fall of Water 1230 Feet in California to Be Utilized in Developing Electrical Force.

A water fall of 1230 feet on the Mokelumne River in Central California is to be used by the General Electric Power Co. of California for the development of electrical power on an enormous scale. No water-fall of such height has ever before given such an amount of electrical power at one head and the present project is being watched with interest.

This immense fall will develop 69,000 electrical horsepower, which will be transmitted to all the towns and cities of Central California, including the city of San Francisco.

Contracts for the construction of the new power plant at a cost of nearly $10,000,000 have been let to the firm of Walston H. Brown & Bros. of New York, who are now building the Belmont Tunnel connecting New York and Brooklyn.

Irresistible Bar.

This advertisement appeared in a Swiss paper: "Hotel in a most picturesque site, a distance of a hundred meters from a police station. A physician is attached to the establishment, in which an abundantly supplied American bar presents such attractions that very few customers leave it of their own free will."

Crushed by Two-Ton Wagon.

A wagon containing an iron casting weighing 1800 pounds passed over the abdomen of Frank Williamson, 16 years old, of 713 North Sixteenth street, Thursday evening. He was taken to the City Hospital. His condition is serious. Williamson was driving the wagon along Broadway and when at the intersection of Dorcas street he applied the whip to the horses. The animals gave the wagon a jerk, causing Williamson to fall off. The rear wheel passed over his body.

POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF MARKETS

WHEAT DULL AND SLIGHTLY LOWER

Light Trading and Narrow Range Were Features of Today's Market.

WEATHER IS VERY GOOD

Coarse Grain Futures Quiet—Argentine Shipments Large—Cables Were Lower.

Local wheat was very dull and narrow Friday and at the close was slightly lower. July option closed ¼c lower for the day at 89¾c sellers, September option ⅛c lower at 91¾c bid, and December option ⅛@¼c lower at 94⅛@94¼c sellers.

Liverpool cables closed unchanged to ½d lower on spot wheat and ⅜d to ½d lower on the futures. Paris closed ¾c to 1c higher on wheat and ¼@½c higher on flour. Berlin wheat closed ½c lower and Budapest wheat ⅝c higher. Argentine shipments of wheat were 3,312,000 bu, against 2,864,000 bu last week and 1,640,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of wheat in Argentine is 1,800,000 bu, against 2,136,000 bu last week and 2,536,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine wheat market is firm, with smaller offerings and a fair demand. Arrivals from the interior are heavy.

The local market was very dull and featureless, and prices, under the light trading, were almost stagnant at times. The weather is splendid and winter wheat prospects are improving wonderfully, and this, with the weak Liverpool cables which just about reflected our decline of yesterday, caused some weakness at the start, July opening ¼c lower at 89¾c, and declining to 89⅜@½c, and September starting ¼c to ⅜c lower at 91⅝c, and sagging to 91¼c. There was very little interest in the market, and when a scattered demand from commission houses and shorts appeared, prices ranged back to 90c for July and 92c for September.

Trading picked up somewhat in the late trading, but there were few developments of interest and prices were slow. Late prices moved between Friday's close to about ⅜c below it, and several declines and advances within this narrow range were made. July option closed ¼c lower for the day at 89¾c and September closed ⅛c lower for the day at 91¾c.

The cash wheat market was quiet and about steady. Primary receipts of wheat were 397,805 bu, against 291,920 bu last year, and shipments were 538,050 bu, against 162,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 24,040 bu, against 10,000 bu last year. Receipts were 24,040 bu, against 10,000 bu last year, and shipments were 23,680 bu. Today's clearances of wheat and flour were 259,000 bu, and Bradstreet makes the week's exports 2,856,600 bu.

Corn was dull. The perfect weather and ½d lower cables caused an easier tone, and prices closed unchanged to ¼@⅜c lower for the day. Trading was very light. July option opened unchanged at 52c, went as high as 52@52⅛c, as low as 51⅞c, and closed at 52c asked. September opened ¼c lower at 52¼@52⅜c, advanced to 52½c, declined to 52c, and closed at 52¼c.

Argentine shipments were 1,853,000 bu, against 1,552,000 bu last week and 2,876,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of corn in Argentine is 1,715,000 bu, against 1,828,000 bu last week and 3,500,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine corn market firm, in anticipation of smaller receipts, and the demand is fair. Primary receipts of corn were 765,285 bu, against 652,945 bu last year, and shipments were 724,755 bu, against 575,000 bu last year. Local receipts of corn were 115,500 bu, against 17,845 bu last year, and shipments were 69,930 bu. Clearances of corn for the day were 153,000 bu and the exports for the week total 985,000 bu.

Oats were dull and featureless. Uniformly unfavorable crop reports were received and prices started out higher, but sold off later and closed unchanged to ⅛@¼c higher. July oats was bid for at Thursday's close, 44c. September option opened ¼c higher at 38c, advanced to 38¼c, and closed at 37⅞@38c.

Primary receipts of oats were 334,275 bu, against 573,150 bu last year, and shipments were 379,515 bu, against 587,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 129,600 bu, against 35,200 bu last year, and shipments were 77,450 bu. Oats clearances were 59,000 bu.

Following is the Modern Miller crop outlook: Numerous reports have been received, mostly from Illinois, of injury to winter wheat from too much rain when the plant was in the blooming stage, and by the development of rust. The heads are reported as not filling well. Otherwise, there are no complaints, and conditions in general are considered satisfactory.

Minneapolis stocks increased 50,000 bu and Duluth decreased 675,000 bu for the week. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis 193, against 190 last year; Duluth 58, against 36 last year. Total, 251, against 226 last year.

FLOUR—Receipts were 7330 bbls; shipments 9130 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents, $3.40@4.60; straight, $4.10@4.30; extra fancy, $3.75@4.00 in wood; low to medium grades, in jute, $2.60@3.10; hard jute sacks, patents, $4.05@4.30; straight at $3.80@4; clear at $2.90@3.30; low grade at $2.40@2.70; spring patents at $4.55@4.70 in jute.

HAY—Receipts 630 tons local and 235 tons through; shipments 295 tons. Quote timothy hay, choice, $20@21; No. 1, $18@20; No. 2, $16@18; No. 3, $11@14. Clover hay, choice, $18@19; No. 1, $15.50@16.50; No. 1 clover mixed, $18@18.50; No. 2 clover mixed, $14@17. Prairie hay, choice, $12; No. 1, $11@11.50; No. 2, $9@10.

EUROPEAN BANKERS SAY U. S. BORROW TOO MUCH

President Garrels of Franklin Bank Told U. S. Industries Must Pay European Borrowings and Develop on Own Profit.

Evidently, industrial as well as financial prosperity go hand in hand—even when the complaint is made, as it has been made in the United States during the last eight months, that the country is suffering through too much prosperity.

President G. W. Garrels of the Franklin Bank, who has just returned from a trip which took him through Italy, Austria, Hungary and Germany, and who made it a portion of business on his pleasure jaunt to talk of finances of national and international character with some bankers of Europe, says practically that the complaint of the European bankers is that the United States borrows too much money in Europe; pays too high a price for it to suit industrial Europe, causing a lack of loanable bank funds there as there is in this country and establishing conditons there of much the same general description as have existed in this country for the last few years. Mr. Garrels says:

"While I was in Europe I was at one time or another in some of the continental money centers and made it a part of my business as well as a part of my pleasure to talk with those of my financial friends whom I met. Reduced to a concrete form, the complaint, or I might just as well say, the comment on the financial situation in Europe, as relates to the United States, is that we borrow too much money over there. By this they mean our industries. The United States institutions are welcome creditors of European banks and their bankers admit it—for the reason that Americans are willing to pay higher interest than the European home industries pay or have been used to pay. In Europe—especially in Germany—banks and banking are more closely allied to the industries than in this country, because they are allowed to hold and do hold stock in a great many enterprises, and while the business there could not be better the high rates of interest which rule, reduce the profits of industrial corporations, in which the banks are directely interested."

The oppressive or unusual financial conditions resemble other strenuous or strained conditions in that many remedies are suggested, and Mr. Garrels was asked what he believed were the opinions of the bankers on the other side, as well as his own, for the relief of the situation in Europe as well as in the United States. His remedy was as brief as it was pointed:

"We must pay our debts," he said, "and pay for our own development as we go along out of the accumulation of our profits and our savings. While this course is not new—I mean, while the suggestion is not new—it appears to be the corrective which finally will be followed. In fact, already, within the last four months some curtailment has been announced in the development of enterprises. Financial arrangements which had been taken up and in some instances arranged for have since been canceled. Some of the bankers in Europe think and to some extent bankers in the United States agree that it would be well for us to go a little slower in making debts for new enterprises, of which a great many will not be able to earn dividends."

POST-DISPATCH'S RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

N. Y. STOCKS CLOSE DULL; BANK FAILURE IN EGYPT

First Figures Friday, Show Small Losses—First Half Hour Shows Some Declines and No Advances of Moment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21, 3 p. m.—The failure of the Discount and Savings Bank, an English institution at Alexandria, Egypt, was announced shortly after 2 o'clock. Liabilities $2,500,000.

The market closed dull but steady at positions for most stocks very close to the opening for today.

The close showed gains of small fractions for Union Pacific, Reading, Erie, Northern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio. Great Northern and St. Paul closed fractionally lower.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21, 9:30 a. m.—The stock market opened Friday ⅛ to ⅜ under the finals of Thursday. This opening is quite in accordance with the lack of interest that has prevailed during the last week or 10 days and also in accord with the view taken of the stock market that no market movement will be noticeable until after the July disbursements have been made.

What will occur then is guessed at by commission houses, some of which believe stocks are at rock bottom and that there will be an advance in prices after July 1.

There is also ample opinion that the market will resemble that of last July and August in inactivity and that there will be no perceptible upward movement until September. There are no open declarations that stocks will go lower—that is, the general low levels now prevailing will be forced down further.

Friday's lower openings extended to all stocks, there being no high places in relief. Of the industrial issues Amalgamated Copper and Smelter both showed marked tendency to further decline during the first half hour. Steel stocks were the same.

Among the active rail issues the opening was slow, but the decline tendency was not pronounced in the first half hour. Reading and Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, New York Central and Great Northern showed either fractional losses or were steady at opening figures.

ROCKEFELLER ADMITS HE WAS "GOING SOME" IN AUTO

Arrested for Fracturing Speed Law After Protesting Against Reckless Driving of Automobiles Around Pacantico Hills.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Automobilists in Westchester County are having a laugh at John D. Rockefeller's expense. Recently he gave orders to close the gates on his Pocantico Hills estate against them because of the reckless driving of some autoists.

While going up from the city yesterday Mr. Rockefeller was enjoying a rapid spin along the State road at Elmsford, when he was held up by Constable Bunsenmeyer, who brought the car to a stop with a rope stretched across the road. As Mr. Rockefeller poked his head out of the car door Bunsenmeyer said:

"You are arrested for exceeding the speed limit."

"I am John D. Rockefeller and I am bound for my home at Pocantico Hills," replied the oil king.

Bunsenmeyer was surprised, but said it made no difference whether he was John D. Rockefeller or John Smith. The Constable said Rockefeller was going 30 miles an hour.

"Well," said Mr. Rockefeller, "I suppose I'm caught, but as a favor will you accompany me to my home and I will telephone the Justice of the Peace. I am anxious to get home."

Bunsenmeyer agreed and hopped in alongside and was driven to Mr. Rockefeller's home on the hill. Mr. Rockefeller called up the Justice at Tarrytown and told him he had been arrested. He asked the Justice if he could not fix the case without going to court.

The Justice agreed, provided the chaffeur was brought before him. This Mr. Rockefeller assented to, and the chauffeur appeared in the afternoon and was fined $35.

MORE SEWERS FOR EAST SIDE

Local Improvement Board Pass Petition to the City Council After Hearing.

Following a public hearing by the East St. Louis Board of Local Improvement Thursday morning in the City Hall, the board passed a resolution Friday authorizing an ordinance to be presented to the City Council providing for the construction of a larger sewer system for East St. Louis, costing $721,000.

The district covered by the proposed sewer extends from Cahokia Creek on the west to the Terminal Belt on Twenty-first street on the east, and from the northern city limits to the Illinois Central Railroad on the south.

By this plan the city will be divided into two districts. The sewer now under consideration will not extend to Winstanley Park, Security addition, or other suburban sections.

This outlying section will form the second district and plans are being prepared for a system to drain this section by sewer arms and lateral sewers, which will empty into the large system.

It will provide for sewer arms on Ridge avenue, Missouri avenue and State street, with lateral sewers leading to these arms.

It is estimated that the assessment of property for the two sewer systems will be about the same as the assessment made for the sewer a year ago, but which did not receive enough votes in the City Council to legally pass it.

Of the 5500 notices to file objections sent out by the board to the property owners, representing 29,000 pieces of property, only about 40 persons were present at the meeting Thursday, and no objections were filed.

It is thought that the ordinance can be prepared in time to submit it to the Council at its meeting Monday.

GRADUATE OF 1882 WAS GUEST

At the annual alumnae banquet of the Ursuline Academy of Alton Thursday Misses Sadie McGinnis, Veronica McInerny, Katherine Dolan and Opal Ruyle, members of the class of 1907, were admitted to membership.

A short business meeting was followed by a banquet and a musical and literary entertainment. The guest of honor was Mary Kinney-Shea, who was graduated by the institution 25 years ago. Mother Bernard, in behalf of the sisters of the academy, gave Mrs. Kinney-Shea a handsome piece of silver.

$200,000,000 Mortgage Filed.

Assistant Claim Agent P. H. C. Remine of St. Louis filed for the Wabash Railway in St. Charles Thursday a mortgage for $200,000,000 to the Bowling Green Trust Co. It is the first refunding and extension mortgage, and releases all other mortgages held against the railway company, and is for the purpose of securing 50-year bonds at 4 per cent. The filing fee charged by County Clerk Henry C. Sandfort was $20.

COTTON.

(Francis, Bro. & Co., 214 N. Fourth st.)
ST. LOUIS, June 21.

It was expected this morning that the Liverpool market would open from 3 to 4 points lower on the near months and from 1 to 1½ points lower on the distant months, in sympathy with the decline in New York on yesterday. First sales, however, were only off 2 points from yesterday's final prices. Tone of market was quiet at 12:30 (Liverpool time). Market was dull and sales were being made at a net loss of 2½ to 5½ on the near positions and 3 to 3½ on the distant positions.

Demand for spots dull. Sales only 3000 bales, of which 2000 was American. Cotton imports 9000 bales, all American.

The opening prices in New York today were at a lower level than the close yesterday, first sales being made at a decline of 2 to 5 points. Opening sales as follows: July 11.50, Oct. 11.32, Dec. 11.35, Jan. 11.45.

Weather indications for cotton belt: Generally fair over the eastern states; scattered showers over central and western sections today and tomorrow.

ARBITRATORS REFUSE MORE WAGES TO TEAM DRIVERS

Belleville Union Men Who Struck and Then Returned Pending Settlement, Lose Fight.

The Arbitration Committee selected to settle the team drivers' strike in Belleville rendered a decision Friday against the strikers. The strike began April 4 when 147 team drivers quit work because their employers refused them an advance in wages from 22½ cents an hour to 27½ cents.

The men returned to work three weeks ago, agreeing to abide by the decision of the Arbitration Committee. George B. Rogers was selected to represent the employers and John Schultz, the strikers. They were not able to agree and called in Charles P. Sleischbein as the third member.

Sleischbein sided with Rogers. Schultz made a minority report in which he contended the comparison of scale wages upon which the other two members based their decision was not a proper guide.

CASHIER OF BREWERY HAS BEEN MISSING FIVE DAYS

Accounts of Alton Employe of Anheuser-Busch Are Found to Be Correct.

Albert Woltemade, cashier for the Anheuser-Busch agency at Alton, has been missing from his home in that city since Tuesday noon, when he boarded an interurban car bound for St. Louis. His wife and friends believe that he is wandering under the stress of some peculiar mental condition.

The lodge of Alton Elks has begun to trace his movements since he was last seen alighting from the interurban car in East St. Louis. An auditor of the brewing corporation has been examining the books at the agency. The accounts have been found thus far to be in excellent condition.

Woltemade is 30 years of age, weighs 180 pounds, has a full, smoothly-shaven face, light hair and blue eyes. His habitual attire is dark. Mrs. Woltemade is greatly perturbed over her husband's continued absence.

Woman Gets Class Pin.

Miss Edith Horstman, pianist for the East St. Louis High School, was presented Thursday with a High School pin. According to school custom these pins are conferred regularly only upon class presidents and debaters. Ferdinand Abt, one of the three debaters, who won from Central High last winter, was also given a pin, as were Walter C. Berkmeyer, J. C. Wilson, John Wilson, S. P. Overstreet, L. E. F. Gerhardt, A. H. Ose, R. S. Webb, I. B. Summers, all former presidents.

LOCAL STOCK TRANSACTIONS

In a market pronouncedly higher on the St. Louis Stock Exchange Friday forenoon, the volume of transactions was augmented, attaining the normal for what it has been during the last few months.

One trust and one bank issue figured in the transactions. Several small blocks of Merchants-Laclede Bank stock for which one of the big commission houses has been angling for some time, were finally bought at 285, the supply at that figure terminating with the sale of 30 shares. Thereafter holders demanded 286.

The trust stock sold was several lots of Commonwealth at 314, ½ point over the figures of the last sale. The close on the issue was 313 bid, 314 asked, but no stock in sight for sale.

In the miscellaneous list there were several advances on sales. Kansas City Home Telephone stock sold 1¾ points higher at 67. The stock has been irregular, but the advance Friday was taken as the first evidence of a permanent new high figure for the issue.

Small lots of Central Coal and Coke stock sold firm at 67, and East St. Louis & Suburban stock sold in odd lots at 79.

Broadway Railroad bonds sold fractionally higher at par and were quoted 99⅞ to 100⅛ at the close.

The traction issues were stronger and the 4 per cent bonds and preferred stocks figured in the sales. Preferred sold ¼ point higher at 68½, and the common stock was firm at 30 asked.

FINANCIAL.

Call money on the New York Exchange opened at 3½ per cent Friday.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-6 Security Building, report local money: Indorsed bills receivable, 4 to 6 months, 5½ per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 5½ to 6 per cent; other names, not so well known, 6 per cent on first-class security. Money market steady; demand for money continues good.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Friday, $9,717,242; last week, $9,326,969. Balances for today, $1,157,631; last week, $912,460. Increase clearings, $490,273; increase balances, $245,171.

Temporary accumulations of money at this center are still causing a piling up of deposits and some tendency on the part of outside institutions to find a place for their idle funds, pending the movement of the crops this fall. This has caused a somewhat active tone in the market for mercantile bills within the past few days. Little interest is shown in the demand for money rates at this time, owing to the lack of speculation in most commodities.

A GREEN AND ORANGE SNAKE

One Found in Ireland Says a Leading Paper of That Country.

The Irish Times hears that while a Mr. Kennedy was walking through his farm at Tullamore Park "he was surprised to see something wriggling in the grass. On closer observation Mr. Kennedy saw that the creature was a snake, which hissed at him." This is an important discovery, says the Louisville Chronicle. We thought there were not snakes in Ireland. But the observant Mr. Kennedy noticed that it was colored dark green on the back and light pale green underneath, with a beautiful orange band at the back of the hear. This is surely a political portent such as Rome knew at the crises. The snake—the green—the orange—the hiss—it would be well if we could see such a real snake in Ireland.

Mexican Insomnia Club.

Guadalajara has probably one of the most unique social organizations in the new world. It is called "The Insomnia Club," housed in a quiet, thick-walled ancient building in the heart of the Tapatian capital. There are at present 46 members, and as they can but seldom sleep, they pass the nights, perfumed as the nocturnal atmosphere there always is with jazmin and azahar, in agreeable diversions—chess, billiards, cards and bowling.

75,000 Common Shares of $100 each. 15,000 Seven per cent Preferred Shares of $100 each.
Authorized Bond Issue, - - - $9,000,000

Consisting of 30 year 5 per cent Gold First Mortgage Dividend Participating Bonds of a par Value of $100, $300, $500 and $1000. Interest payable October 2nd and March 2nd.

These Bonds not only Bear a Fixed Rate of Interest but Participate in the Profits of the Company.

From net earnings of the Company after payment of interest on bonds, operating, maintenance, sinking fund and other charges, dividends will first be paid pro rata equally upon the first mortgage Bonds outstanding and the issued common stock until each shall have received 5 per cent. per annum. The common stock issue cannot be increased without Bondholders' consent.

The Company will receive subscriptions for the bonds, payable as follows:
10% on Application. 12½% on August 1, 1907. 12½% on October 1, 1907. 12½% on December 1, 1907.
15% on Allotment. 12½% on Sept. 1, 1907. 12½% on November 1, 1907. 12½% on February 1, 1908.

Payment in full may be made on allotment or on the due date of any instalment and interest at the rate of 5% will accrue from the date of such payment.

The Bonds are redeemable by the Company October 2, 1937, or after 1912 at option of the Company at 105%.

Of the total authorized Bond issue, $6,000,000 are reserved for England, France and Holland. The remaining $3,000,000 will be sold in the U. S. of which $1,000,000 is now offered at 96%. All remaining Bonds will be sold only at par.

Security of the Bonds

The Bonds are a first charge upon all property now owned or hereafter acquired. They are issued to provide working capital for constructions, additions and improvements, made and to be made upon the Companys' properties, in the State of California.

The proceeds of this issue will be deposited with the trustee and will only be paid out by it on engineers' certificates for works constructed and land and material purchased.

Interest at five per cent per annum upon the various instalments from the dates of payment until completion of the Company's work (which it is estimated will take two years) will be deposited with the trustee and will be paid by it on all instalments on the due dates beginning March 2, 1908.

Applications will be made in due course to the committees of the London Stock Exchange and the New York Stock Exchange for a quotation for the Bonds.

Prospectus

The bonds of the General Electric Power Company of California are secured by a FIRST MORTGAGE on all lands, water rights, plant, terminals, transmission lines, retaining and storage dams, canal, flumes, pipe lines, standard gauge high tension railway and its equipment, rails, freight yards, ferry systems, docks and wharves and property of whatsoever kind now owned or which may hereafter be acquired by the Company, including also the ownership of all the stock of the Clear Lake & Southern Railroad, incorporated under the laws of the State of California, September, 1905, with a capital stock of $3,500,000, WHICH STOCK IS TO BE HELD BY THE TRUSTEE.

The Company has been formed to generate electric power by the development of its water rights in the state of California, and to operate an electric railroad. It owns in fee simple all its dam sites, reservoir sites, lands, aqueduct right of way, power house sites and water rights for the use of all waters at its location on the Mokelumne River. A main dam 150 feet in height will form a reservoir with storage capacity of approximately 1,400,000,000 cubic feet of water. Above this dam other dams and large natural lakes provide additional storage capacity greater than that of the main reservoir.

From the main reservoir an aqueduct will convey the water seventeen miles whence it falls through riveted steel pipes to the wheels of the power house 1230 vertical feet below giving 69,000 electrical horse power at the power house, or 60,000 net H. P. for sale.

This power will be transmitted on long distance lines which will pass through fifteen different counties of Central California, embracing all the principal cities, in which the demand for power is enormous. No power company selling power commercially in California has ever defaulted its interest payment or failed to pay satisfactory dividends.

Electrification of Railways

Central California is preparing to follow the East in the electrification of railway lines, covering hundreds of miles of tracks. Immense construction of Interurban lines are in progress, others projected; aggregating 500 miles, all of which require large amounts of power. Nothing can compete with electric power generated from water falls.

Notwithstanding the almost unlimited market for power, the Company for sound business reasons, are negotiating and will conclude a contract for the sale of 25,000 horse power deliverable when their plants are completed and placed in operation, at prices which produce a revenue two and one-half times the fixed interest payments upon the bonds, thus affording a guaranteed and exceptionally solid security for the investment of funds.

Clear Lake and Southern Railroad

IS OWNED ENTIRELY BY THE GENERAL ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA. This road runs between San Francisco and Lakeport, a beautiful resort 130 miles away through a rich agricultural region abounding in mineral springs.

The reports upon the Clear Lake and Southern Railroad, made by the Engineers for the Company, estimates the total annual revenue earned by the railway to be - - - - $950,000
Less operating expenses, including depreciation, taxes, etc., 599,680
Total annual net earnings of Railroad, $350,320

Total Yearly Profit

It is expected that the General Electric Power Company will be delivering its entire output of power in two years, at which time the railroad will also be in operation. Taking power at an average selling price of $40 per H. P. per year, and which is $25 less than it can be produced in California by using the cheapest fuel (crude oil), gives:
60,000 electric horse power at $40 - - - - - $2,400,000
Maintenance and depreciation, including operating expenses, insurance, taxes, interest on bonds, sinking fund, 900,000
Total annual net profit from power - - $1,500,000

It is conservatively estimated after due allowances are made for constructing contingencies that the first three years and thereafter of operation the company will produce yearly not less than:—
From the sale of power - $1,500,000 From the railway - - $350,680
Total Yearly net Earnings, - - - $1,850,680

It is important to note that net earnings of $1,850,680 annually would provide an additional five per cent. dividend on the bonds, and a surplus equal to three times the fixed interest charge.

Assets

Conservatively put, the assets of the Company upon the completion of the plants and railroad, will exceed $15,000,000, or $6,000,000 in excess of the bond issue.

Contract for Construction

A contract for the construction of the entire power plant and electric railway has been entered into with Messrs. Walston H. Brown & Bro., Railway Contractors, New York City, by which they undertake to complete the entire work upon most favorable terms to the Company with a GUARANTEE as to the total cost and as to the time of construction.

Messrs. Walton H. Brown & Bros. are one of the leading construction firms in the United States having satisfactorily completed undertakings of such magnitude as Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Ry. Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis Railway and the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway (Nickel Plate). They are now engaged in constructing a tunnel under the East River (New York to Brooklyn).

Extracts from Report of John Bogart, Consulting Engineer

In his report, after a careful study of physical and industrial conditions in California, Mr. John Bogart, Consulting Engineer, states:

"Power is available in large amounts at the selected location, and it can be developed at a cost which will warrant all the investment required for such development.

"There is at present an existing demand and market at remunerative rates for electric power to an extent that will give direct and immediate return on the investment.

"There is a promise, in fact, an assurance, of an increasing demand for power in the region to be served by this enterprise. This demand will be such as to absorb within a short time all the power available from this source.

"The proposed railway will traverse a rich country now without facilities of transportation which with its present population and industries will give immediately a large traffic, and which, with the facilities to be afforded by this railway, will increase both in population and industries to an extent that will make the railway a desirable part of your properties.

"Your Company will have available for sale not less than 60,000 horse-power of electric current. A very few years ago this would have seemed enormous. In California to-day it will not supply the demand.

"In the City of San Francisco I found that the demand is insistent for electric current at the prices and with the regularity could guarantee. I think, however, that you will find a market much nearer your power plant for all the H. P. you will produce

"Outside of San Francisco and within the district to be supplied by your Company there are many cities and many towns with manufactories and other industries, and with electric roads and lighting, for all of which electric current created by water-power will be more economical than that now furnished by steam.

"I also Report that the engineering problems involved in the development of these powers, and in the construction of the railway, are such as can readily be solved by expert design and experienced directors"

"I am convinced that you will be well satisfied with the undertaking upon the completion of the works you now propose to construct, and will find, as I have already intimated, a highly profitable result."

Where Will You Send Your Daughter?

Timid girls do better at Forest Park University, for classes are smaller.

Delicate girls also, for school rooms are on one floor, and they have no stairs to climb.

Backward girls are advanced rapidly, for all are sent to the blackboard every day, and principles explained fully, so that they understand them.

Idle girls learn to study, for they are kept in daily, and find it better to study at the right time, than to lose recreation by studying at the wrong time.

Bright girls do better at F. P. U., for as dull ones MUST learn, whether or no, they are not kept back in their classes.

Music students do better at F. P. U., for music lessons and practicing alternate in school hours, piano monitors secure faithful practicing, and the hope of finally studying with Mr. Kroeger inspires them.

Bible study at F. P. U. puts higher motives into life, changes and deepens character, transforming thoughtless girls into faithful women.

Grammar School diplomas admit to college preparatory, High School diplomas to full four years' college course.

Other students privately examined and graded. Special students taken. Tuition, $65 school year.

Take Market street cars to University. President's hours, 2 to 5 p. m. Summer School in Piano, Voice, Violin, Elocution now in session.

LATE SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. John Doneghy and Mrs. Anna Doneghy Boone are now at their residence in Clemens avenue, and do not expect to leave town this summer. They have recently returned from a long Mexican tour.

Col. and Mrs. James Gay Butler are preparing to leave for Fort Griswold, Conn., July 3. They will ship their touring car to Buffalo and meet it at that city, making the trip from Buffalo to the fort overland. Mrs. Butler is entirely recovered from her long siege of rheumatism.

Miss Mildred Hoyle departed this week for the East, where she will visit relatives for six weeks. She has gone directly to the country place of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, which is midway between Magnolia and Gloucester, Mass., and one of the finest summer homes on the coast. Mrs. Charles Hoyle, who has been at the Hammond place for several months, is expected home next week.

Mrs. Arthur Lytton of 5214 Ridge avenue entertained her afternoon euchre club Thursday. This was the last meeting of the season.

Mrs. Fred McCoy, who was Miss Helen Wood and a bride of last winter, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. William Grayson, and being much feted. Mrs. McCoy will return to her home in Cleveland Saturday morning.

Mrs. Paul Brown left Thursday for the Brown farm, near Senton, Mo. This was formerly the Boeckeler farm, and has been recently purchased by Mr. Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner and several other friends will go up to join Mr. and Mrs. Brown for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler departed the first of the week for the coast of Maine, where they expect to spend the summer.

Mrs. Robert Mudd and her children have returned from the Cedars, where they spent six weeks, and accompanied by Mrs. Mudd's mother, Mrs. Garth, have gone north to Huronia Beach, where they will open their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Baarent Tenbroeck will entertain a week-end party at the Georgia Cottage, Clifton Terrace. Among their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barada Widen.

The T. J. T. Outing.

The T. J. T. gave their first outing of the season Sunday, June 16, at Meramec Highlands. Those who attended were:

Misses—
Sadie Lazar, Ida Brinkmeyer, Clara Schwartz, Marie Dieppenbrock, Mae Simpson.

Messrs.—
Leo Uhrback, Charles Lierkes, Frederick Deistel, Harry Kaiser, Fred Roepke.

Miss Hermine Gratz was slightly improved Friday morning, and her friends are more hopeful as to her condition.

Trolley Party.

A trolley ride was given Monday evening by the members of the Saturday Fortnightly Club to St. Charles, on the private car "Meramec," chaperoned by the Misses Carrie Picard and Minnie Mayer and Mr. Herman Wolfheim. Refreshments were served on the car. Members of the party were:

Misses—
Lederer, Schuster, Straus, Mayer, L. Schuster, Friedman.

Messrs.—
Stern, Katz, Haas, Goldman, Mayer, Friedman.

Boating Party.

"STOKER TEDDY" DELIGHTED CREW

Sailor Tells How President Doffed Coat and Shoveled Coal on Battleship.

Harry Yant, a sailor on the United States battleship Louisiana, which carried President Roosevelt on his trip to and from Panama and Porto Rico, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Rose Sweeney, 643 South Pennsylvania street, on nine days' leave of absence while the Louisiana has been in dry dock for repairs at Norfolk, says the Indianapolis Star. Yant says that President Roosevelt "made a hit" with the sailors on the ship by taking an active interest in everything they did, eating with the men and assisting them in their work. Yant was accompanied on his trip home by Lewis Selloff, also a sailor on the Louisiana. Both men are loud in their praise of the President.

Yant is a stoker and works down in the bowels of the ship, feeding coal into the furnaces.

"President Roosevelt was 'it' on board ship," said Yant. "There wasn't anything that the men would not do for him. One day on the trip out he came down into the furnace room and walked about among the bunkers and watched us work.

Before the Furnace.

Directly he pulled off his coat and then removed his collar. Then he rolled up his sleeves.

"'Let me have your shovel,' he said to one of the men.

"Well, the shovel was turned over to him, and the way he shoveled coal into the furnace was a caution. He got his shirt dirty, but that didn't make any difference to him. It was rather warm in the furnace room, but he just perspired and showed his teeth and said he wanted to see how it went. He talked to nearly all of the men, and asked them about their work and how they liked the service.

"And then when mess time came he invariably ate with the boys. He helped us work all over ship at hoisting signals and doing other work, and always ate his meals with a relish. When asked by the cook if he liked the grub, he said that he was 'dee-lighted' with it. The boys could hardly eat for watching the President. It was, of course, a big honor to us to have the President eat with us.

Enjoys Scrap Most.

"We gave a vaudeville entertainment for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt on the voyage from Ponce, Porto Rico, to Hampton Roads, when we carried the President on his trip to Porto Rico. The entertainment was given on the night of Nov. 22, 1906, by the ship's company. Solos were sung, sketches were pulled off and slack wire performances were given. B. E. Wirth made a stump speech, one of the men by the name of Rosenthal gave a monologue, and there were other interesting features. But the one big feature was a boxing match pulled off by the best boxers on board. The President took great interest in this 'scrap,' and it seemed just as though he wanted to mix in himself. Music for the entertainment was furnished by the ship's orchestra.

"After our return to New York from the Panama trip in February, Master-at-Arms W. H. Belknap, Seaman John Kelley, Boatswain's Mate W. Prochnow and Watertender C. Kellner went to Washington and presented President and Mrs. Roosevelt with a silver loving cup in behalf of the ship's crew. It is an adage in the navy that a woman aboard a fighting ship always brings bad weather, but in the case of Mrs. Roosevelt there was an exception. We had the finest kind of weather throughout the trip."

Life in Panama.

Yant says that Panama is not a desirable place in which to live, as there is considerable immorality and uncleanliness there. He is delighted with the life in the navy.

"We have plenty to eat and wear," he said, "and of course we have to work some, but it isn't hard, and then we have lots of fun and get to travel and see a great deal."

Yant enlisted in the navy at Norfolk a year ago. He is 19 years of age. Selloff is older and has had longer experience, but he is every bit as enthusiastic concerning life in the navy. Selloff also is an Indianapolis man.

The Louisiana has been at the Jamestown Exposition for several weeks, and will leave soon with the other ships of the North Atlantic fleet to engage in target practice off the coast of Cuba.

"We have lots of 'home talent' shows aboard ship," said Yant. "On the night of May 3 we gave a dinner in honor of the ship's company of His Majesty's ship Good Hope of England, at Hampton Roads. We had five boxing matches between men from the two ships, and our ship's company came off victorious in nearly every one of them. Then we had a dinner, at which was served oyster soup, celery, radishes, roast turkey, cranberry sauce, oyster dressing, giblet sauce, sweet potatoes, creamed corn, ice cream, fancy cakes, coffee, cigars, cigarettes and pipes and tobacco. The band from the two ships furnished the music, opening with 'God Save the King' and 'America' and closing with 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' The way those English cheered 'The Star-Spangled Banner' made our hearts swell with pride."

SAME OLD ICEBERG, SAYS MARK TWAIN

Declares He Saw It Thirty-Four Times and Can't Be Fooled Again.

Mark Twain sailed for England a few days ago, and while there will be given the degree of "D. C. L." by Oxford University—and it is pleasant to notice that the English journals refer to this as an honoring of Oxford quite as much as the honoring of a distinguished American author, says Harper's Literary Gossip.

Often as Mark Twain has crossed the ocean he cannot really make himself love it; and not even the Oxford degree at the end will entirely reconcile him to the voyage. At least, whether he means to be taken seriously or not, he likes to talk with humorous criticism of the sea.

"Why, on board ship," he said, the other day, "one tires of the aspects in a couple of days and quits looking. The same vast circle of heaving humps is spread around you all the time, with you in the center of it and never gaining an inch on the horizon, so far as you can see; for variety, a flight of flying fish, mornings; a flock of porpoises throwing somersaults afternoons; a remote whale spouting, Sundays; occasional phosphorescent effects, nights; every other day a streak of black smoke trailing along the horizon; on the one single red-letter day, the illustrious iceberg. I have seen that iceberg 34 times in 37 voyages; it is always the same shape, it is always the same size, it always throws up the same old flash when the sun strikes it; you may set it on any New York doorstep of a June morning and lighten it up with a mirror flash and I will engage to recognize it. It is artificial, and is provided and anchored out by the steamer companies. I used to like the sea, but I was young then, and could easily get excited over any kind of monotony, and keep it up till the monotonies ran out, if it was a fortnight.

HE STARTED AT $3 A WEEK

Stuck to Railroading and Now Gets $25,000 a Year.

When a youth displays a pronounced bent for any occupation it is pretty safe to let him follow it, says Leslie's Weekly. Had Mr. B. B. Mitchell, lately appointed general traffic manager of Vanderbilt lines, been ruled when a boy by his father's wishes, he would have remained on the family farm and never been heard of as a railroad man. But young Mitchell felt called to the business of railroading, and nothing could turn his thoughts away from it. Finally he left his home and accepted a three-dollar-per-week railroad job in Detroit. That was 40 years ago, but now, through successive promotions, he is receiving a salary of $25,000 a year.

Searchlights for Niagara.

Effective use has been made from time to time of searchlights at Niagara for illuminating the gorge, etc. Citizens of Niagara Falls now propose to make a regular installation for the purpose, and Mr. W. D. A. Ryan, the illuminating expert, is giving his attention to the subject. At night Niagara is not seen except under moonlight, and it is believed that some very beautiful effects can be obtained by throwing artificial daylight on the scene, with color transitions.

The Best News From Everywhere of All Sports

HAS BATTED .300 FOR OVER FOURTEEN YEARS

WILLIE KEELER.

CRICKET CLUB CHALLENGE.

THE Cricket Club of Chicago has challenged the St. Louis Cricket Club for a match or series of matches to be played on the Fourth of July and the following two days. In former years this intercity cricket match has always been one of the most attractive features of St. Louis outdoor sports, and its revivication this year will be a very pleasing event.

In preparation for the match with the "Windy City" club the local players have scheduled a game between the English members of the club and the "All Comers," which will be pla yed Saturday afternoon on the Forest Park crease.

MISS KULAGE WILL ATTEMPT TO BREAK BASEBALL RECORD.

JOSEPHINE KULAGE

HAS THROWN BALL 173 FEET.

BEFORE the passing of another week, Miss Josephine Kulage, 17 years old and living at 4405 Florissant avenue, will endeavor to break the world's record for the throwing of a regulation baseball by a woman.

The record is now held by Miss Bertha Burgett. At Elmira, N. Y., June 7, 1902, she threw a baseball 181 feet, passing the previous record, which was 163 feet. Miss Kulage will make her attempt at one of the local parks.

Miss Kulage is of medium height and well built. She is fond of playing baseball and has been since a child. She is an enthusiastic rooter, an admirer of good plays, and her judgment of the game is excellent. In practice she has thrown a regulation ball 173 feet.

HE GOES BACK NOW TO MINOR LEAGUES

JAKE BECKLEY.

FOURTEEN YEARS IN GAME; NEVER BATTED UNDER .300

Willie Keeler, the Midget Right Fielder of the New York Americans Has Proven His Worth, and Is a Credit to the National Game.

IN the game yesterday between the Browns and the New York Highlands Willie Keeler got three fine hits and kept up the batting streak he has had all season.

There is not a time during a ball game that Keeler, the welterweight champion batter of the world, starts swinging two bats to get one in shape to hit with that there is not a buzz in the stands. It's "Here comes Keeler up." "There will be something doing."

This same Keeler has brought joy not alone to the New York Americans with his timely hitting, but to every club the Brooklyn midget has been with. Keeler walks up to the batter's box, gets close up and never backs away. His judgment on bad balls can't be beaten. In fact, it has been noticed on several occasions that he will turn around and look at the umpire, who will shout "Ball one" if Keeler does not strike at it. They take it for granted that anything Keeler does not strike at is a ball. Watch him day in and day out and you will notice that the umpire practically leaves it to Keeler when calling them.

Keeler is known by his fellow-players as the Brooklyn millionaire. This title is given him because he owns some property in Brooklyn, the town where he was born. Keeler got his education in the public schools there. Keeler often missed an afternoon session and sometimes the entire day to toss a few around with the boys on the lot. It was not long before he attracted attention.

When he was 16 years old he joined the ...cmes of Brooklyn. Most of the games were played on Sundays, and the little batter made good right off the bat. He continued in the semi-professional ranks until 1890, when he joined the Crescents of Plainfield, N. J. His next engagement was with the Binghamtons, and in the fall of 1892 he was engaged by the New York Nationals. The fact that he was a left-handed thrower made the third-base position difficult for him to play. In the spring of 1893 he started to cover center field for the Giants, but owing to an accident while he was sliding to second base he was out of the game for some time. When he recovered he was released to the Brooklyn club, finishing the season there.

Ned Hanlon at that time took hold of the Baltimore club and was chasing around for some talent that would strengthen his team. Hanlon had been watching Keeler, and at once made a proposition to Charlie Byrne, then the president of the Trolley Dodgers, to trade Treadway and Shindle for Keeler and Brouthers. Bryne jumped at it. Hanlon put Keeler in right field, and there he has been ever since.

Hanlon, in 1899, took his Baltimore club over to Brooklyn, and, of course, Keeler was one of the players who went with him. Brooklyn won the pennant in 1899 and 1900, and Keeler did much to land the flag for the City of Churches.

A Credit to the Game.

Willie is a young man and is always in the best of shape. He takes the best of care of himself during the baseball season, and saves his money. In a joking way he has said different times: "Well, when I give up this game I suppose I will have to go back to work."

He is an honor to the great game of baseball. He seldom kicks at the umpire and when he does it's a sure sign that the decision was bad. He joined the Yankees in 1903, and has been playing the same kind of a game day in and day out. He certainly is the big Hibernian of the baseball field. Keeler was are asked how he made his great success as a batsman. He replied:

"There is only one explanation, and that is to hit them where they ain't."

The Brooklyn man has no favorite pastime, but on the road he enjoys reading, and always says: "This will be my last year." Keeler is good for plenty of baseball, and there is no doubt he will be seen in the right garden for a few years more. Wee Willie will go down in baseball history as one of the most scientific batters the game has ever produced, and he has an army of friends in every city. He seldom makes an error.

The dope goes away back when he dropped one in the outfield. He went through a season without striking out, and there was a big groan when he did fan in the air, and the pitcher who accomplished it was tickled to death. The honor of striking out Keeler was a big one.

To show that Keeler has hit the pill some since he became a major league player we give his batting record from the time he was in the big league up to the present time. He led the National League in batting in 1897 and 1898.

Year.	Club.	Pct.	Rank.
1892—	New York and Brooklyn	.333	22
1893—	Baltimore	.397	15
1894—	Baltimore	.394	3
1895—	Baltimore	.392	3
1897—	Baltimore	.432	1
1898—	Baltimore	.379	1
1899—	Brooklyn	.376	4
1900—	Brooklyn	.366	6
1901—	Brooklyn	.355	3
1902—	Brooklyn	.342	9
1903—	New York American	.318	9
1904—	New York American	.343	2
1905—	New York American	.302	8
1906—	New York American	.304	11

Grand average at bat, .357.

Last year Keeler finished eleventh. This season he is not doing so well at the present time, but when the snow flies in October he will be flirting around .300.

With or without another victory over the Highlanders this afternoon the Browns will have made a showing on their foreign trip far from disappointing. The team has won seven and lost eight. McAleer broke even with all the teams he has played, with the exception of Philadelphia, where he fell before Waddell and Dygert twice.

Jack Powell pitched for the Browns yesterday, and it was the great batting by his teammates in back of him that enabled him to win. Powell has been hit hard in every game he has pitched this trip, but he has received plenty of work. This and a little hot weather may do Jack some good.

The Browns hammered Doyle, Chesbro and Brockett hard and their extra base hits came when runs were needed. Stone, Wallace, Hartzell and Hemphill were the batting heroes, Stone batting .500.

Howell is due to work this afternoon and the chances seem bright for another victory. Howell will face his old manager and teammates and he will work very hard to win.

Saturday the Browns play in Cleveland, and Sunday a series will be opened at Sportsman's Park with Detroit as opponents.

Cardinals Good Try.

The Cardinals made a dashing attempt in the ninth inning yesterday, when the score stood 1 to 0 against them, and tied up the game with a single by Hostetter and a double by Johnny Lush, who batted for Burch.

In the twelfth inning the Brooklyn team squeezed over two runs. Stony McGlynn pitched a splendid game, but he weakened in this inning by allowing a single and walking the next two men, with one out. A scratch single past Hostetter by Hummell scored two runs and the game was won.

Lush again took the fans by surprise when he opened the twelfth with a slashing triple to left. He was left on base when Marshall, McGlynn and Byrne went out in succession. The Cardinals made 10 hits to their opponents' 8, but they were not so fortunate in making them at timely moments.

Good-Bye, Jake.

Beckley has been sold to Burke's Kansas City Blues. He is the last of the old regime here when McCloskey took charge of the Cardinals, and now Mack has a team entirely after his own selection.

Beckley has still many years of good baseball in him, and he will certainly strengthen the Blues. Burke has a fine chance to finish high in the American Association, and he could not have secured a better man than old Jake to help him out.

Beckley has been in fast company for 20 years. He played first base for the old St. Louis Whites, under Chris Von der Ahe, Pittsburg, New York and Cincinnati.

Jake has not been hitting as well this year as formerly, and "Eagle Eye" says this is due to the fact that he has had two bad thumbs most of this season.

ST. LOUISANS CELEBRATE THE VICTORY OF NEALON

First Time That a Missouri Bred Horse Has Ever Won the Big Blue Ribbon Event of the Eastern Turf.

The festivities which commenced at Woodlands yesterday afternoon in celebration of Nealon's great victory in the Suburban Handicap are still in progress. Scores of the friends of Mr. Schreiber journeyed to the stud farm to join in the festive occasion. It was the first time in the history of the great Eastern classic that a Missouri-bred horse was declared the winner.

Although much credit is due Nealon for his fine performance, it must not be forgotten that he was piloted by Willie Dugan, a St. Louis boy, who learned the jockey's art on local tracks.

C. E. (Boots) Durnell is put down as the owner of Nealon, but he has merely leased his running qualities from Schreiber.

The victory of Nealon serves to emphasize the fact that here in Missouri there is one of the best thoroughbred sires in the United States.

Sain—the sire of Nealon—is a grandson of the celebrated English stallion St. Simon, and Nealon's dam—Sister Josephine, is out of the mare Hypatia, by Hanover.

No Better Blood.

There is no better blood on the American turf than that of Hanover, and consequently Nealon's pedigree on both sides of his house cannot be excelled. Of course Woodlands' reputation as a producer of high-class thoroughbreds is already wide, but this victory of Nealon will give the place an international reputation.

Nealon is still a young horse, and he may have several more campaigns on the turf, but unless Schreiber sells him to some Eastern racing magnate he is probably destined to spend his days among the blue grass meadows of Woodlands, where his career in the stud will be keenly watched by horsemen generally.

There is little doubt that Schreiber could easily dispose of this racer for $25,000, but he very rarely sells any of his blooded stock.

Made of Good Stuff.

That Nealon is made of good stuff is evidenced by the fact that after his Eastern campaign last year he was shipped to California and kept in continuous training. The fact that he can stand a hard campaign will give him additional value, because stamina is not the most common quality in American racers.

The chances are, however, that for the present year at least, Nealon will circuit.

It is worthy of special note that the first three horses in the Suburban were Western products. Montgomery, who finished a good second, was bred by J. A. Forsythe in Tennessee, and Beacon Light, who got the short end of the stake, is a product of old Kentucky and was bred by Hal P. Headly. In racing matters the East is not supreme any more.

CENTURY BOAT CLUB TO OPEN NEW HOME

The Century Boat Club will open its splendidly appointed new clubhouse at 5500 South Broadway, Sunday, June 30. The new quarters are located on the Carondelet bluffs that overlook the river, and in point of location as well as in the structure itself it is doubtful if the club can be surpassed by any rowing organization in the West.

An interesting program has been arranged to commemorate the occasion, and the exercises will commence at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and continue for the remainder of the day.

GOLFERS READY TO START PLAY

The Preliminary Round in Big Normandie Tournament Scheduled for Noon on Saturday.

If the entrants in the city golf championship tournament play up to the form that they have been showing in their practice rounds this week on the Normandie Park Club links, where the tournament is to be held tomorrow, it will take a card close to 85 and surely unde 90 for the 18 holes to qualify for the championship match play. Though with the best 18 scores of the medal play being eligible for Class A, it is possible that the last few fortunates who go to make the number may creep in with scores of over 90.

The preliminary round will start tomorrow promptly at noon, and Arthur Stickney of the Country Club and W. H. McGill of the Normandie Park have drawn the vantage position of being the first pair to drive from the initial tee. Stickney, of course, ranks with his brother Stuart as one of the cleverest golfers of the city, and McGill is the most promising of the younger members of the Normandie, and has been playing close to 80 the whole week. Both men should surely qualify.

TO GET RID OF COCKROACHES

Simple Way That Succeeds in Government Departments.

In many of the Departments at Washington where they were troubled with the cockroach pest, they found Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste gave the most satisfactory results. COLLEGE CREWS LAST PRACTICE

Cornell Has Greatly Improved for the Regatta Next Wednesday at Poughkeepsie.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 21.—The last practice of the seven crews assembled here in training for next Wednesday's intercollegiate regatta taught these lessons:

The Cornell varsity is greatly improved since the shake-up of last Monday, which infused new blood into the crew.

The Cornell freshmen are apparently so much superior to the others that backers of the red and white crew find no takers of their money on this event, and speculative observers regard it as a foregone conclusion that these freshmen will win.

Pennsylvania, not heretofore viewed with any favor, has shown in a time trial that it can go four miles faster than almost anybody supposed. Columbia continues strong and is showing daily improvement in the estimation of Coach Rice.

The naval cadets have beef, but lack the finish of Cornell and most of the other crews. Still, they are regarded as the most dangerous element.

SWIM MEETING ABOARD YACHT

Russell Gardner Calls Promoters of Ten-Mile Race Together for a Conference.

Promoters and supporters of the river carnival and 10-mile swim which will be held here in the fall hold a meeting at 5 o'clock this afternoon on board Russell E. Gardner's yacht Annie Russell, at the foot of Elm street.

The meeting is for the purpose of offering suggestions and giving counsel in regard to the proposed carnival. Mr. Gardner is chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

At this afternoon's meeting, which is the second that has been held in connection with the affair, working committees will probably be formed, and the work of perfecting arrangements for the big event will be proceeded with.

Some High Diving.

It is proposed to make diving from the Eads Bridge a feature of the carnival, and a race for women swimmers will also be added to the program. The date of President Roosevelt's visit to St. Louis, Oct. 2, has been tentatively agreed upon as the best day to hold the swim.

Many stanch supporters of the carnival seem to think that the river will be too cold for a long swim in October, while others believe that being the Indian summer time, weather conditions will be ideal for a contest of this kind.

HAASE'S
UNEEDA WEEDA

O! Weather Bird, ye truthful seer,
To whom all glories doth appear,
Pray tell me of a smoke, sublime,
That'll make my life as bright as thine.

The're many brands, I've tried 'em all,
The biggest ones and then the small,
But in each one something amiss
Robs me of my wonted bliss.

Uneeda Weeda, 'tis nature's best;
It'll satisfy your every guest;
The quality's good, and Union Made;
They're in the lead, where'er displayed.

Now, try one, friend, dismiss your frown;
You'll find them finest in the town;
Just five apiece, the price is small;
Be gen'rous, and buy one for all.

TRIED VAINLY TO SAVE COMRADE

Young Man Drowns at Edwardsville in Spite of Companion's Efforts.

W. Clyde Rittenhouse, night telegraph operator for the Wabash at Edwardsville, was drowned Thursday afternoon while swimming with John Votrain, a friend, in Wolf Lake on the outskirts of the town. In attempting to save Rittenhouse, Votrain was drawn twice under the water and reached the shore completely exhausted.

Rittenhouse was 21 years old Wednesday. He was a good swimmer, and Votrain, a year his junior, is accounted expert among the young men of Edwardsville. They went into the lake, formerly the town reservoir, at 1:30 p. m., and after half an hour decided to swim out toward its center.

Sixty feet from shore, in water 12 feet deep, Rittenhouse gasped that his strength was failing and started to turn back. As he did so he sank, and Votrain, catching him as he rose, was drawn under by the drowning man's struggles. He cried loudly for help and as he rose the second time set out desperately for shore, hopeless of saving his companion.

The cries were heard by Craigie Sharp, superintendent or a factory on the southeast side of the lake, who jumped into his motor boat, obtained a grappling hook and after 20 minutes got the body of Rittenhouse to shore.

Votrain was so exhausted from his efforts that he was unable to talk for some time. The father of Rittenhouse lives at Lovington, Ill. He reached Edwardsville Friday to take charge of his boy's body.

Boy's Arm Broken on Car.

Richard Carney, 14 years old, of 2318 Mullanphy street, was seriously injured when the tongue of a wagon collided with the back platform of a Cass car at Sixth and Cerre streets Thursday night. The wagon was driven by William Barry, a negro of 2223 Morgan street, who in trying to avoid a collision had swung his horse abruptly causing the tongue to be thrown onto the platform where Carney was standing. Carney's left arm was fractured.

RICH WOMAN FOUND GUILTY OF TORTURING HER SERVANT TO DEATH

MRS EMMA KAUFMANN.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLANDREAU, S. D., June 21.—Mrs. Moses Kaufmann, society woman and the wife of a rich brewer of Sioux Falls, was found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Agnes Polreis, a 16-year-old girl who had been in her employ as a servant.

All the wealth and social prestige of the Kaufmanns was pitted against the sentiment that justice be done. The victim was a poor foreigner, practically unknown and friendless. The entire West has taken the deepest interest in the case.

The case went to the jury last evening, the instructions of the court being impartial. The defense sought to show that the girl died of diabetes and denied everything in the cruelty charges.

The verdict was a great surprise and Mrs. Kaufmann and her relatives were stunned. Her attorneys immediately moved for a new trial, and arguments will be heard at Yankton, Oct. 10. Oct. 21 has been set for passing sentence on Mrs. Kaufmann, her bond of $25,000 standing.

WARSHIPS WILL NOT SAIL FOR PACIFIC COAST

Atlantic Fleet Has Not Been Ordered to the Western States.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Instructions have not been given to the powerful Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Evans to concentrate on the Pacific station in anticipation of war with Japan, irresponsible publications to the contrary notwithstanding. This statement was made by one of the highest naval authorities who said no such orders had been considered; that action is not anticipated, and that such a proposal is regarded as silly by the navy.

To order the Atlantic fleet, which consists of many battleships, to the Pacific station would be tantamount to a threat of war against Japan, as there is absolutely no use for such a fleet on the Pacific. This Government is doing all in its power to avoid anything which would give color to the idea that there is any hostility toward Japan.

Would Be Threatening.

The dispatch of the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific would be interpreted by Japan as evidence of hostile intent on the part of this Government, according to the view at the Navy Department.

The general plan for the summer maneuvers was delayed through the participation by the fleet in the naval pageant at the Jamestown Exposition. These vessels have now scattered. The third division of the Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Davis, comprising the battleships Alabama, Illinois, Kearsarge and Kentucky, will go to various navy yards for repairs. The Connecticut, which has not yet completed her target practice, went into dry dock yesterday for examination.

Itinerary of Fleet.

The battleships Iowa, Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota and Maine will remain at Hampton Roads for some time. The battleship Missouri will go to the Norfolk navy yard for repairs.

The Louisiana, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Georgia and Virginia are scheduled to leave Norfolk and go to Cape Cod, Mass., where they will engage in target practice. They will remain there three or four weeks. Upon the completion of target practice the ships needing repairs will be sent to the various navy yards. All the repairs will be completed early in September and the entire fleet will go to the West Indies for the fall target practice and tactical drills.

The battleships Washington and Tennessee will go to Bordeaux, France, to attend the International Maritime Exposition and will return to the United States late in August. These are the only two vessels of the fleet which will leave American waters, according to the itinerary which has been completed.

Does Not Expect War.

Copyright, 1907, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, June 21.—Thomas G. O'Brien, who has been promoted from United States Minister to Tokio to be the American Ambassador to Japan, sailed from Liverpool Thursday on the steamship Oceanic for New York. When the steamship arrived at Queenstown he was interviewed concerning the differences between America and Japan. He said:

"I do not think it likely they will end in any trouble. A few newspapers in both countries are the cause of the present crisis. But in the event of the two countries coming to war there could be no fear but the result would be a victory for America. But I trust that the matter will end peacefully."

Being asked what would be the best means of averting a rupture, he answered:

"Good sense, good feeling and a proper understanding."

MARKET RENTS RAISED BY CITY

Comptroller Says Increased Revenue Will Be Used for Repairs.

Since the city will not erect new markets in the next two years, Comptroller Player has notified tenants of the Union, Soulard and South markets of a prospective increase of rent to pay for the repairs of the old ones. The raise will range from 10 to 30 per cent, according to the location of various stalls.

At Union Market the rents range from $100 to $1000 a year and the increase in rent will add to the city from $10 to $20 a year on the smallest and from $100 to $300 on the largest stalls. The increase will be proportionate at the Soulard and South markets.
